DEATH TAKES DR. HIRSCH, NOTED DIVINE

One of the Foremost Jews of His Time.

Dr. Emil Gustav Hirsch, for forty-three years pastor of Sinai congregation, 46th street and Grand boulevard, and one of the foremost pulpit orators and scholars of the country, died at his home, 4608 Drexel boulevard, early yesterday morning, at the age of 71.

Dr. Hirsch had been confined to his bed for several days, although the first announcement of his serious illness was only made last Wednesday, when it was learned that he was suffering from pneumonia.

Grows Rapidly Worse.

He grew rapidly worse, and after consultation on Saturday night Drs. Isaac A. Abt, Otto Schmidt, and Solomon Strouse, all of whom had been in attendance on him, announced that they had abandoned hope of his recovery. The members of his family were summoned and were with him when the end came, soon after 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

He is survived by his widow, Matilda, and three daughters, Miss Dora Hirsch, Mrs. Sigmund Kirchheimer, and Mrs. Gerson B. Levi, and two sons, David E. and Samuel E. Hirsch.

Hold Funeral Tomorrow.

Funeral services will be held at the Sinai temple, 46th street and Grand boulevard, at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, and afterwards at Rosehill cemetery, where the interment will take place.

A memorial service will be held at some later date.

The honorary pallbearers at the funeral will be the three living ex-presidents, the board of trustees of Sinai temple, and the members of the Chicago Rabbinical association. The following will serve:

Rosenwald Honors Him.

High tribute to Dr. Hirsch's character and attainments was paid by distinguished Jews in Chicago yesterday.

Julius Rosenwald, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said:

"As one who has sat at his feet almost every Sunday morning for the last thirty-five years, I feel that a great moral force has gone. He was fearless in demanding that his congregation live up to the highest standards of morality and justice, and he never hesitated to chastise any member whom he believed had been unfair or unjust. Dr. Hirsch was equally insistent that the Jew do his full share in all matters of public concern.

"He was recognized as among the greatest Jewish scholars of his time, a worthy son of a great rabbi, whose loss is irreparable and whose place cannot be filled."

Others Pay Tribute.

"Dr. Hirsch was one of the greatest Jews of his time in the whole world," said Jacob M. Loeb, former president of the board of education. "Dr. William D. Harper, President Judson's predecessor at the University of Chicago, once said to me that his brain contained more knowledge than any one had ever met. The Jews of Chicago, of America, and of the whole world have suffered an irreparable loss in his death."

"Dr. Hirsch was a man of noble character and amazing capacity and ability," said M. Ernest Greenebaum, Chicago banker. "The influence of his work was far-reaching and will continue long after his death. We have all learned wonderful lessons from him and his work and teachings have been of untold benefit to the Jewish religion. He was the foremost of American rabbis. His intellect was marvelous and he possessed a remarkable memory."

AN HEIR AT LARGE

PART II.—CHAPTER XI.

Kewpie Williams, with an eagerness he could not conceal, prepared to start back to college. In his bag was the sweater with the letters N. E. emblazoned upon its breast; his mother had spent many loving hours knitting it, and her eyes shone as he picked it up from his special chair on Christmas morning. There was something in his expression she could not understand.

"What's the matter?" she exclaimed. "Isn't the color right—or the letters?"

For a moment he did not answer. Then he threw an arm about her shoulders and kissed her.

"It's fine, mother—perfectly beautiful and exactly right."

He hadn't the heart to tell her he had no right to wear letters on his sweater—that this privilege comes only after a boy has earned it by some athletic achievement. Even now, with her cheek pressed to his, he was wondering where he could hide it.

Kewpie was one of the first back in college. His roommate appeared the following morning, glowing with high spirits and singing as he unpacked. Very soon the picture of a young girl blossomed on his table. Frank, honest eyes looked out from beneath serene brows, and Kewpie felt a sudden sense of shame at the contrast between this fair young face and that of "Bee" Thornbrier, whose picture he had restored to its place on his chiffonier.

Kewpie was vaguely unhappy.

Evening found the dormitory filling up.

There was little work, but much visiting back and forth. Presents were compared, experiences were swapped, girls and dances and parties were talked about with many colorful adjectives.

The following day the stragglers came in by motor and train and life in a great university settled down to its normal stride. Welby, the great Welby, showed up late, proudly exhibiting a beautifully monogrammed flask, the gift of his number one girl. De Willing, elegant and enviable, arrived in a new roadster with a thunderous exhaust.

These two young men always affected Kewpie Williams with a sense of his hopeless inferiority. They made him feel like a worm, and yet they fascinated him. He strove to imitate Welby's elegance of manners and De Willing's studied carelessness of dress and hated himself for doing it.

The third evening, upon returning to his room, Kewpie found Harry L. Rasher comfortably stretched out in his easy chair.

"Well, Kewpie, what kind of a time?"

"O, so so," answered Kewpie. "The usual Christmas time—presents, parties, girls, dances. How about you?"

"Fine!" exclaimed Rasher. "I was up in the Adirondacks, where the hills are covered with Christmas trees. Nicest Christmas I ever had." Rasher's eyes rested for a moment on the picture of "Bee" Thornbrier. "Do you know where I can reach Miss Thornbrier?" he asked.

It was upon Kewpie's lips to ask why he wanted to find her, but he refrained.

"She's playing in Boston—the play's there for a run."

"She may be needed to testify," explained Rasher. "There is going to be trouble landing those crooks who held us up. They have some mysterious influence, but I'm determined to keep after them. You may have to testify—and do you know the names of the other boys who were in the party?"

"Lorrie Welby was one," answered Kewpie, "but he won't want to get mixed up in any court proceedings."

Rasher arose.

"I'll go see him."

Lorrie Welby had a suite of rooms in Braidwell hall, where his father and grandfather before him had roomed. Welby's father was now a leading New York lawyer.

Welby, deep in a novel, indicated a chair and a box of cigarets as Rasher entered.

"Been beating up any more policemen?" he asked.

"No, but I'm trying to convict those two—and it'll take some hard work to do it. They are little cogs in a big machine. I came to ask if you'll back me up in this fight." Welby's face sobered.

"What do you mean—testify and all that sort of thing?"

"Certainly, if necessary," answered Rasher.

Welby laughed and shook his head.

"Not much. I can't be involved in that mess."

"But you're already involved in it," said Rasher. "You were involving yourself in it when you went to that joint."

Welby's lips tightened.

"Well, I'm through with it," he announced. "They can keep the money they got from me—I've already kissed it good-by."

"That's all right for you," answered Rasher, "but some of the other boys can't afford to lose their money."

"Well, I'm sorry, but that's their lookout."

"You're going to take it lying down?" asked Rasher, deliberately. Welby flushed. People didn't talk to him in that tone. He looked at Rasher steadily for a moment, lighted his cigaret, and calmly resumed reading. When Rasher spoke, after a pause, his voice was even.

"Mr. Welby, perhaps I owe you an apology—at any rate, I apologize. You, of course, have a perfect right to do as you choose in the matter. The publicity would be unwelcome, and it's much easier to let the matter drop. But have you reflected what would happen if everybody refused to testify against criminals—because it's disagreeable?"

Welby lowered his book.

"That's a matter for me to decide," he said. "I don't care to have my name dragged through a police court. You may not be so particular. However, that's your business."

"You are willing these men should go unpunished?" asked Rasher.

"They can go to hell for all I care," retorted Welby, hotly, "and you, too, and don't let me detain you."

Rasher shrugged his shoulders and arose. "All right, if that's the way you feel about it."

That night, through his trustee in New York, he engaged, at a large fee, the famous New York lawyer, Lawrence Welby, to take personal charge of the prosecution of the two criminals.

Rasher was in the fight to stay.

LENIN AT DOOR OF DEATH, REPORT REACHES BERLIN

[Copyright: 1923: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—Premier Lenin is at death's door, and a last minute effort is being made to save him by rushing one of the greatest German neurologists to Moscow, according to information received from a confidential source. A brain specialist who has not hitherto been mentioned as having been called in consultation on Lenin's case—Dr. Voigt, head of the Neurobiological laboratory of Berlin university—left here for Moscow yesterday. It is understood that Dr. Voigt's mission is being camouflaged by having him go to Moscow as a delegate to the Russian neurological congress which will open on Tuesday for a five days' session.

FRENCH STEAMER SAVES 323 FROM GERMAN LINER

HAVANA, Jan. 7.—[By Associated Press.]—Three hundred and twenty-three passengers from the German trans-Atlantic liner Holsatia, Hamburg to Havana, which is stranded on a sand key in the Florida channel, near Graysport reef, have been taken on board the French liner De La Salle, according to wireless messages picked up here this evening.

The American steamer Esperanza also has some of the passengers. Both the rescue ships will arrive here tomorrow.

Tugs from Key West are standing by the Holsatia, which apparently is undamaged.

LAKES FENDING STORMS OFF CITY

Force Cold to North or South of Here.

BY SELBY MAXWELL.

The region to the southeast of the great lakes, lower Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, and a part of Illinois and of Pennsylvania, experiences much milder weather than it would if the lakes were not there. Cold winter winds blow from the northwest, and they pile up a blanket of warmer air over these states.

The greatest average number of cold waves in a period of ten years for these several states are: Southern Michigan, 23; Ohio, 28; Indiana, 30; Chicago, 32; northern Michigan, 58; Missouri, 44; Iowa and Wisconsin, each 65; Minnesota, 100.

This bank of steadier air causes cold waves positively to shun the region.

Three Blizzard Rights-of-Way.

Storms in crossing the United States almost always follow one of three routes. The northern track leads along the Canadian shore of Lake Superior, the southern track follows up the Ohio river valley, while a central route passes over the lower end of Lake Michigan. The northern trail is the preferred one. Eighteen cold waves follow it to eleven along the southern route, and eight on the central one.

Whenever there has been a rapid succession of storms along the Superior track a blanket of warm lake air forms ahead. Then when the storms would bend south to pass over New England they cannot, for their way is blocked with air of a different sort. As the next best thing, clear back in the far northwest they begin a swing into the Ohio track, so they can escape from America at New York.

The cold weather we had in December was largely of the Superior type. The cold winds closed their own orbit to themselves. Now they are all flowing south of Chicago. This is the explanation of the persistent wet winds of the last few weeks.

Getting Ready for April Showers.

Our present weather is drawing water vapor in from the Gulf of Mexico. This is to continue until spring. The April rains are gathering now.

This week is to be considerably colder than last week. A minimum temperature of six above zero by Thursday and Friday would not be surprising. If you have saved your TRIBUNE weather forecast for January you may be interested to know that the recorded temperatures so far are everywhere within five degrees of the average predicted ones.

H. SCHLESINGER MAY BE VICTIM OF KIDNAPERS

Police of Two Cities in Wide Search.

Hugo Schlesinger, 63 years old, a millionaire and the retired president of the Vera Chemical company of Milwaukee, Wis., has been missing since Friday afternoon, when he checked out of Hotel La Salle, Chicago, and gave no word of his plans.

Both Chicago and Milwaukee police have been searching hospitals, hotels, and railway stations for the missing man. Because he is a member of one of the wealthiest and most prominent families in Milwaukee, it is feared by some that he may have been kidnaped.

Schlesinger's disappearance became known last night when it was reported to the Hyde Park police by his nephew, Prof. Herman Schlesinger of the University of Chicago.

Mysterious Phone Call.

A mysterious telephone call to the Milwaukee police last night by a person in Chicago who represented himself as a relative of the Schlesinger family and requested the telephone number of Louis Schlesinger, a brother, president of the Bradley Manufacturing company, has further complicated the case.

The police are inclined to regard this telephone call as a ruse, perhaps by the kidnapers, to establish communication with the Schlesinger family, with a view to ransom.

Arman and Harry Schlesinger, multimillionaire owners of the Goodrich Tire and Rubber company and the Milwaukee Coke and Gas company, nephews of the missing man, have been notified and are taking an active part in the search.

Hugo Schlesinger left Milwaukee over the Chicago and Northwestern railroad at 6 o'clock Thursday evening. Shortly after 8 o'clock that night he approached Harry Saugner, a guard in the Northwestern station here.

"I've got $5," he told Saugner, "and I want the best room I can get for that price."

The guard stared at him in amazement.

But Schlesinger was insistent upon sleeping in the station.

After some questioning Saugner took Mr. Schlesinger to Hotel La Salle, where he spent the night.

In talking to the railroad guard Mr. Schlesinger said he was on his way to California.

Pays Bill and Leaves.

Friday afternoon the millionaire paid his bill at the hotel and departed, leaving no forwarding address. He has not been seen since.

Prof. Schlesinger told the police that his uncle had no relatives in California but said that a friend lived in Los Angeles. Wires to the authorities in that city, however, failed to reveal any traces of Mr. Schlesinger.

Members of the family asserted that they did not believe Mr. Schlesinger had undertaken a trip to the coast. He had little money when he left Milwaukee, they declared, and, although he carried his check book, would have been unable to cash a check here for lack of identification.

Quiz Hotel Employés.

Lieut. William Cusick and his squad from the detective bureau questioned relatives of the missing man and also quizzed hotel employés. None of the latter had noticed anything peculiar in the actions of the missing man, they said.

Prof. Schlesinger told detectives that his uncle had been failing recently and was quite childish.

Alhough it is possible Mr. Schlesinger may be wandering about the city, Prof. Schlesinger fears his uncle may be in the hands of kidnapers, for whom he would be easy prey.

When he left Hotel La Salle Mr. Schlesinger wore a dark suit, a black hat, and a black overcoat. He is about 5 feet 7 inches tall, has light hair, shot with gray, and stoops slightly as he walks.

Auto Exhaust Gas Kills Man Working in Garage

Gas from the exhaust pipe of his automobile, which he was cleaning, caused the death yesterday of William Summers, 55 years old, 4356 Costello avenue. His car was in a garage in back of 2021 North Kenneth avenue. He was found dead by Louis C. Greber, 4356 Costello avenue, a friend.

Five Firemen Hurt at Blaze as Wall Falls

Five firemen were injured, three narrowly escaping death when a wall collapsed leaving two hanging to scaffolding and hurling the third into telephone wires which broke his fall, in a fire last night which destroyed the four story stone and brick Yale building at 332-4-6 West 63rd street. The damage was estimated at $250,000.

Walter Erickson, James O'Brien, and Frank Rose of company No. 51 were working on a fourth floor fire escape at the back of the building when the east wall collapsed. Erickson was hurled outward, but landed in the midst of a score of telephone wires, which broke his fall and probably saved his life. The two others hung to a scaffolding until ladders could be erected to them. None was injured seriously.

Capt. William Goebig of Squad 3 received a broken arm when débris from the wall hit him, while another fireman was badly bruised.

The fire started in the Shaw & Shaw Knitting company, on the fourth floor, and was given impetus by quantities of alcohol stored in the Superior Perfume company, on the same floor.

At the request of Fire Marshal Seyferlich electric current was shut off in the neighborhood, plunging cafes, homes, St. Bernard's hospital, and the Englewood police station into darkness for more than an hour.

Embassy Rum Leaks All Over Capital, Claim

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[By the Associated Press.]—Sources of what are described as "embassy" liquors which, it is claimed, have been finding their way into the illicit traffic in Washington in large quantities, are sought by the District of Columbia police as a result of three successive raids in as many apartment houses in the fashionable northwest section.

Lieut. O. T. Davis, chief of the vice squad, under whose direction the raids were conducted, declared today that there were indications of an organized traffic in liquor brought in by some of the embassies and legations. Information has reached the police, he added, that attachés of some of these establishments have been parties to this traffic.

Among the so-called exclusive "bootleggers" who handle high grade liquors are a number of women, according to the police, whose clientele includes many of the participants in what the authorities term the "high life" of the national capital.

In the latest raid Lieut. Davis and his squad, which included federal officers, took into custody a man who said he was from Guatemala and Mrs. Elizabeth Hecht and seized a large quantity of imported wines and whiskey.

Lieut. Davis said Mrs. Hecht admitted that the liquors found in her apartment were from foreign sources. He added that the man arrested had claimed ownership of the liquor, and had protested against its seizure on the ground that it was the property of a diplomat.

Federal prohibition enforcement officers said today they had not yet received official reports from the government agents participating in the raids, but added that if investigations should disclose that liquors imported by embassies and legations were flowing into illegal channels the matter would be laid before the state department.

FRENCH TROOPS MASS FOR DASH TO TAKE ESSEN

German Threats of General Strike.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

DUSSELDORF, Jan. 7.—The French army on the Rhine is ready to march. The preparation of the first units in the Dusseldorf area began this morning. The main body of troopers to be used for the occupation of the Ruhr, estimated at 40,000, has not yet received its marching orders, but it will move at a moment's notice.

The troops, I was told at Mayence this afternoon, might entrain before Monday morning. The occupation will not begin before Wednesday morning. However, if then it is required, trains will move the small bodies of troops which will make the preliminary occupations.

First Advance to Essen.

Highly placed informants assert that Marshal Foch has ordered an advance from Dusseldorff as far as Essen at the moment the reparation commission finds that Germany is in default on coal deliveries, not waiting for Jan. 15 for the cash installment to fall due. It is estimated that armored cars, light tanks and motor trucks carrying troops will reach Essen within three hours' march of the present positions, seizing control of the city until infantry and cavalry have arrived and completed the possession.

French Well Equipped.

Dusseldorf tonight is buzzing with anticipation and rumors. Nearly every train from the south brings a few French troops, seldom more than one company, but all in full marching order, with iron rations and equipment to a shiny new pair of hobnail boots strapped to each field kit. Officers who have been on leave are being hastily recalled and are joining their units.

The concentrations today were carried out in such a way as to attract the least attention. The men moved in companies of 50 or 100, arriving at the stations where they were to entrain only a few minutes in advance of the train time. Third class carriages had been reserved for them. The doors were hastily unlocked, the men filing in in close rank. For this reason, unless one stayed at a railroad station at Mayence from morning to night, or at Dusseldorf to check detraining movements, it would be impossible to estimate the numbers of French troops which had been brought to this area within the last eighteen hours.

Rumor of Big Strike.

Meanwhile the whole Rhine valley is humming with rumors of the passive resistance which would follow the entrance of the French troops into the Ruhr. I traveled up from Lausanne today, talking with German civilians at many railway stations where I stopped. They are united in the belief that there will be a general strike in the Ruhr as soon as the occupation movement is executed. This prediction is discounted at French headquarters. The French say it is a bluff, and the occupation in no wise will disturb this great industrial section.

There is even some talk among German civilians of a general strike in the whole Rhine valley, which I believe can be discounted entirely.

FRENCH FOR U. S. ACTION

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The United States senate's vote to recall the American contingent at Coblenz is regarded in government circles as an additional reason for not losing any time in occupying the regions envisaged, as this action may be followed by a protest statement from Washington urging against military measures. Such a step by America would seriously bother the French unless it was fait accompli and the Ruhr already had been seized.

A certain diplomatic group urges the deputies immediately to begin a debate on the Washington treaties on Tuesday, when the chamber will reconvene, stifling long discussions and passing the treaties immediately. Certain leaders assert that ratification of the Washington treaties by France would placate the Washington administration and make it leave France's hands free toward Germany.

Tomorrow afternoon Herr Fischer will appear in the Astoria hotel to contest the charge that the Germans are willfully in default in coal deliveries and a decision may not be reached until Tuesday. The German embassy says it is in ignorance of rumors from Berlin that Chancellor Cuno is preparing eleventh hour proposals surpassing the British plan, although far short of the French demands.

BERLIN BEWAILS THREAT

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—While bewailing the occupation of the Ruhr as almost a death blow to German economic life, industrial, financial and labor government leaders are unanimous in declaring that France indirectly is paying the fiddler. The general feeling is that France has sacrificed reparations for political and military advantages, at the same time getting for itself control of the combined French and German iron industry, which will put England at a serious disadvantage.

It is generally conceded that the cost of the occupation practically will wipe out the receipts gained through the seizure. It is pointed out that Premier Poincare's plan to place a 40 per cent tax on the coal production of the Ruhr, the output of which in October was 8,700,000 tons, will bring only $8,000,000 monthly. France already is receiving one-sixth of the output.

During October Germany imported from England 2,750,000 tons. A 40 per cent increase means that German coal will be more expensive than English coal. Every industry throughout Germany is seriously affected, which will weaken Germany's ability to pay still further. As the government now insists it is doing everything to pay the maximum of its capacity the consequences of the occupation, it is said, will be that France will get less now than was offered.

Fiscal Expert's View.

Francis Urbig, manager of the Discontogesseleschaft and a leading financial expert, in an interview today said:

"The occupation of the Ruhr admittedly will get no money for France. If she wants a political advantage, she possibly may thus obtain it. The occupation will only ruin Germany and, consequently, the possibilities of paying reparations. Dissatisfied with our proposals, France, if she carries out her threat, will learn, like the man who killed the goose which laid golden eggs, that we are able to pay nothing; and assertions that France will continue negotiations with Germany after the occupation are senseless.

"Germany never will consent to separate negotiations after such militaristic, imperialistic measures. French politicians will learn that the German industry in the Rhineland has not as much riches as they believed. The occupation may ruin it for years. Who, then, will pay reparations when the strongest industry in Germany is gone?

"France insists on continuing her policy of force, and I am sure that in less than half a year the ruin of French credit and French money will follow. The dropping franc already is a barometer of the consequences. Then France will see the irreparable mistake of her leaders."

Socialist Is Philosophical.

The Socialist leader Breitscheid warns against nationalist demonstrations, insisting that Germany's fulfillment policy must be continued to prove Germany's good will to pay to its full capacity.

On the other hand, Helferich, the Nationalist leader, says:

"Our army is ruined, but there are other arms for the people, who must fight for independence and national existence. Even German patience has an end."

The Tageblatt and Vossische Zeitung, democratic newspapers, urge the population to be calm, hoping that English or American intervention still will avert the catastrophe.

Danger of Labor.

Besides the direct effects on German industry outside of the Ruhr area and the additional cost of the occupation, there are possibilities of labor troubles in protest against the French action, which will decrease production still further. French, Belgian, Italian, Holland, and Czecho-Slovakia communists are conferring in Essen to protest against the occupation of the Ruhr. The Red Flag here characterizes this as the "first batle of the proletarian against French politics." Big demonstrations have been arranged to take place in Dusseldorf and Crefeld. Cologne workers also have adopted resolutions against the French occupation.

In main, the population is reported to be in a high state of excitement. Besides the natural dislike by the people of the Ruhr of seeing French soldiers come in, they have organized boycotts and demonstrations in an effort to embarrass the invaders.

Government officials are silent, awaiting developments, although Chancellor Cuno has had several meetings of the cabinets in the last few days. This morning Herr Bergmann reported from the Paris conference, but the promised official statement is still withheld pending further discussions tomorrow.

French Under Cover.

COBLENZ, Jan. 7.—[By the Associated Press.]—French troops under the command of Maj. Gen. Allen in the American area have been ordered confined to quarters to prevent clashes between them and the Germans.

The American forces here, numbering 107 officers and 1,080 men, are carrying on all the duties of occupation.

Today there was a general feeling of tension and depression among the Americans, for the resolution of Senator Reed, passed in Washington Saturday, was quickly accepted as meaning the beginning of the end of the American occupational forces on the Rhine. The men are giving themselves sixty days more of life here, with their incomes of 3,000,000 marks a year and upward.

There are 280 officers and 1,426 men in the French forces at Coblenz under Gen. Martin, who reports to Maj. Gen. Allen. The orders for the French troops to remain off the streets came from Gen. Begoutte, the allied commander in chief at Mayence.

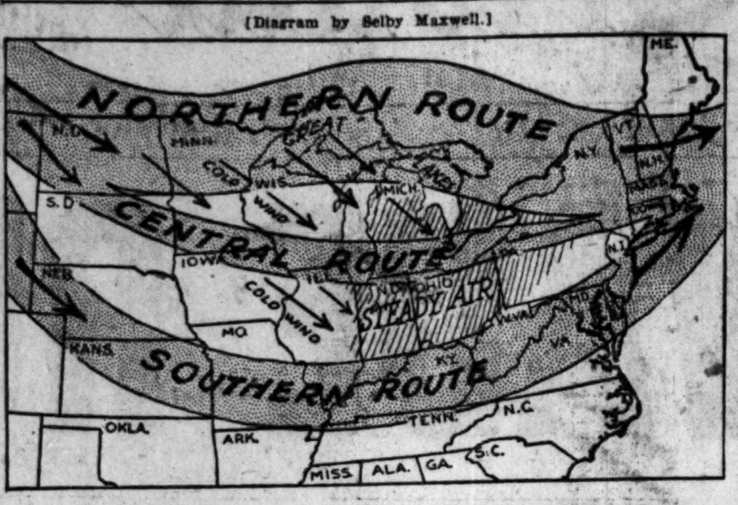
The American forces on the Rhine comprise 41 officers and 850 men of the Eighth infantry, in addition to quartermasters', signal and hospital corps and engineers' and motor repair units. The force is to be further reduced in February by the return of a casual detachment of enlisted men whose time has expired. The American forces now have only 465 horses left for mounts and wagon trains.

Berlin Wants Yanks to Stay.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—[United News.]—Hopes are expressed in official circles that President Harding will veto the resolution passed by the United States senate providing for the withdrawal of American troops from the army of occupation. In governmental quarters the hope was expressed that the American soldiers would remain in Germany as long as any of the soldiery of the allies.

WHERE BLASTS MEET ZEPHYRS

[Diagram by Selby Maxwell.]



The map shows the three principal paths of cold waves across the central west. The predominating wind in winter is from the northwest. This drift carries warm air from the lakes over the states to the southeast, lower Michigan, Indiana, and Ohio. The warm air there is now deflecting storms down along the southern route and is making them draw in the moisture from the gulf that will give us a wet, late spring.

AUSTRALIA FOR U. S. ACT

BY JACK MYERS.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SYDNEY, Jan. 7.—The Australian press, commenting on the European situation, sees a solution by American intervention.

The Melbourne Age says: "As the confusion is more confounded, and the dangers increase, America's attitude of aloofness is more untenable. Had America taken the right place in helping settle the question of reparations, it is probable that the world would have been saved a lot of misery. Peace in the world depends on business agreement and international finance. Can the chief creditor and strongest financial power callously stand aloof awaiting its toll while its debtors struggle through accumulating woes and dangers?"

Crux of Problem?

The Sydney Herald describes the American debt as the crux of the whole problem, and hopes an agreement will emerge from the economic conference which America proposed when the reparations question was being discussed. The reëntry of America in the European scene may solve the problem, says the Herald.

The Sydney Telegraph hopes participation by the United States at the eleventh hour will avert a crisis.

DUBLIN TROOPS KILL 7, WOUND 19, IN 7 HOUR BATTLE

DUBLIN, Jan. 7.—[United News.]—Seven rebels were killed and nineteen wounded in week-end fighting in Dublin. The battle between Free State troops and 150 insurgents continued for seven hours and resulted in the retreat of the latter.

The fighting centered in Mills street, the rebels first capturing an outpost where two soldiers, disguised as priests, were shot.

Fifty irregulars led the attack against the Carnegie library. The rebels sprayed houses in the vicinity with gasoline in an effort to set them ablaze.

Raid Republican Paper.

DUBLIN, Jan. 7.—State troops last night raided the premises of the Bulletin, the republican organ, and seized printing presses and a quantity of ammunition. The Bulletin celebrated its first anniversary a few days ago. Two of its former editors, Erskine Childers and Liam Mellowes, were executed by the Free State authorities. The paper sold openly in the streets until recently and was obtainable by whispering "Republic" to the newsboys who had it secreted in their clothes.

The republicans today started public protests against reprisal executions. Each afternoon of the coming week a petition will be displayed near the ruins in Sackville street, and the public will be invited to sign.

Maud Gonne McBride, one of the women leaders of the Sinn Fein, who was arrested Friday, has been liberated and today again was standing amid the ruins of Sackville street, repeating her protests against alleged ill-treatment of prisoners. She also attended the Sinn Fein convention.

WARNS HUSBAND TO THINK BEFORE PHILANDERING

"'Don't let my wife know about this!' It's pitiable to hear them beg."

With these words Dr. H. N. Bundesen, health commissioner, described the way married men caught in vice raids plead for immunity. He spoke last evening in the Grace Methodist Episcopal church, Locust and La Salle streets, before a mixed audience. He referred with approval to the article in THE TRIBUNE of Sunday by Carl Glasscock on the revelations of vice and cited the article as proof of alarming conditions.

"These married men who get a sudden shock of alarm when they are caught ought to have thought of the consequences before they began living a double life," he said.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 7.—(London Telegraph.)—The Greek Eleventh division, which was fifteen miles west of Karagatch, has now moved into town, where a French infantry regiment is stationed. The French protested, and the Greek commander registered the protest, but he said he intended to stop his troops now on the west bank of the Maritza river, facing Adrianople.

PARIS, Jan. 7.—M. Barrere, French delegate in chief to the near east parley, arrived from Lausanne today and conferred with Premier Poincaré a long while. I understand they agreed that the sole means for preventing a disruption of the near east conference is for the French and Italians jointly to put pressure on the British to ameliorate their terms with the Turks. M. Barrere reported that Ismet Pasha had been instructed from Angora not to recede an inch and to break up the conference rather than abandon a single principle of the national pact.

Hitherto Lord Curzon had solidly controlled the French and Italian delegates in supporting the British policy, resulting in a series of deadlocks.

Premier Poincaré is reported to have given M. Barrere greater latitude in the deadlocked points.

INDIA ENVOYS TO ANGORA

BY OTIS SWIFT.

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 7.—Headed by the notorious revolutionist, Mehemed Veilhan, a delegation of twenty Indians, coming from Punjab via Afghanistan, have arrived in Trebizond, en route to Angora, where they will confer with the Kemalists for support of their policy to coöperate in the Lausanne conference. There they intend to expose what they think is the lamentable situation of the Indian peoples before the world and to demand justice.

"We intend to ask the Kemalists for their support," said Mehemed Veilhan. "India is awakening and is disquieted with England, and rightly. Punjab is in an open state of armed rebellion, while elsewhere in India a complete boycott of English goods is having a tremendous effect."

According to unconfirmed reports, emanating from Turkish sources, Arab revolutionist irregulars have occupied Mosul, expelling the British forces. The reports allege that the British troops have withdrawn from Bagdad.

This report was denied in London yesterday.

FRENCH WARN GREECE

BY FRANK WILLS.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

ATHENS, Jan. 7.—The French minister here today visited the Greek foreign minister and stated, in the name of the French government, that attention had been drawn to the preparations for war on the part of Greece and the recent bellicose statements of high Greek officials. This, he said, had produced a bad impression on the Lausanne conference and was not contributing to the cause of peace.

Turks Criticize Childs.

LAUSANNE, Jan. 7.—[By the Associated Press.]—Ferid Bey, the Turkish nationalist representative at Paris who is at present in Lausanne, said today:

"Should the conference break down, we will return home and wait until the allies agree to our present terms. We will thereby possibly reduce the national debt further and save money that would otherwise be spent in commerce."

"We are quite willing to sign separate treaties with any country; we are most anxious to sign a commercial agreement with the United States, although the attitude of Ambassador Child at Lausanne so far has run counter to what appears to us for the interests of the United States. While we like Americans above all others in certain respects, it would seem to us by Ambassador Child's declaration regarding the open door that the American oil interests have succeeded in getting a promise of part of Mosul from the British. The Americans are satisfied with this, whereas it is not at all certain that the British will get Mosul."

After a silence of many days the Russian delegation came much into life tonight.

M. Tchitcherin sent a communication to the three presidents of the conference setting forth his astonishment at learning that a straits settlement was being elaborated and would be sent to the Russians in due time. He was amazed, he said, that the Russians had not been permitted to participate in framing this project, and warned the powers such secret methods would not win Russian accord.

SIFT BRUTALITY CHARGE AGAINST PARENTAL SCHOOL

The Juvenile court will open an investigation into charges of brutality on the part of Frederick E. Smith, principal, and other officers of the Chicago Parental school, made last week before Judge Jacob M. Hopkins in the Criminal court. The charges were made when a petition was filed by Attorney William S. McNamara on behalf of Albert Lisula, 16, of 4736 South Elizabeth street, a pupil of the school.

"About a week ago truant officers appeared at the Lisula home and seized the boy," Mr. McNamara said. "He had been at home working—his mother needed his help. When the lad sought to escape from the officers, who wanted to take him back to the school, they beat, kicked, and choked him. They did not cease their brutality until neighbors interfered."

HARDING TO MEET HUGHES, WEEKS ON RHINE TROOPS

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—As a result of the senate's recommendation that American troops be recalled from the Rhine, President Harding will decide this week, after consultation with Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of War Weeks, whether to take that step or keep the American force at Coblenz a while longer.

About 1,200 soldiers are on the Rhine for diplomatic reasons not yet disclosed. In view, however, of the almost unanimous action of the senate it would occasion no surprise if the President were to decide that diplomatic reasons are outweighed by more recent developments.

Noyes Writes to Borah.

Pierrepont B. Noyes, former Rhineland commissioner and official representatives at Coblenz in 1919-'20, has written to Senator Borah [Rep., Ida.], urging the immediate recall of the Americans unless America is willing to go to Europe officially and put initiative into the settlement of European problems in the interest of world peace.

"If as a nation we are not yet ready to face whatever political inconsistency is involved in taking an active leadership in European reconstruction," Mr. Noyes wrote, "we at least owe it to our self-respect to recall our soldiers. The continued occupation of the Rhine provinces of Germany is making a mockery of European peace.

"We're Entanged Now."

"To one who has seen at close range the details of the German 'occupation' and has sensed the ambitious intrigues which continually hover around this army so strategically placed for military aggression, it is hard to conceive an 'entanglement' with Europe more inconsistent with our refusal to support any association organized to improve the chances of peace. It is equally hard to conceive any entanglement more likely to drag us willy-nilly into the next war."

QUIZ DOCTORS IN MYSTERY DEATH OF MRS. BROZ

They are Drs. Chester C. Moe, 6820 Windsor avenue, Berwyn, and Joseph F. Jaros, 19 North Crawford avenue. The latter is her cousin.

BONUS BLANKS TO BE MAILED BY MIDDLE OF WEEK

Bureau at Springfield Gets Into Action.

OSCAR NELSON.

Application blanks for soldiers' bonus will be in the hands of the various distributing bodies throughout the state some time this week.

That announcement was made yesterday by the service recognition board at Springfield. While no definite date for the mailing of these blanks from Springfield was set, members of the board stated that it was quite likely that the blanks will be put in the mail on Tuesday night. That would mean that they would reach the distributing bodies in most places on Wednesday.

Patriotic Societies to Get Supply.

The blanks will be mailed to every county clerk in the state, to every post of the American Legion, to every headquarters for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Spanish-American War Veterans and other patriotic organizations.

A supply of the blanks will be ready for the veterans who wish to make application at the Friend of the Soldier department of THE TRIBUNE. This office is located in the old Tribune building at 3 South Dearborn street. Experts familiar with every angle of the bonus, and notaries who will certify to blanks and discharge copies are ready to give the soldiers service.

Nelson Coming on Board.

Oscar Nelson, incoming state treasurer, and the third member of the service recognition board, will take office this morning at Springfield. With him on the board are Adjt. Gen. Carlos Black and Gov. Small.

It is believed that Mr. Nelson, the only nonadministration man on the board, will make a fight to have a voice in selecting the 300 clerks which the board will need before the $55,000,000 bonus paying machine gets fully under way.

M. V. L. HITS LACK OF GRAFT ACTION FROM ALDERMEN

Tells What One Fighting Council Could Do.

The Municipal Voters' league, in a report issued yesterday, commented upon the failure of the city council to investigate graft charges made against members of the city hall machine and made special mention of reports of the $100,000 alleged graft paid to "one of the principal cogs of the city hall machine by a firm selling coal to the city," records of which have been unearthed by Attorney General Brundage in the school scandal investigation.

The league's report follows:

"Graft is an ugly word. It has been appearing more and more constantly in the daily press in connection with experts, school trustees, matters affecting the police and fire departments, electric lighting contracts, etc.

Barb at Council Inaction.

"A dozen years ago, when similar charges were general, the council was an independent and fighting body. It started an investigation which uncovered and stopped wholesale grafting.

"Today, in spite of rumors of graft directly affecting the city, and in spite of indictments and convictions, the council evades its responsibility and does nothing."

The league presents the records of aldermen from the Twenty-eighth to the Thirty-fifth ward, inclusive:

TWENTY-EIGHTH WARD.

GEORGE M. MAYPOLE—Finishing third term. Voted 100 per cent against Faherty's experts; voted against confirming Davis and Severinghaus as school trustees and after their indictment voted to force their resignation; voted against asking legislature to increase Chicago's tax rate; introduced the resolution to investigate holdup of city employés in Riverview park picnic scandal; author of resolution to stop the mayor from holding back election returns. In view of his previous votes, his unfortunate speech supporting Dr. John Dill Robertson for school trustee just on the theory that "the mayor should hold the bag," was thoroughly inconsistent.

TWENTY-NINTH WARD.

JOHN G. HORNE—Finishing third term. Voted twice against Faherty's experts; voted against confirming Davis and Severinghaus and to force their resignation; voted to investigate Riverview park picnic scandal and against raise in tax rate. Not a particularly strong man, but has stood consistently for the independence of the council and has shown steady improvement.

SAMUEL O. SHAFFER—Finishing second term. Voted four times for Faherty's experts. Voted to confirm Davis and Severinghaus and against scandal. Voting record indicates blind investigating Riverview park picnic scandal. Voting record indicates bind following of political bosses against the best interests of the people.

THIRTIETH WARD.

JOHN S. CLARK—Finishing third term. Voted 100 per cent against Faherty's experts; voted to confirm Davis and Severinghaus, but after their indictment voted to force their resignation; voted against increased tax rate, but voted against investigating Riverview park picnic scandal.

THIRTY-FIRST WARD.

STANLEY S. WALKOWIAK—Finishing twelfth year in council. Voted four times for Faherty's experts. Voted for confirming Davis and Severinghaus and for increased tax rate, but voted for investigating Riverview park picnic scandal; has consistently opposed efforts to abolish the politically managed department of public welfare. Under the pressure of the last two years of the Thompson administration his record has shown a steady slump.

THIRTY-FIRST WARD.

THOMAS P. DEVEREUX—Finishing first term. Voted 100 per cent against the people and for Faherty's experts; voted against investigating Riverview park picnic scandal, and voted against forcing resignation of Davis and Severinghaus after their indictment. Has shown no fitness for the aldermanic office.

THIRTY-SECOND WARD.

JOSEPH H. SMITH — Finishing fourth term. Voted four times against Faherty's experts; voted against confirming Davis and Severinghaus and for forcing their resignation; voted for investigating Riverview park picnic scandal and against increase in Chicago's tax rate. Good voting record, consistent with his sturdy opposition to the greedy city hall gang.

THIRTY-THIRD WARD.

JOHN CZEKALA—Finishing second term. Voted 100 per cent against Faherty's experts; voted for investigating picnic scandal; made the junket to Europe. Has been a disappointment on streets and alleys committee. Record mixed.

JOHN A. PIOTROWSKI—Elected state senator. Not a candidate.

THIRTY-FOURTH WARD.

EDWARD J. KAINDL—Finishing third term. Voted twice for the people and three times for Faherty's experts; voted to confirm Davis and Severinghaus and voted against forcing their resignation. Man of some force, but has followed pretty consistently the lead of the city hall.

THIRTY-FIFTH WARD.

OSCAR H. OLSEN—Finishing second term. Voted 100 per cent against the people, for Faherty's experts; voted against confirming Davis and Severinghaus as school trustees, but voted against forcing their resignations; voted against investigating picnic scandal, and voted to increase tax rate. After his excellent service in his first term, this is a sorry voting record for a man of Ald. Olsen's superior abilities.

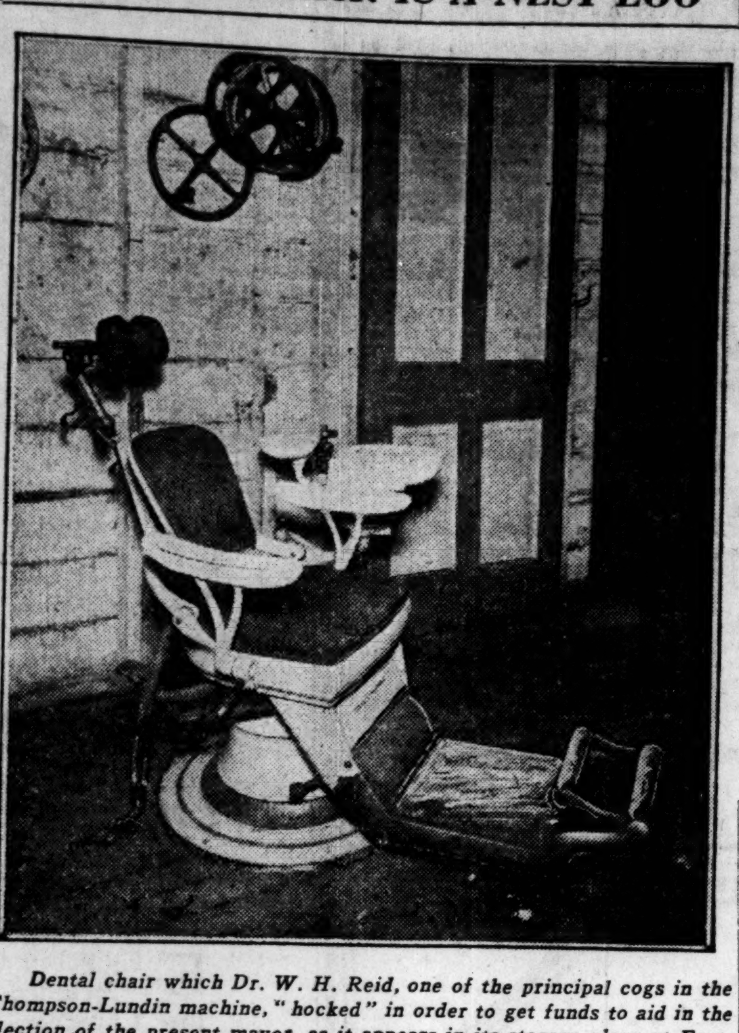
WHEN A CHAIR IS A NEST EGG



Dental chair which Dr. W. H. Reid, one of the principal cogs in the Thompson-Lundin machine, "hocked" in order to get funds to aid in the election of the present mayor, as it appears in its storage place at Eastwood Springs, Mich.

The Dentist's Pull

Revelation that Attorney General Brundage had in his possession records that showed Dr. William H. Reid, commissioner of public service in the Thompson administration, had been paid approximately $100,000 by the Pottinger-Flynn Coal company, which has obtained more than $3,000,000 in city coal contracts, yesterday turned attention to "the dentist with the real pull." The story of Dr. Reid's rise to power was told by the mayor himself when he stumped the old Thirty-first ward at the time that Reid was a candidate for ward committeeman.

In tones that were choked with emotion, he told his audience of Reid's fidelity, evidencing it by the story of how Reid had "hocked" the only dentist's chair he possessed to raise money for the first Thompson campaign fund. Thompson was elected and Reid became smoke inspector, although the law stipulates the smoke inspector must be an engineer. Later he was made commissioner of public service and is one of the mayor's intimates both personally and politically.

His career obviated all necessity of redeeming the hocked chair, for since then he has found other uses for his "pull." It was discovered yesterday in the ginger ale plant of James A. Pugh at Eastwood Springs, near Benton Harbor, Mich. Pugh was the original William Hale Thompson manager. He was discarded when Fred Lundin went into power, and has been at outs with the mayor and, of course, with the mayor's friends since. He says Reid has never seen fit to repay the loan on the chair.

"I'll give it to you if you want it," he said. "It's going to be a valuable relic of the Thompson régime."

OKLAHOMA CUTS LOOSE IN HONOR OF NEW GOVERNOR

Two Day Celebration Draws Throng.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 7.—[By Associated Press.]—With fires which were lighted at two o'clock this morning, burning steadily in the mile of barbecue pits at the state fair grounds here today. Oklahoma was slipping into a garment of festivities reminiscent of plain days for the inauguration celebration of Gov. elect J. W. Walton.

The new executive will take his oath of office in two ceremonies, one at noon tomorrow, and the second twenty-four hours later. The first ceremony will be in the stately white hall of representatives. The second will be out of doors, on a high platform constructed of roughly hued logs.

At the second ceremony, painted Indians in blankets, cowboys, farmers and herders, city men and country men, old timers, and the newest comers to a new land, will stand shoulder to shoulder, 200,000 in number, to witness the ceremony.

Highways Already Congested.

Roads leading into the city today were congested in every direction. Several ox trains presented obstacles which forced motorists to turn off smooth pavements.

The celebration will last until midnight Wednesday. The tons of barbed meat will not be ready to serve until Tuesday noon. Nearly two hundred freight carloads of wood will have been burned in the pits by tomorrow morning, leaving great beds of coals and hot stones, on which the meat will be roasted. One hundred thousand loaves of bread and one hundred thousand buns will be used in sandwiches for the multitude.

Here's Barbecue Menu.

The following is a list of the meats which will be barbecued, as announced tonight:

Cattle, 289; hogs, 70; sheep, 30; rabbits, 3,540; opossums, 134; squirrels, 25; bears, 3; buffalo, 2,000 pounds; reindeer, 1,500 pounds; deer, 15; chickens, 1,427; turkeys, 110; geese, 18; ducks, 34.

Two ten thousand gallon coffee urns have been erected, heated by a steam engine.

Every resident and visitor at the barbecue has been invited to dance at the capitol Wednesday night. It has been estimated that at least a thousand couples will find room to dance on each floor of the building, and the announcement has gone out that various kinds of dances will be guaged to the ages of the dancers on the different floors.

MORE PUPILS TO BE DOUBLED UP NEXT SEMESTER

Boodle Jury to Get Facts on Crowding.

Additional public school pupils, the number running into the hundreds, will, at the opening of the second semester next month, swell the ranks of the 40,000 boys and girls now compelled to attend classes on "overtime" schedules.

Inadequate facilities, for which the alleged raids on school funds now being investigated by a special grand jury are held partly responsible, have made it necessary to extend the school day in sixteen high schools and twenty-eight elementary schools, Supt. Peter A. Mortenson said last night, and this system will be extended.

"The lack of school room naturally is becoming more acute daily," said Mr. Mortenson, "because we add about 100 children a day to our rolls.

Sees Little Relief.

"There is no appreciable relief in sight, as there are only two new schools in course of construction, the Crane and the Tilden, and these will not be finished for a year or more.

"We have about 400,000 students, of which approximately 54,000 are in high schools. We are now carrying an overload of 10 per cent, or 40,000 students. We have had to resort to extended time schedules in sixteen of twenty-five high schools and in twenty-eight of 264 elementary schools.

"The annual increase in attendance during the last four years has averaged about 7,000. What with the increased cost of labor and materials and other unfavorable circumstances, the building program has not kept pace with the increase."

Have to Open at 8 o'Clock.

Mr. Mortenson said it might be necessary to add two or more schools next semester to those now on extended time schedules. The hours in these schools are from 8 a. m. to 4:45 p. m., regarded by many as too great a tax on student and teacher alike.

Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, in charge of the school graft investigation, has indicated his intention of determining to what extent alleged board of education irregularities are responsible for this condition.

For the time being, however, the investigation will follow up disclosures said to involve William H. Reid, commissioner of public service in Mayor Thompson's cabinet, in questionable dealings with the Pottinger-Flynn Coal company, which has obtained $5,000,000 worth of city and school board business.

2 GOOD FLAPPERS, F.O.B. HAREM, AND WRAP'EM UP GOOD

Ashen Neane, an electrician of Turkish birth living at 842 West Adams street, took one look at the picture of Princess Najieh, one of the former sultan's harem, in the Coloroto section of THE TRIBUNE yesterday and then rushed for the telephone with a demand for the "harem editor."

"Are those harem girls as pretty as their pictures?" he asked. Assured they were, he next queried concerning their willingness to marry a poor workingman, the cost of delivery, f. o. b. and c. o. d. in Chicago.

"This Princess Najieh is the one for me," he said. "She is certainly one fine flapper, as they say it here in America. How old is she?"

"About 18," was the answer.

"O, b-o-y!" drawled Ashen, in evident rapture. "Send her right out!"

A few minutes later Ashen called again.

"Say, you see that Princess Behie in the paper?" he said. "Well, I got a customer who wants to marry her. He's George Thomas, and he lives at 3005 148th place in Burnham. Send 'em both out together, will you? Don't forget, now."

Artist Named in Woman's Death Attempt Arrested

Named by Mrs. Mary Nelson, 1022 Byron street, who attempted to commit suicide on Saturday, as the man who had jilted her, John J. Mahen, 30 years old, 725 Sheridan road, said to be an artist, was arrested yesterday and held for investigation and questioning. Mrs. Nelson, who is a telephone operator at the Sheridan Arms hotel, was said to be recovering at the county hospital yesterday.

SLAYS HUSBAND TO SAVE HIM FROM MADHOUSE

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Charles Stackfelt was found dead from a bullet wound in his home in Paterson, N. J., and his wife, who has been confined to her bed for weeks by a hopeless illness, dying from two bullet wounds in the abdomen.

The police assert the shots were fired by Mrs. Stackfelt in the belief that she was saving her husband from a madhouse. In support of this assertion the police made public the following note, in a woman's handwriting, which they found on a table in the room in which Mrs. Stackfelt and her dead husband lay:

"Dear Eddie and Annie: Forgive me for what I have done. I am going mad. Send for his father and mother and ask them to put us away together.

"I have had bad health for seven or eight weeks. My poor man—I can't leave him alone! He is so good to me and I have to do it! I know if I don't he will go mad. I can't tell what hell I have been through for weeks. I looked for help from some one, but did not know how to tell it."

RIVER FOREST'S CHIEF AGAIN AWAITS WORST

If you get into trouble in River Forest you can tell it to Miss Bessie Hardgen, for she will become desk sergeant of the River Forest police force today. Miss Hardgen, who is 35 and lives in Oak Park, also will be police matron, it being customary to combine the two jobs in River Forest.

Miss Hardgen succeeds Miss Ethel Ganshaw, who has been desk sergeant for three months. She resigned without giving any reason, but Chief of Police William Laatz voluntarily supplied one.

"Whenever we get girl desk sergeants they always wait until I've got them well broken in, and then they get married," he explained. "Miss Ganshaw didn't say anything about getting married, but they always quit soon enough to get a trousseau—maybe it's something else; I don't know. But I hope Miss Hardgen stays single."

ACTOR IN K. K. K. PLAY IS HELD ON FLIRTING CHARGE

Charged with insulting a lady, Edward Poynter of Charlotte, N. C., a professional Southern gentleman, who takes the part of the fire-eating David Gordon in the Ku Klux Klan play, "The Invisible Empire," now showing at the Aryan Grotto, will be arraigned in the South Clark street court this morning.

"No Southern gentleman could insult a lady, suh!" he stormed, when approached by the escort of Miss Hazel Hamel, 2705 North Campbell avenue, in a Randolph street restaurant early yesterday.

But Miss Hamel, one of the party, said he winked at her. Later, Mrs. Perry Taylor, 2000 Humboldt boulevard, a companion of Miss Hamel, called an officer when, she says, he called her "girlie" and "kid" and insisted that she alight from her husband's auto, standing in front of the restaurant.

STEVENS IN DEAL TO PURGE RECORD BY QUICK PARDON

"Immune" Gunman Said to Be Near Surrender.

WALTER STEVENS.

Walter Stevens, gunman who boasts that he has never even paid a fine though arrested more than 200 times, is going to surrender, start his fourteen year Joliet sentence for attempted murder of an Aurora policeman and then receive one of Governor Small's numerous pardons, according to a man known to be in close touch with the Lundin-Thompson-Small machine.

This man also conveys the information that Ben Newmark, former private secretary to State's Attorney Crowe, soon will be appointed assistant state fire marshal, assigned to Chicago and given jurisdiction over incendiary fires. Newmark's job is certain, he said, but there still are some details of the Stevens' plans to be arranged.

Jumped $25,000 Worthless Bail.

"Stevens, who jumped his $25,000 bond—which later was found to be fraudulent—after the Supreme court had sustained his conviction and politicians had failed to save him, will start his sentence and then receive a pardon just as did William Bross Lloyd and the conscientious objectors," it was explained. "Stevens' only conscientious objecting seems to be to punishment for his many crimes, however.

"Some of Gov. Small's friends want Elmer Green made warden of the Joliet penitentiary. Green was the Waukegan sheriff during the governor's trial. He was made superintendent of prisons by the governor shortly after the trial.

Surrender to Small's Friend?

"When the ultimate disposition of Green is made you will hear of Stevens' surrender, his assignment to a soft job at Joliet for a few days, and then his pardon by the governor.

"The politicians know where Stevens is. He did some fine work for them in important cases and they won't let him suffer. He could be reached in an hour's notice."

Stevens was acquitted of murder of Policeman Alfred Olin in Aurora in 1919, but was convicted of attempt to murder Policeman Lester Wedermeter. Stevens has been arrested in connection with many notorious cases, including the $250,000 Haller-Rose jewel robbery, but always was immune.

WOMAN KIDNAPED AND ROBBED OF $5,000 JEWELRY

Escort's Car Overhauled by Bandit's Auto.

Four bandits kidnaped Mrs. Laurette Wright, 26 years old, wife of a wealthy member of a New York cooperage firm, early yesterday and robbed her of five diamond rings and a jewel studded wrist watch of a total value of more than $5,000.

Mrs. Wright has been spending the holiday season at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Cohan, 3715 Grenshaw street.

Meets an Old Friend.

While calling at the home of a friend, Miss Winifred Keeling, 736 California terrace, Saturday night, Mrs. Wright met several of her host's friends. A party was proposed, and at a late hour they went to a Chinese restaurant near Clark street and Belmont avenue. While in the cafe, she met John J. Cassidy, 2942 Wilson avenue, an old friend.

When the party broke up shortly after 3 o'clock Cassidy took the others to the home of Miss Keeling, and with Mrs. Wright started for the home of Mrs. Cohan.

While he was driving down Fifth avenue, near Lawndale avenue, the machine was overhauled by the car bearing the robbers. One of them stood on the running board of the machine, brandishing a revolver. He fired one shot through the window of the Cassidy machine and as it slowed down leaped on the step.

Smash Glass of Car.

Smashing a glass in the side of the limousine, the robber entered the car and was soon joined by three others. Three of Mrs. Wright's rings were wrenched from her fingers, before she was jerked from Cassidy's car, when two more rings and the wrist watch, which she had hidden in her lap, fell to the floor and also were seized.

Bundled into the bandit car, the couple were again searched, while the machine was being driven to Polk street and Kedzie avenue, where they were thrown out. The robbers left Cassidy $22 when he made a plea for carfare.

Rob Crowe of $620.

Beaten almost unconscious by two masked robbers, Michael Crowe, cousin of Alderman Dorsey Crowe, living at 811 Sheridan road, was robbed of $620 in the hallway of the apartment house early yesterday. Crowe, a cigar man, with offices at 3910 Sheridan road, saved a $2,000 diamond ring by placing it in his mouth.

Two considerate strangers in an automobile picked up Stephen Barry, 1211 West Adams street, and Julius Raske, 2166 North Rockwell street, at 28th and State streets. At Roosevelt road and May street, they drew revolvers and robbed Raske of $100 and Barry of $3.

When a colored robber confronted Mrs. Jessie Carson in her home at 1307 North Dearborn street with a demand that he be informed where the money was kept, she sent him to the cupboard in the kitchen. Running to the front door, she screamed and the robber fled.

Woman in Mourning Dies; Takes Poison in Park

Well dressed in full mourning, an unidentified woman about 40 years old was found lying, almost unconscious, in Humboldt park early yesterday. An empty bottle labeled "carbolic acid" was found beside her. She was taken to the Norwegian-American hospital, where she died about an hour later without making any statement and offering no clew to her identity. Coroner Oscar Wolff has ordered a postmortem examination.

DROPS DEAD IN HOME.

John Cudahy, 48 years old, a mail carrier, dropped dead yesterday in the kitchen of his home at 559 West 42d street. Heart failure was the cause of death.

OUT FOR MAYOR

William A. Cunnea, the first announced candidate for the mayoralty. He was nominated by the Socialists yesterday.

CITY'S PIONEER AUTO CLUB SOON TO CLOSE DOORS

The first automobile club founded in Chicago and one of the first motorist organizations in the country—the Chicago Automobile club—has failed to coax prosperity from around the corner and soon will close its doors because of inability to meet its obligations with the ever decreasing income from dues.

The building at 321 Plymouth court will be sold so soon as a purchaser can be found. It is believed that the sale will bring about $225,000, which is barely enough to clear up the club's debts.

When the club was formed in 1900 it included many of Chicago's leading citizens. The membership was 41, and this covered almost every automobile owner in Chicago then. A short time ago it officially changed its name to the Old Town club.

"Memberships have dropped steadily since the war," said B. B. Ayers, chairman of the house committee. "At the end of the war 800 persons were paying dues. Now there are only 100."

CUNNEA NAMED BY SOCIALISTS FOR MAYORALTY

While Republican and Democratic leaders spent the day behind closed doors yesterday discussing possible candidates of the timber to make a mayor the minor parties, the Socialist and Labor, met for the purpose of considering their candidates.

William A. Cunnea, a former candidate on the Socialist ticket for state's attorney and attorney for many labor unions, was nominated for the mayoralty by the Socialists at a meeting attended by 200 party members yesterday afternoon in Fleiner's hall, 1638 North Halsted street.

Pierce L. Anderson, official of the carpenters' union, was the Socialists' choice for city clerk, and Robert H. Howe, an associate of William Bross Lloyd, for city treasurer.

Adopt Union Planks.

Condensed, the socialistic platform as outlined yesterday contained the following measures:

Municipally owned elevated, street car and bus lines; municipal markets and fuel yards; municipal ownership of telephone, gas, and electric lighting systems; a city housing system and the elimination of the slum districts; municipal recreation grounds; an elective school board with teachers' representatives; concentration of local government; a new city charter; abolishment of non-partisan aldermanic elections; police protection for peaceful picketing; unionization of policemen, firemen, teachers, and other city employés.

May Drop Labor Candidacy.

At a meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor at Musicians' hall, 175 West Washington street, it became more than a possibility that no labor candidates would be placed on the ticket this April.

While the executive committee was instructed to investigate all candidates and their platforms, many speakers urged that organized labor vote for candidates on the basis only of what they represent and regardless of party affiliation.

A resolution calling for united political action among the labor men was sent to the executive committee for consideration, and a convention for the discussion of possible candidates was set for Jan. 14.

UNWED PARENTS' CALM HOME LIFE A 12 YEAR MASK

Bar Sinister on 5 Hidden by Domesticity.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

"Papa and mamma never went out together. They just stayed at home."

KATHLEEN MORRELL.

Eleven year old Kathleen, eldest of the five illegitimate children of John S. Curtin and Miss Kathleen Morrell, thus explains, unconsciously, how her mother and her father, the legal husband of Mrs. John S. Curtin, 207 North Pine avenue, posed as man and wife for twelve years and fooled gossipy neighbors, questioning children, and suspicious tradespeople.

Because they were not social climbers, the middle class man and his quiet, domestic wife, didn't attract very much attention in the middle class residential district on Linwood avenue, Milwaukee.

Too Domestic for Wagging Tongues.

The blonde woman nearby, who wore the too expensive fur coat and came home in a taxicab with a loud tongued, flashily dressed man, furnished more fuel for the neighborhood "old wives' tale" than the drab woman who wore cotton stockings, who cooked and sewed and worked for five children, and whose "traveling man husband" spent his week ends at home smoking, playing with the children and reading.

Because she tried to do nothing, the unwed mother of five children was able to do everything without suspicion.

"We lived quietly in Chicago for the first year," Miss Morrell said yesterday, "out on the northwest side. People began to be a little suspicious, and then Mr. Curtin's wife found out about it.

Talked It Over With Legal Wife.

"Just before my first baby was born, Mrs. Curtin came to see me, and tried to make me give Mr. Curtin up. I said he would have to leave me, for I would never desert him. Neither of us would give in, and she went away.

"But she has known about it all these years, and taken his money and stayed in his house," and Miss Morrell begins a long discussion of the legal wife's "legal immorality."

After the baby came, according to Miss Morrell's story, she and the child's father decided to move out of Chicago. Realizing the necessity of a framed marriage certificate in most of the Chicago suburbs, they planned to go further away, but near enough for Mr. Curtin to visit his illegal wife and baby every week.

Babies Help Build Up Mask.

A small house in a quiet part of Linwood avenue, Milwaukee, was chosen and the couple took up their residence as Mr. and Mrs. George Curtin. Baby followed baby, and, as Miss Morrell admits with a tired smile, "babies give an air of respectability."

The story that "the mister" was a traveling man, home seldom and then preferring to sit around the house rather than go out was easy to tell and the neighbors believed it. Mrs. Curtin handled most of the financial affairs and paid all bills in currency.

Mr. Curtin was present when the children were christened; he signed "George Curtin" to their report cards which they brought home from St. Robert's parochial school in Milwaukee.

Faith in "Daddy" Unshaken.

Doctors, nuns, butcher boys and old maids believed the story, which the children, as they sit at the Juvenile Detention home, still believe, that "daddy sells slot machines, and gets home only once a week."

Women were nice to Mrs. Curtin, but few came to see her. When they did, she was friendly but refused to join their clubs, to accompany them on shopping trips or to learn bridge.

"Everybody will pump you when you first come into a neighborhood," Miss Morrell declares, "but if you mind your own business without trying to they forget all about you; they have their own troubles or perhaps they turn to watch the next newcomer in the block."

Flat Life an Aid to Obscurity.

Apartment house life, the woman believes, has made it easier for illegal love affairs.

The fact that the legal Mrs. Curtin knew of the affair, but was ignorant of its details, made it easier for them to "get by," Miss Morrell states.

"If his wife had known where we were, then she could have spread the news and made trouble for my children in church and at school. But she didn't. On the other hand, the fact that she knew a little about it made it easy for Mr. Curtin to get away every Saturday and Sunday. He was always careful not to leave any papers or bills in his pockets. And when he telephoned me it was always from an outside telephone."

Miss Morrell was too busy raising children to go cabareting, too interested in making cup custards to give liquor parties, too worried in finding enough money to pay for the children's shoes, to spend very much on plumes, silks, and rich furs. The money that "other women" spend on jazz went to pay for Alice's music lessons. And a dinner once a month at a family restaurant was a treat, she recalls.

"I minded my own business," seems to be the secret of her strategy.

Recalls "Daddy's" Kindness.

Equally inconspicuous was the father, with his weekly visits, his pipe and carpet slippers. "He always brought us presents," little Stanley remembers, "and sometimes he'd take us to a show, while mamma stayed home and minded Baby Rose. And he gave us a Christmas tree this year and everything."

But there was another reason for the success of their pretended marriage. This is the fact that, after they had laid their plans carefully, both forgot all about them.

They did not protest too much. They did not start at every unknown footstep; quiver when strangers mentioned cases of illegitimacy; nor blanch when casual questions were asked them. They looked the world squarely in the face, and for more than twelve years the world didn't give them a second look.

MEURER COOK IN NEW DIFFICULTY; MAY BE DEPORTED

Muskegon, Mich., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Miss Margaret Wasserman, goddess of the diet in the home of Eugene Meurer, millionaire president of the Central Paper company in Muskegon, was arrested today on a federal warrant charging she reëntered the United States Oct. 26 from Germany for immoral purposes. She was released on $1,000 bond, Meurer signing it.

The arrest today was largely based on an affidavit of Mrs. Walter Voith, the daughter of the Meurers, which she swore to in New York Dec. 6 to the immigration officials. She charges she found Miss Wasserman occupying the place of the wife in the Meurer home when she came here last June to bring about a reconciliation between her parents. Since that time the manufacturer has made a property settlement with his wife and obtained a divorce in the Circuit court here on the grounds of desertion. The divorce was not contested. The same day Mr. Meurer obtained his divorce the cook returned to the home.

Later she went to Germany for a few months. The affidavit is based on her return to the United States.

CHARGE WEALTHY RADIO FIRM TRIES TO RULE THE AIR

Congress Is Asked to Put Curb in New Law.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Representations that wireless communication in this country and between the United States and a number of important nations is likely to become a monopoly dominated by the Radio Corporation of America have been made to the house committee on merchant marine, which is considering the Kellogg-White bill for radio regulation.

The Radio corporation, now headed by Gen. Harbord, formerly assistant chief of staff of the army, is one of the most powerful aggregations of capital in the world. Behind it are the General Electrc company and the J. P. Morgan interests.

Allege Control of Patents.

The activities of the Radio corporation, some of which are now undergoing investigation by the federal trade commission, are alleged to be in the direction of establishing a wireless communication monopoly through control of patents, through exclusive traffic agreements, and through direct governmental grants and provisions conferring exclusive right to valuable bands of wave lengths.

The Radio corporation is reported to have closed a large number of exclusive contracts which will prevent any serious competition in domestic and foreign wireless communication. In the case of a country where radio is a government monopoly such an exclusive contract would give the Radio corporation a monopoly of wireless communication from that country to the United States.

Bill Has Anti-Trust Curb.

In the Kellogg-White bill there is a provision that the secretary of commerce may refuse a license to an applicant "monopolizing or seeking to monopolize radio communication, directly or indirectly, through the control of the manufacture or sale of radio apparatus or by any other means."

It is further provided that the granting of a license shall not estop the United States from prosecuting a license for "violation of the law against monopolies or restraint of trade."

It is contended that the provisions are not sufficiently broad to outlaw exclusive traffic agreements. Moreover, the Radio corporation has proposed to the committee that the provision be narrowed by making it apply to "unlawful" monopoly only.

How It Would Rule Air.

In furtherance of its plans to obtain exclusive rights to use valuable bands of wave lengths the Radio corporation has also proposed a provision "that in the matter of granting, renewing, or revoking of station licenses hereunder, in allocating bands of wave lengths or in otherwise exercising the regulatory powers conferred by this act, the secretary of commerce shall take into due consideration the existence and location of existing stations, the property interests, investments, and any equities involved therein, as well as the special adaptability, if any, of the apparatus therein located for use in specific bands of wave lengths."

Under anti-monopoly provisions of the Kellogg cable act the President requires cable companies to comply with strict terms. In the case of the Miami cable a license was refused to the Western Union until the Western Telegraph company, with whose cable connection was to be made, surrendered its monopoly over Brazilian interport cable traffic.

Restrictions Are Different.

Although radio competes with cables, handling perhaps 25 per cent of the trans-Atlantic traffic and 50 per cent of American-Japanese traffic, no restrictions similar to those provided in the cable act are imposed on radio.

The fundamental question before the committee is whether the right to transmit through space belongs to the public or whether the right can be acquired by private interests by a process analogous to squatting. If private radio concerns acquire rights by prescription or by improvident governmental grant they will have gained rights of incalculable value, and which they can capitalize.

BURSUM BILL TO AID EMERGENCY OFFICERS URGED

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The American Legion has written to every representative urging passage of the Bursum bill providing retirement for disabled emergency army officers. The bill has been passed by the senate but is stalled in the house committee on military affairs.

The Bursum bill is designed to extend to the emergency army officers who were disabled during the world war the privileges of retirement now enjoyed by all other officers.

"These disabled emergency army officers were from the national guard, were graduates of training camps, and able soldiers commissioned from the ranks because of their exceptional ability or bravery," says the Legion letter. "On June 1, 1920, the retirement privileges accorded the regulars were extended to the disabled emergency marine officers and disabled emergency naval officers. The disabled emergency army officer alone has been left in the cold, and it is this neglect that the Bursum bill seeks to rectify.

"There are less than 1,000 disabled officers within the provisions of the bill, and the added cost would be less than $600,000 a year.

"During the last year thirty of these disabled officers have died and since the hearings before the committee June 22, eighteen have died. They had patiently awaited the passage of this long delayed bill."

After reciting the fruitless efforts since 1919 to obtain this legislation, the letter concludes:

"The foregoing is a shameful example of the inability of congress to function, when the desires of a few leaders in a committee can defeat, for this long period of time, this meritorious legislation, backed by the wishes of the nation.

"Since it has been before the military affairs committee a great number of bills have been considered by that committee, reported and enacted into law. Why not the Bursum bill?"

FIND GIRL BOUND AND GAGGED IN GOSPEL MISSION

Screams coming from the basement of the Gospel Workers' mission, 509 North State street, last night resulted in the finding of Miss Bessie Arnold, 24, a worker in the mission, bound hand and foot with heavy ropes.

She told the police a man named Magincolda in the mission had enticed her to the basement and bound and gagged her when she repulsed his attentions. He fled without attempting to molest her, she said, and she then worked the gag out of her mouth and screamed.

Passersby heard the screams and came to her rescue.

STRIFE IN RING TO SHUNT LIGHT BIDS TO MAYOR

Mayor Thompson is to be the court of last resort in determining the company to which the contract for 14,000 new electric street lights is to be let, George E. Carlson, commissioner of gas and electricity, indicated yesterday.

With the bids tabulated Mr. Carlson asserted that the Contracting and Material company, with a bid of $1,510,585.89, is the low bidder.

With the knowledge that the first bids, which were subsequently thrown out, were made the subject of a political battle by factions of the city hall organization, Mr. Carlson has decided to put the new bids directly up to the mayor.

William P. Cagney, president of the Contracting and Material company, denied emphatically yesterday that either Dr. William H. Reid or Patrick H. Moynihan, followers of the mayor, were interested in the company's bid.

"I have not the backing of either of these men, or any politicians, and I have not consulted either Reid or Moynihan in reference to my bid," Mr. Cagney declared.

Woman, Strangely Ill, Refuses to Tell Cause

An attractive young woman who collapsed in the office of Dr. L. M. Henikoff, house physician at the Hotel La Salle, Saturday night, shortly after she had checked out of the hotel, was said yesterday to be improving at the county hospital, where she was taken by the police. According to hospital physicians, the woman, about 23 years old, who had registered as Mrs. L. M. Edwards of St. Louis, Mo., showed symptoms of poisoning. She did not admit she had taken poison of any kind and declined to discuss her personal affairs.

2 HINGED PLANKS WITH 18 "TEETH," KLAN'S GARROTE?

Horrified Parish Tries to Imagine Devil Engine.

Bastrop, La., Jan. 7.—Federal and state investigators today visited Lake La Fourche, resting place up to eighteen days ago of the mutilated bodies of Watt Daniel and Thomas Richards, masked band victims. Photographs and measurements were taken by the party and although it was reported a small section of the lake was explored with the aid of grappling hooks, this could not be verified.

This was the only surface activity today in connection with the open hearing into masked and hooded band depredations in Morehouse parish instituted by Gov. John M. Parker, who implicates the Ku Klux Klan.

No Names Yet Revealed.

The proceedings so far have not revealed the names of anyone suspected to have been members of the hooded mob of fifteen or twenty men who kidnaped Richards and Daniel, but J. L. Daniel, father of Watt, testified that his son had named Capt. J. K. Skipwith, exalted cyclops of the Morehouse klan, Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge, charged by Gov Parker with being a klansman, and Laurie Calhoun, deputy sheriff of Morehouse, as men he recognized in the band that held him up and questioned him shortly after the reported attempt to assassinate Dr. B. M. McKoin on Aug. 2, and before the fatal kidnaping of Aug. 24

Discussion of the testimony at yesterday's hearing was divided between that of the aged Daniel, who was also kidnaped and flogged the night his son and Richards were tortured to death, and a report of pathologists which had been recovered from Lake La Fourche after a mysterious dynamite explosion.

Intended to See Doctor.

Daniel, questioned about the alleged attempt to shoot Dr. McKoin, declared:

"I told Watt I was going to McKoin and talk to him about the shooting. A few days before Watt and a couple of other young men ran into a bunch of hooded men who held up some boys. Watt came home and told me about it. That was before the shooting.

"I thought it was my duty, we being fellow Masons, to go to Dr. McKoin and talk over the matter. He told me he was not a klansman.

"A little after that talk Watt came to me and told me he'd been held up. Dr. McKoin, Laurie Calhoun, and J. K. Skipwith were in the party. That was the first time Watt was held up. On that occasion he was searched and a box of cartridges and pistol were taken from him."

Andrews Mentions Klan.

W. C. Andrews, another victim of the hooded band, testified that he thought his assailants were members of the Ku Klux Klan.

"I don't accuse the klan as a whole, but I believe the mob was composed of klansmen," he stated.

Amplifying the report of the pathologists who performed autopsies over the bodies of Daniel and Richards, Dr. Charles W. Duval of New Orleans announced that he has performed 6,000 autopsies during his professional experience, but never before had he had a case in which the subjects had been so brutally tortured. He said the manner in which the men were put to death was unparalleled in medical history.

Daniel's body was mutilated and parts removed before the other torture was inflicted, in the opinion of the physician. This mutilation was performed by a man who has had surgical experience and a sharp knife or razor was used, Dr. Duval stated. After that Daniel's clothing was rearranged.

Investigation Shocks Doctor.

"The evident torture of these two men was beyond believing," he added.

Both he and Dr. John Lanford agreed that death was inflicted after the bodies were subjected to some specially constructed device designed for inflicting punishment. Their autopsies revealed the hearts were drained of blood and that the manner of torture produced a slow death. The pathologists submitted as exhibits crushed and broken bones taken from the two bodies in support of their conclusions.

It was learned here today that investigators for some time have been seeking to locate the instrument of torture. Many opinions have been advanced as to its construction. One opinion was that two wide boards were hinged together at one end and on the inside were set eighteenth "teeth." The men were placed inside this and the boards were slowly pressed down upon them.

Troops Guard Empty Jail.

The parish prison, although free of its lone prisoner, charged by the state with complicity in the murders, was still patrolled by state troops. J. F. Burnett, former deputy sheriff, facing a murder charge, was removed from the jail yesterday by soldiers and taken to Shreveport, where he lies tonight seriously ill with pleurisy.

Members of the detachment of Company G, Louisiana National Guard, first of the state troops sent in and stationed at Mer Rouge, were relieved from guard duty and permitted to return to their homes in Monroe. This detachment, which consisted of sixty-five men, has been on duty since Dec. 19.

Adj. Gen. L. E. Toombs explained that the proximity of Monroe would make it possible to have them quickly returned if needed. A detachment of cavalry sent from Jennings about a week ago was retained at Mer Rouge.

There will be no session tomorrow, because Monday is a legal holiday in Louisiana, the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans. The hearing will be resumed Tuesday morning.

WIFE CAUGHT IN MARITAL SNARL DEAD BY BULLET

On the eve of settlement of the marital snarl in which she had been tangled with two husbands, Mrs. Kriestu Novak, 34, was found dead yesterday in the home of her second mate at 2909 West 25th street with a bullet through her heart.

Police of the Lawndale station are holding Frank Novak, who was alone with her at the time of the shooting. The police are searching for Joseph Krivanek, the former husband, from whom the wife thought herself divorced five years ago, and from whom she was finally to have been divorced today.

Novak Tells His Story.

In his story, told to Police Lieut. William Friel, Novak said the woman had threatened to commit suicide on several occasions, and Saturday night had shot herself.

In 1918, the police learned, Mrs. Novak filed suit for divorce from Krivanek. The decree was never signed because of a technicality, but the woman believed herself legally freed and married Novak.

When they learned that she had never been divorced from the former husband, Novak said, they obtained an annulment of their own marriage, which was granted by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Planned to Remarry.

They stopped living together last October until Mrs. Novak could obtain a legal divorce from Krivanek. The decree was to have been signed today by Judge Thomas J. Lynch, and the two had planned to remarry immediately.

"She came to my house last Saturday for my birthday, the first time I had seen her since our separation," said Novak. "She told me she was going to end it all and that night she reached under the pillow for the revolver and shot herself before I could prevent her."

Novak said he had carried the body into the sitting room and then called the police.

Jacob Klein Pardon Plea Up Before Board Tomorrow

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—Petition for pardon of Jacob Klein, wealthy Du Page county deputy sheriff, serving a sentence at Joliet penitentiary for killing Leo Neumann, will be heard by the state division of pardons and paroles here Tuesday. Klein is said to be seriously ill. He was convicted of shooting Neumann while Neumann was driving an automobile on a public highway.

GREEK VS. GREEK, BROTHERS, TOO, IN TUG OVER A WIFE

The fight of two brothers over one wife, each with a charge of disorderly conduct against the other two, will be settled in court today when Gustave and James Geurokos, the brothers, seek a legal unraveling of a triangle case which has become a complication of knots through the desire of each to have Elizabeth Geurokos as his legal spouse.

Gustave, 27, and Elizabeth, 23, were married three years ago in Charlotte, N. C., but a few months ago they agreed that each would enjoy life better alone.

Dispense with Courts.

"We'll just sign a divorce agreement and not bother with courts," said Gustave. He wrote it out, each scribbled along the dotted line and everything went well until Gustave learned that his "kid brother," James, 22, had taken up life with Elizabeth at 748 Cornelia avenue.

"How does he get that way?" growled Gustave. "He can't live with my wife and get by with it!" So. Gustave grabbed a train for Chicago.

James, however, refused to return the wife to his big brother, so Gustave rushed to the Town Hall police station and got a warrant charging disorderly conduct.

One Hand Gun Law.

James was just a kid brother—but, he couldn't stand for that. He dug down for $50 bail, returned home and with a gun ordered Gustave away from "their" wife. Just to make certain there would be a permanent separation he had Gustave locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct—with the woman he legally married.

But Gustave got out and had his kid brother put in the cell on an open charge which will keep him there until court acts today.

WAR BRIDE HAS VET ARRESTED AS DRUG USER

A 19 year old girl who at 16 became the bride of Emmet Williams of Rockford, Ill., last night caused Williams' arrest by telling the police the man she married as a war hero on his return from France three years ago now had become a drug addict.

Mrs. Williams said her husband had been "led astray by Robert Desmond." Desmond, described by the police as a notorious dope peddler, was arrested in front of the Revere house, 417 North Clark street, with a quantity of morphine in his possession.

He and Williams will be turned over to federal officials today.

THE BROOM—AND A FOUR YEAR START ON FORTY YEARS' WORK.

The work of Chicago if started in the next four years probably will require the next forty. Nearly everything that a real city needs Chicago needs. For years there has hardly been a hand raised. The city has built a few bridges and it plans to correct a few streets. Accomplishment is an ant heap and need is a mountain.

The city needs a man to start this work. It looks to the political managements for the chance to get him. If he is a good man and he starts well he may be kept on the job term after term. It is a big job. We do not know of a bigger one in any city. The city administration must be swept out. After the broom we need a builder.

Chicago needs thoroughfares even worse, much worse, than rural Illinois needs hard roads. It needs subways. It must cut through its blockades and get the chains off its muscle. It needs vigor in the plans it has and vision for plans it has not made. It needs as much spirit as New York and more honesty.

With an inspiration instead of a blight in the city hall Chicago could take a new lease on life and its citizens would know that they were facing towards a city fit to live in and that their children would come into a proper inheritance. If it is not done then this generation which received a going concern will pass on a broken down town.

Two groups of men have the responsibility just now. One can put up a Republican candidate fit for the position. The other can put up a Democrat fit for the position. If they will not do this then the citizens must undertake the slow process of getting rid of political managements which either could not see needs and opportunities or would not pay attention to them.

THE McCORMICK AMENDMENT.

Objections from the south to Senator McCormick's proposed amendment of the federal constitution prohibiting child labor have an obvious basis in immediate economic interest. But they show very little consistency from the standpoint of political principle. The south voted to impose on the states the eighteenth and nineteenth amendments, one of which compels the states, regardless of their conceptions of political expediency, to grant women the suffrage, while the other invades not only the authority of the state in social discipline—that is, its police power—but also the citizens' personal liberty. Prohibition of the use of alcoholic beverages was supported by the south without respect for state rights. How can we accept southern objections to prohibition of child labor as sincere when urged on that ground? We know it is a question of dollars and cents, of cheap labor, and the immediate profit it brings to selfish employers at the expense of the quality of our citizenship and justice to children. The adoption of the eighteenth and nineteenth amendments by southern states puts objections to federal prohibition of child labor morally out of court.

As to sincerer objections from those who fear undue centralization, THE TRIBUNE, which sincerely and persistently opposes that tendency, believes with Senator McCormick that there are preponderant reasons which favor federal prohibition in this case. He points out that the Supreme court was almost equally divided on the legal question of the constitutionality of the recent law, and we think there is much force in the minority opinion of Mr. Justice Holmes, which had the concurrence of three other justices. Justice Holmes held that the interstate commerce clause of the constitution confers power to reach any goods which cross state lines, and we cannot see how a tribunal which has held the Mann act constitutional under the commerce clause, though it reaches acts which have nothing whatever to do with commerce, can consistently hold unconstitutional the prohibition of or taxation to prevent commerce in child labor commodities.

But since the court has held it so, an amendment of the constitution seems necessary, and the states whose social conscience and political intelligence have not been strong enough to abolish the child labor evil can blame only themselves when the federal power is invoked. The argument against centralization should not be used as a defense for conditions which, as Senator McCormick points out, seriously affect the whole nation. Our preference would be for state action, but several of the states have proved obdurate, and it is estimated that child labor has increased 20 per cent since the last attempt at federal legislation was defeated. That provides another argument for national action.

We think the amendment should be so framed that legislation for its enforcement will not prevent wholesome work for children within the family as customary in farming communities. The evil to be corrected is employment in factories, on plantations, and in circumstances injurious to health, proper bodily growth, and education. The object sought is the protection of children from premature employment under conditions obstructive to their mental and physical development. This is a vital interest of the nation as a whole and may be consistently dealt with by national authority.

BRING OUR SOLDIERS HOME.

One glance at the foreign exchange tables giving the American value of European currencies at the close of business Jan. 5 reveals clearly the extent of financial difficulties in European countries.

The French franc, worth 19.3 cents before the war, and 7.97 cents a year ago, has dropped to 7.10½ cents. The German mark, worth 23.8 cents before the war, and .51 cents a year ago, has dropped to .012 cents. The Austrian mark has dropped in the last year from .04 cents to .00145 cents. Belgium, Roumania, Jugo-Slavia, Switzerland, and a few others show lesser declines, but they are still going down.

Italy and the Scandinavian countries show varying amounts of improvement in the last year. Great Britain, the richest of them all, burdened with debts as she is, and with nearly 2,000,000 idle men, has made the most remarkable strides toward financial normalcy. The pound sterling, worth $4.865 before the war, and $4.19 a year ago, has recovered to $4.65. England is taxing herself, reducing expenditures as far as possible, working hard, paying the interest on her debts in part, and coming back.

The contrasts are notable. Germany's and Austria's condition is near chaos. France is heading more slowly in the same direction. And in these circumstances France is trying to collect by force from Germany the thing which Germany has not. We do not forget that in the war prior to the Versailles treaty France suffered much more heavily than Germany, especially in a material way. We do not forget that it was the French factories, the French mines, the French villages and the French farms which were devastated and left in ruins. Neither do we forget that it was German colonies, German provinces, and German merchant marine which were taken from the conquered country by the treaty.

The question is, how much can a country which has had its sources of income so materially reduced be forced to pay? How far can force be properly exerted to extract payments? We do not know. France says force is now justified to the extent of occupying the entire rich industrial district of the Ruhr. Britain does not agree. The United States has not agreed. But our troops stand in the way of such use of force.

We are told that if we withdraw them now it will be a significant gesture. Significant of what? That we do not approve the application of further force by France at this time and in these circumstances. Will it not be equally significant if we keep them there? Will that not indicate our approval of further force by France, and condemnation of Germany to the point of military interference?

If withdrawal is significant it ought to be significant of only one thing—American determination not to be embroiled in any new war in Europe growing out of the Versailles treaty. The American people are willing to have such significance attached to withdrawal. They are not willing to have their soldiers stationed in the no man's land between French aggression and German hatred and poverty.

The overwhelming vote expressing the sense of the senate that the troops at Coblenz be brought back expresses, we are confident, a corresponding preponderance of public opinion. No reason, as yet given out or intimated, for the retention of the troops abroad has satisfied either senate or people, and while we recognize the President's right and duty to decide in such matters, we trust he will find it proper to act at once in conformity with the senate's expression.

ASKING FOR THE WEST INDIES.

Senator Reed of Missouri has introduced a resolution requesting the President to inquire if Great Britain and France are willing to discuss terms for the cession of their West Indian islands to the United States. Nothing may come of it, but certainly nothing will if a proposal is not made by the American government.

America could have had the islands by negotiation in 1917. Every other fighting nation was stipulating what it wanted in case of victory, and the victors since have been collecting. The United States did not stipulate anything and lost its best chance to clear up a bad military situation off its coast and trade routes.

We do not want the West Indies because we want to control either resources or population. We need them because in other hands they might control the American coast line and the Panama canal. It is possible to write into the treaty of transfer any condition which would protect the inhabitants of the islands in the laws, manners, habits and trade which they have and want to keep.

They could be given as much self government as Cuba has. We need not ask Great Britain or France to transfer subjects or citizens from rule with which they are pleased to control which they would not like. So far as the interests of the United States are involved, the islands could govern themselves, and that privilege will not be regarded as an invasion of rights.

The United States does not want the islands for the reason that any expanding nation wants more territory. They are wanted and needed because in European possession they have only one value. That is military, and it is a value only as directed against the United States.

The submarine and the airplane have increased the importance and the threat of islands. We hope never to be at war with Great Britain or France, but hope does not eliminate possibility. America could not use the islands against the British or the French. They are useful only for an attack against the United States or, in the possession of the United States, for defense of this country, its canal and its trade routes.

The question is very important to this country and it is only sentimentally important to the British and French. We have an open account with both nations. Negotiations are proceeding. Inject the West Indies into them.

CIVIC ASPIRATIONS.

[Grand Rapids Herald.]

Chicago looks forward to a day when its population will number 50,000,000 persons, when its boundaries will extend into three states, Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin; when the west coast of Lake Michigan from the southern tip to Milwaukee will be a throbbing, mighty metropolis. An organization has been formed to foster that aim. But the aim is not high. What Chicago seeks is merely bigness. What it should seek is greatness.

What Chicago should aspire to is a community soul and spirit commensurate with the population it already has. Chicago has been crying out for a subway these many years. But still it hasn't the subway. Its main avenues of commerce are choked with traffic. Chicago's city politics only last week was pronounced by investigating experts more graft ridden than ever was the administration of the notorious Boss Tweed. A great city would demand a municipal government equal to its greatness.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

RONDEL.

Death is only a long forgetting
  After the sundown, hidden away
  In a cool, dark bed at the end of day,
While the gods keep watch and the stars are setting.

Why should we fear to have done with fretting
  At lust and labor and hate and play?
Death is only a long forgetting
  After the sundown, hidden away.

None of us lives without regretting
  The toil we gave for a pauper's pay;
  And we shall be fain at last to say,
What of the weary years and sweating:
"Death is only a long forgetting."

MY! ARE THEY STILL PULLING THAT ONE!

Dear Uncle Dick: How are you and dear little Vangie? (I thot maybe if I talked nice to her I'd slip by.) Well, I was visiting downstate (Galesburg).

My dear RHL: It is so embarrassing for me to write, but it's on my heart, and I must. I love the Line, but am so worried, and afraid to read it, for fear there may be another of these awful "S—x" lessons. Even as I write, I tremble, and feel the flood of embarrassment as it tingles in my ears, and my cheeks do burn. I try to suppress the anguish and perplexity of the moment, only to feel it the more. And I beg you, if there be a woman in your house, let her read this; and, if it so happens, I hope and trust she will not think of me as being common or unworthy. Again I say I do so much want to read the Line, but am afraid. Believe me

MOMMA X. AND THE KIDDIES—DETOUR!

Sir: In your column, which I use every morning between the Whitely Exerciser and the grapefruit, I have taken keen interest in the list of books submitted; books intended to thrill certain Freudian . . . suppressed desires which busted loose and got all unsuppressed . . . and things. . . .

I read 'em all before crime was popular . . . back in the days when they'd say: "Why I should say not! You just stop that."

Talking about me, now that the subject has been introduced, I'm the lad what started lending 'em Jurgen instead of giving 'em gin; I'd assert that the passage in re instruction in mathematics was inspired by my life, and then (use asterisks ad lib.).

But, R. H. L., the book list in your col. is getting low; lower than the subject matter of the dear little volumes themselves. Are we to let, permit, or allow the boys and girls to revert back to Bo Peep and other innocuous reading? No, R. H. L., no. Depend on me, no. I'll begin with an offer of Voltaire's "Candide."

Had he played full games a higher tribute would have to be devised than just All-American.

MAROON FOREVER.

BUT WHAT DID MR. CAMP SAY!

Dear R. H. L.: Wotinell's all the argument about this John Thomas person? Who is he, anyway? What team did he play with? There was only ONE full back in the west during the 1922 season. His name is GORDON LOCKE. He wasn't a triple threat man; he was an eleven-threat man, for he came dam near ruining every member of each opposing team that he faced. How can there be an argument where one doesn't exist? IOWAY '19.

'Til sunset's glow transforms the shore
And gilds the waters of Big St. Germaine.
Here—converted to a Pantheistic creed—
I'll feel again the all-pervading peace, the quiet joy,

DIET FOR CONSUMPTIVE.

A SAMPLE bill of fare for an average consumptive is given by Mary Swartz Rose as follows:

BREAKFAST.

Orange juice.
Cereal cooked with milk and served with cream.
Overbroiled bacon.
Crisp buttered toast.
Coffee and hot milk, served with cream and sugar.

DINNER.

Inside cut of roast beef.
Baked potatoes.
Buttered peas.
Lettuce hearts with cream dressing.
Bread and butter.
Junket.
A glass of milk, enriched by the addition of cream.

SUPPER.

Escalloped potatoes.
Omelet.
Crisp roll and butter.
Baked apple.
Cocoa, made with milk.

The menu does not specify amounts. The amounts which she recommends as the day's total are:

Milk, 1 quart; butter, 1.4 ounces; 20 per cent cream, ½ pint; oil or bacon, 4 ounces; bread, 4.8 ounces; potatoes, 8.4 ounces; 1 egg, 3.4 ounces of lean beef, 1.3 ounces sugar, 10 ounces cereal, 3 ounces green peas, 2 ounces lettuce hearts, 1 medium sized orange, and 1 large apple. This gives a total of 2,900 calories. In this diet there are about 3 ounces of protein and 5 ounces of fat. This is a smaller food allowance than was given consumptives in the old days. It is now held that the old rations of the consumptive were too heavy. Too much food, and especially too much lean meat, milk, and eggs, necessitated too much lung ventilation, and tubercular lungs do not ventilate any too well. They also threw too much strain on other organs.

Since fat is rather easily disposed of in the body, it is desirable to incorporate a good deal of fat in the menu. Without having much scientific basis for it, we have always given consumptives a good deal of fat—might say, in fact, that the consumptives' need of fat was sensed, although it could not be logically nor scientifically established. In giving fats it must be remembered that fats are not easily digested.

Very careful metabolism experiments have shown that the average consumptive requires but little more food than does a well man of the same weight doing the same work. In fact, while there is some excess food requirement for a consumptive who is running a fever, for one without fever, or practically without, the requirements are about those of healthy men. Then, if there is no extra need, why give an excessive diet? Two thousand nine hundred calories, the amount decided on, is enough to meet the requirements, to cause some weight to be put on, and to provide a considerable margin of safety.

In calculating diets for consumptives, under treatment men can come nearer being figured as average than is the case with other men. Consumptives under treatment are physically quiet, they are not worrying, nor are they nervous nor fidgety; they are optimistic and at peace with the world. Therefore, almost without exception, consumptives can be fattened just as penned pigs can be. The diet of normal men must vary greatly in calories, because some work harder than others; some are fidgety; some are always "on edge," and some suffer from worry and anxiety.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of the writers.

IT DEPENDS ON THE WORDING OF THE CONTRACT.

Cicero, Dec. 26.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I recently purchased a piano from a dealer on monthly installments.

Several months ago this dealer sold my contract together with a number of others to a neighborhood bank. About a month later he sold or turned over to the piano manufacturers a contract reading the same as was turned over to the bank, only the signature was forged. I have proved to the manufacturers that it is a forged signature and that the bank holds the original contract, but they say that any payments I made to the bank will be at my own risk as they have brought suit to recover the original contract. The bank says I am safe in making my payments to them. To protect myself, am I entitled to discontinue further payments until the matter of ownership of the original contract is settled and then pay the amount due at that time to the party that is legally adjudged owner of the contract. As the bank now has the original contract, can they take the piano away from me if I withhold payments during the period of litigation. H. C.

It seems probable that it would be safe for you to continue paying to the bank, but we cannot advise to advantage without knowing the wording of the contract. If you discontinue payments, as suggested, you may render yourself liable to penalty clauses provided in the instrument.

WAGES DUE DECEASED INCLUDED IN ESTATE.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—[To the Friend of the People.]—An old lady has worked for an invalid lady a year. She was taken sick and left without having received a cent of her wages. H. H.

Yes, by probating her estate.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

HOMELESS.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—[Friend of the People.]—We rented a flat in June, 1922, no lease being given. On Dec. 27, 1922, the landlord serves us with a typewritten notice to vacate by Jan. 1, 1923, which is four days' notice. Please answer these questions: Is there not a law to protect the tenant in this case? How much time are we allowed by law? What process shall I follow to allow us time to find a flat? A. L.

In case of tenancy at a monthly rent where there has never been an agreement for a longer term, either party can end the tenancy or the landlord can increase the rent at the end of any month of the tenancy on sixty days' notice. There is no legal obligation to assign a reason for such action. Since the statute merely specifies that the "landlord shall have the right to terminate the tenancy by sixty days' notice in writing," the legal effect of an oral notice is not clear.

Under 1921 statutes if a tenant of residence property in a city, town, or village holds over and the landlord sues for possession, a judge has discretionary power to grant to the tenant six months' stay of execution upon the tenant's giving bond to pay rent at a figure fixed by the judge. If the lessor demands notice of the lessee's intention as to applying for a stay, the lessee must notify or no stay will be granted. No provision in a lease shall operate to increase damages for holdover above the rate of previous rent.

SALARY DUE!

Chicago, Jan. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—I was with a firm for a year, hired by the month, payable 15th and 31st. Up to the time of my dismissal my work was satisfactory, at least I was told it was. I was dismissed on the 5th. Am I entitled to salary up to the 15th? L. V.

Depends on whether the employment is by the week or by some other period. Illinois cases tend to hold that the wage payment interval is not conclusive on this point.

If the employé is discharged without legal ground during one of the recurrent periods of the employment, he is entitled to pay to the end of such period, although he can be discharged at the end of the period without notice.

THE NEXT MAYOR OF CHICAGO.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—The ideal political situation in Chicago would be for each of the two regular parties, the Republican and the Democratic, to nominate suitable candidates. The chances are, however, that there will be at least three, including one nonpartisan or independent. But whether there be two, three, or a dozen, the standards for selection of the candidates should be in essentials the same.

And what constitutes a suitable, a desirable candidate? He must, of course, be honest, intelligent, industrious, just, courageous, and independent; he should embody as many of the fundamental virtues as can be found in combination, and be free of substantial vices and scandals; an all around, reliable, and high grade man among men.

But these qualifications are not enough to require for the mayoralty of Chicago. The first special requirement is a high sum total of personality, which includes general capability. That is the quality which can meet any situation or emergency with unfailing courage, self-control, intelligence, and tact.

It is desirable also that the next mayor should have distinctly American characteristics and be so identified. He should be of American nativity. This is an American city; we hold our ideals of citizenship to be the best, and we should expect all inhabitants of the city to conform with them. The mayor should be the impersonation and example of these ideals. We have a great variety of exotic and racial groups to deal with; let us blend them all into one—our own.

And, further, the next mayor should be a man of higher education, a taste for study, of broad experience with business affairs and human contacts, which means the capacity to understand and act upon the fundamental principles of government, the complexity of municipal affairs, the tremendous problems growing out of the relations between the city and the various privately owned public utilities, and with the welfare and the pains of human being, individually and collectively.

On the other hand, our next mayor, as all his predecessors, will certainly be approached and at times assailed by roughnecks; but, being the kind of a man already described, he will be fully equipped to deal with them, if necessary, in their own coin, and even with their own bludgeons. A thoroughbred American gentleman is equipped for all occasions.

Now, politicians, do you think it impossible to find such candidates? You are mistaken; all you need to do is to go about it earnestly, to look around you, to inquire, and you will find them; but they are not likely to begin the flirtations. That is not the style of such type of men.

In conclusion, the next mayor will have to resign himself at the outset to being a martyr to the cause of temporary good government. When he is through he's through, and the only monument he can hope to erect is the history of four years of honest and faithful devotion to the cause of good government and advancement of this magnificent city.

Yet many men have sacrificed themselves in less worthy causes and for less noble results. There is something very attractive to the man of spirit in the present mayoralty situation.

Fellow citizens, let's find him and elect him our next mayor! A. R. S.

WARNING TO NORTH MICHIGAN AVENUE MOTORISTS.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—For the benefit of those who drive automobiles it might be interesting to learn that our new link boulevard, North Michigan avenue from Randolph street to Chicago avenue, is not a boulevard as far as protection to people driving on that street is concerned, as most of us have been ready to believe.

In other words, any one going in or crossing North Michigan avenue at any intersection between these two points has a perfect right to do so without stopping. If you happen to be coming toward the left side and an accident occurs you will be liable. This decision was handed down in Judge Hayes' court today and will probably be interesting information for all motorists, also a warning.

F. R. C.

STOCK DIVIDENDS.

Weyauwega, Wis., Jan. 2.—Permit me to take issue with an editorial which appeared in THE TRIBUNE last week upholding the payment of stock dividends free from income taxes. The contention of THE TRIBUNE is that a great surplus is necessary to carry on great corporations. Granted. But why not permit the surplus to remain as a surplus instead of dividing it up and distributing it as paid up stock upon which the holder may draw dividends in the future?

In 1907, I wrote a book, "The Limit of Wealth," published by the Macmillan company, in which I took the position that every man should have the right to accumulate as much property as possible, by every lawful and legitimate means, and to enjoy that wealth during his lifetime, but when he came to die, beyond a million dollars he should be prevented from disposing of his estate, the same to revert to the government.

Now, while the payment of stock dividends free from income taxes may be lawful, it is not a legitimate means of accumulating wealth, and no more outrageous scheme was ever devised to escape taxation than this very scheme.

I have been a lifelong Republican, but to have one of the three richest men in the United States at the head of the treasury department, who not only sanctions but makes use of the privilege to take large stock dividends in his corporations upon which he pays not a cent of income, but which will be productive of more dividends to him in the future, disgusts me with the whole administration.

ALFRED L. HUTCHINSON.

THE HIGH COST OF GAS.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—For the past period of thirty days the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company forwarded me a bill representing an increase of 33 1-3 per cent over that for the preceding thirty days. We have not used as much gas for the period just ended, however, as we did during the preceding period. Assuredly, we have not used more, due to absence from home.

Last winter, I protested when my gas bill for a family of three soared up to $4.95, after having paid around $3.50 during the summer months. It seemed to have some effect upon the meter, for we dropped to $3.36 for the following period.

Now that I have been jumped from $2.80 to $4.20 (both thirty day periods), I am protesting again. A READER.

THE 18TH AMENDMENT AGAINST ACQUISITION OF BRITISH WEST INDIES.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—While the World's Greatest Newspaper is talking of the acquisition of the West Indies by the U. S. A., it should remember that even if Great Britain were willing to make the deal to lessen her load the islands themselves would have to be consulted.

At present there is an insurmountable obstacle in the way—the eighteenth amendment. BEVERLY.

THE STREET CAR MEN AGAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—To Friend "R. S.": We regret that we are unable to wait for every prospective passenger who happens to be half a block away; that is being a little bit unreasonable; but I do know that we have a great number of both conductors and motormen who do wait for passengers, and the majority of the street car men of Chicago are of this caliber. They are not the ignorant square heads which you and a few others designate them to be. They are composed mostly of respectable men of families and are a credit to themselves and make good loyal citizens.

INDEX WOMEN OF STREET TO GIVE VICE WAR A START

Hundreds in List to Go Before Grand Jury.

SAMUEL P. THRASHER.

A "blue book" containing the names and addresses of hundreds of Chicago's "lost sisters" will be presented to the grand jury this morning in the first official action of a new fight to wipe the world's oldest profession from the city's highways and byways. The register, which contains a preface explaining the workings of the underworld, was written by the Committee of Fifteen and the Illinois vigilance committee.

Lined up on the side of the prosecution of the new crusade will be Chief Justice McKinley of the Criminal court, First Assistant State's Attorney Jonas, Samuel P. Thrasher of the Committee of Fifteen, Dr. Phillip Yarrow of the Illinois Vigilance committee, and Attorney Harry Smoot, who represents the Juvenile Protective association.

One Man to Deal With Grand Jury.

Mr. Smoot will have charge of placing the evidence before the grand jury. He was appointed by Justice McKinley, so that "there will not be too many cooks to spoil the pie."

In making the announcement Justice McKinley said he was convinced that the law governing vice was being violated in a most flagrant manner in many parts of the city.

"It is time for a general cleanup," he said.

Armed with the "vice directory," prepared by the law and order associations, Mr. Smoot will go to the grand jury and ask for indictments. The "vice directory" is authentic, it is asserted by both Mr. Thrasher and Dr. Yarrow.

Triple Check on Evidence.

"We have spent thousands of dollars in the preparation of this book," said Mr. Thrasher. "Our investigators have been all over town, and we have actual evidence in each case we report. To make sure that no mistake had been made we check every resort three times."

The word went through the underworld last night that the investigation is "on the square," and many resorts were dark, temporarily at least.

DR. W. A. CARVER BORROWED TIME CLUB'S NEW HEAD

DR. W. A. CARVER.

Dr. W. A. Carver, 136 South Grove avenue, Oak Park, is the newly elected president of the Borrowed Time club. To be eligible for the club, the membership of which is over 150, candidates must have reached the age of 70, the years after that being considered "borrowed time." The members are residents of Oak Park, River Forest, and Austin, although age, and not location, is the chief intent of the club. Dr. Carver is 72 years old and one of the most youthful members. The other officials are Ivory Pike, vice president; A. B. Ferry, treasurer; Thomas Scholes, secretary; H. H. Stoddard, historian; W. S. Heath, chorister, and George Beach, reporter of events.

MOTHER PUSHES SON TO FREEDOM; HE'S TOO SLOW

Ernest Stockum, 15, and his 13 year old brother were arrested yesterday when they are said to have attempted to pass a check for $20.21 belonging to Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, 3458 Elaine place. When the mother of the boys was told that the older boy would have to stay at the Town Hall police station all night she pushed a policeman aside and, shoving Ernest through the door, told him to run.

This display of mother love started a chase along North Halsted street in which several policemen joined. They caught Ernest. The Stockums live at 2738 Osgood street.

FIVE AUTOS REPORTED STOLEN.

Five automobiles were reported stolen to the police during the twenty-four hours ending at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. Six were recovered.

RABBI HIRSCH, LEADER OF JEWS, TAKEN BY DEATH

End Comes Suddenly After Attack of Pneumonia.

held this afternoon in the Sinai temple, has been postponed on account of the death of Dr. Emil Hirsch.

Held Strong Views.

Dr. Hirsch was widely known as a man of great intellectual gifts, and he attracted even more attention among the public by the strong and unorthodox views which he held concerning the Jewish faith, views which he never hesitated to express, whatever his surroundings.

A Reformed Jew, of an extreme type, he held, among other beliefs, that the Jewish Sabbath need not necessarily be celebrated on a Saturday, and that the Scripture should not be treated as a dead letter but as elastic and capable of interpretation according to the needs of the age, two opinions which are directly opposed to the orthodox Jewish religion.

Exposed Society's Vices.

Dr. Hirsch was equally outspoken with regard to other matters and many were the occasions when he flayed society in general for what he considered their vices and failings. One suggestion of his was for a settlement on the south side for the benefit of the millionaires' sons. He declared their ignorance and general lack of education in its real sense was far greater than that found among the poor. He compared these sons of rich men unfavorably with the people of the Ghetto.

At another time he attacked the society woman, and the "Four Hundred" for what he termed their narrow prejudice against newcomers. "This twentieth century society woman who boasts of her ancestors two or three generations back—she never goes any farther, for about that time the family was getting a start trucking in oysters—and whose favorite appeal is the unwritten law, which in many cases means the repeal of the laws of morality—she is the woman whose presence among her sisters is a menace," he said.

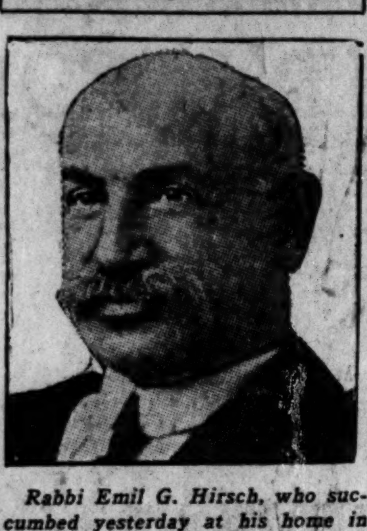
Upbraided Wealthy Jews.

He was even more severe on the wealthy members of his own faith. He accused them of disloyalty and lack of sympathy, and compared them unfavorably with the Jewish immigrants. While the latter gave up their lives and their homes for their religion, he declared, many Jewish women of Chicago abrogated their religion to show off their jewels.

Fair to Jews and Gentiles.

As a result of his visits, he came to the conclusion, some years ago, that Europe, which once was the cradle of world's anti-semitic feeling now contains far less antagonism to the Jewish race than the United States. In 1908 he declared publicly that thousands of his co-religionists actually fled from America during the summer and spent their vacation abroad, because of the prejudice against them at every attractive resort on this side of the Atlantic. But he laid the trouble equally at the doors of the undesirable Jewish element in this country and urged the American Jews to purge themselves thoroughly from that element.

NOTED JEW DIES



Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch, who succumbed yesterday at his home in this city to an attack of pneumonia.

During the war several anonymous charges of disloyalty were launched against Dr. Hirsch. He replied publicly in the Sinai temple, affirming his undivided allegiance to the nation's cause and his conviction of the righteousness of the war the nation was waging, concluding by offering up a prayer for victory. He admitted he had been a pacifist, but not more so than President Wilson, and he added that he concurred fully in every note the President had written.

The attacks ceased, but the mental anxiety caused by the charges and the suspicion with which he felt himself regarded affected his health seriously and it was eleven months before he again appeared in the pulpit.

In 1911 Dr. Hirsch took a prominent part in agitation against the passport policy of the czar of Russia, whose government had recently refused to issue a passport to Oscar Straus, then United States minister to Turkey because he would not accept one made out to "the Jew, Oscar Straus." Always he was for the destruction of prejudice against the Jew and a great deal of his life was devoted to that end.

Born in Luxemburg.

Dr. Hirsch was born in the grand duchy of Luxemburg on May 22, 1851, the son of Dr. Samuel and Louise (Mickolls) Hirsch. He was educated in Germany and afterwards at the University of Pennsylvania, where he received the degree of A. B. in 1872. The next four years were spent in study in Berlin and Leipzig, and in 1877 he was made a rabbi.

His first congregation was the Har Sinai congregation of Baltimore, to which he was at once appointed. A year later he was transferred to the Adath Israel congregation of Louisville, Ky., and in 1880 to the Sinai congregation of Chicago, a position which he has held ever since.

His public services were many and various. He was a member of the board of trustees of the Chicago public library and a member of the board of commissioners of the Public Charities of Illinois. In 1898 he married Matilda Einhorn of New York.

SORROW IN EAST

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—News of the death in Chicago of Dr. Emil Hirsch brought sorrow in Jewish and welfare circles in New York.

Louis Marshall disclosed that some years ago Temple Emanuel, one of the largest congregations in this city, endeavored to have Dr. Hirsch come here and take charge, naming his own terms.

"Dr. Hirsch's reply," said Mr. Marshall, "was characteristic. He said he felt he should stay with his own people and he did, at great sacrifice to his own personal interests."

Lasker Extols Him.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Justice Brandeis expressed regrets today at his inability to comment on the death of Dr. Hirsch, his rule being that, on account of his judicial position, he gives no statements.

A. D. Lasker said: "I think Dr. Hirsch was not only the leader of thought among the Jews in Chicago, but by his teachings and example among them he made himself felt throughout the entire community."

How Advertising Relates to Business

"Advertising should not be charged with the failure due to faulty financing of the business, nor burdened with the sins of unwise administration. The best advertising in the world will not make up for poor purchasing of materials, improper manufacturing methods, inferior quality of product, too rapid expansion or inefficient organization personnel."

The above quotation is paragraph No. 20 from "48 Ideas on Advertising and Merchandising"—a helpful publication to any executive planning merchandising moves. Many readers of this booklet have commented on the way it expresses well-poised opinion on the limitations, as well as the possibilities of advertising.

RUSSIAN TRAMP FLEET ON WAY TO PHILIPPINES

Lands Several Hundred Exiles at Shanghai.

BY ROY BENNETT.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 5.—The homeless fleet of Russian Whites has resumed its wandering at sea, but it has left its cargo of refugee humanity at Shanghai with three months' supplies on hand and nothing else in view. The fleet's next port of call is not absolutely known, but it probably will be in the Philippines.

Admiral Stark, commander of the fleet, told the passengers that all except the members of the crews and their families must leave the ship here. Approximately 500 chose to remain in Shanghai. Admiral Stark gave all a ration supply sufficient to last three months. They are landing without legal authority, but the ships were not guarded by Chinese, and all who wished went ashore.

Eyes on Manila.

When THE TRIBUNE correspondent went aboard before the ships sailed Admiral Stark was ashore conferring with the Chinese authorities in an effort to get the promised coal and provisions sufficient to take them to the next port. Capt. Fomin, chief of staff, intimated a desire to reach French territory, but he said Hongkong or the Philippines likely would be their next port, and his repeated reference to the Philippines indicated their purpose to go there. He said they were not trying to ascertain whether they would be permitted to stay there, since it was better to go and get permission to stay rather than to try to get permission to go.

The ship was taking no cargo from here, he said, but they would like to begin to carry cargo and earn a living.

Among those staying here are 360 orphans, lads from a White military school, without means of support further than three months' rations. No one is responsible for the future of those staying here.

The three smallest ships will remain here because they are unseaworthy. The others are completing repairs and are in fair condition. Admiral Stark has a small supply of money, which has been contributed from various sources. Capt. Fomin said the bolsheviks' offer of an amnesty and attractive jobs on condition that they return to Siberia will be scorned by all.

The fleet is under pledge not to touch another Japanese port, and they are making a like promise to the Chinese in consideration for which the Chinese are giving them the supplies.

PRESIDENT WILL WELCOME WOMEN AT LABOR MEET

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Nearly 300 women representing national organizations, including nine from Illinois, three each from Indiana and Wisconsin, and two from Iowa and Michigan, will attend as accredited delegates the women's industrial conference to be held here on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week under the auspices of the Women's Bureau of the department of labor.

Miss Mary Anderson of Chicago, director of the women's bureau, has called the conference which will be welcomed by President Harding and addressed at the opening session by Secretary of Labor Davis and Assistant Secretary E. J. Henning.

The opening addresses of the government officials on Wednesday morning will be followed at the afternoon session by the presentation of the general subject matter of the conference, including the relation of women to industry, health standards, home work, wages, and labor legislation for women.

Dicsussion of the topics of "Women's Wages" and "Labor Legislation for Women," according to Miss Anderson, will bring the delegates squarely up to the question of how to secure industrial equality for women and men.

Miss Julia Lathrop of Chicago, will be toastmistress at the dinner to be given Saturday night, when the speakers will include Miss Tracy Copp of Wisconsin, Miss Agnes Nestor and Miss Mary McDowell of Chicago.

Our New Loaf of "Bread and Milk"
Two great foods in one—plus vitamins, plus mineral salts, plus balanced proteins

Here it is-"the Key to Health"
WARD'S VITOVIM BREAD

The SUPER-BREAD

YOU have seen our sign, The Golden Key to Health, broadcasted through the columns of the daily papers, on the poster boards of the city and in the stores of our dealers, disclosing our great achievement.

This advertisement tells about our discovery of a method of extracting the vital elements of the wheat berry and restoring them to WHITE BREAD.

Everyone knows that in the making of white flour many of the most nutritious elements of the wheat are lost. The vital germ or heart of the grain of wheat is its most nourishing and vitalizing part. Yet this germ and the bran must be removed in the course of milling white flour.

It has long been known that the most essential food elements of wheat have been lost from food for men, women and children and turned into feed for hogs and cattle.

Mr. Ward with his staff of expert bakers and learned scientists, tried for years to find the way to unlock the secret which would disclose the way to greater nutrition in white bread. Now, at last he has succeeded and is introducing a new kind of bread, which contains these vital elements of the wheat in abundance.

We have been making good white bread for many years—the best, we believe, which could be made with the best of white flour. But we add to our new loaf these vital elements which our work and feeding tests have proved make it the most perfect and nutritious bread ever produced. Our new process not only results in saving these most vital parts of the wheat, recovering from nature's storehouse the vitamins and natural mineral salts, but involves the use of rich whole milk in quantities so large that no water at all is used in making the dough, thereby building up the protein content of the loaf to an extraordinary degree.

Indeed it might be called a loaf of bread and milk—two great foods in one plus vitamins, plus mineral salts, plus balanced proteins.

The final result is a delicious white bread in the familiar form of the best family loaf, to which have been added the vital and essential elements of whole wheat from the wheat germ and bran and also the nourishing qualities of milk.

But this is not all. Much is heard these days of vitamins and mineral salts. It has been discovered that these essential elements are absolutely necessary in human food. The vital parts of wheat which this company has learned how to save, contain abundant quantities of both vitamins and mineral nutrients, and especially of vitamin B, the one most necessary for the healthy growth of children.

Milk also is rich in vitamins and proper proteins. In short, there have been added to our new loaf, exceptional quantities of all the vital and essential elements.

That is why we call it VITOVIM—The SUPER-BREAD.

Our new process is the result of a large outlay of money, of long continued patience and perseverance and our greatest reward will be in the knowledge that our discovery will ultimately be of immense benefit to mankind.

Long continued animal feeding tests by scientists of the Mellon Institute, University of Pittsburgh and other leading universities have proved the great nutritional value of this super loaf, and pronounce it the first perfect white bread. You will be interested to know that in these feeding tests, with nothing more than VITOVIM BREAD and water, various experimental animals were raised to full growth and maturity, to breed and reproduce even to the third and fourth generation. There never was a home-made loaf or any other loaf that could accomplish the same result.

Our advertisements published from day to day will be interesting and highly instructive. It will pay you to read them. Meantime, try this new loaf—this Super-Bread. It is now on sale in both large and small size loaves at the store of your neighborhood dealer.

The cost of this bread is a little more than for ordinary bread. It is worth much more. This you will understand when we tell you that—

The milk alone in the new loaf costs more than the flour in the loaf you have been using.

Resolve from this day forth to make this Super-Bread the daily bread of your household for the better nourishment of yourself and your family.

We challenge all competitive kinds of bread and we challenge home-made bread to show an equal nutritional value with our new VITOVIM loaf in public tests.

A delicious, nutritious creamy white bread for daily table use.

RUSSIA HONORS ITS CHRISTMAS DESPITE SOVIET

Reds Decide Not to Disturb Sacred Eventide.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MOSCOW, Jan. 7.—Religious Russia celebrated Christmas yesterday according to the Gregorian calendar. Communist Russia celebrated likewise. It held the greatest anti-religious crusade this world probably has seen since the reign of reason in the time of the French revolution.

Of utmost significance is the outstanding fact that all the numerous attacks on religion planned by the League of Communist Youths and other organizations on Christmas eve suddenly were called off. Midnight mass was celebrated in the churches without molestation. Bonfires of effigies of Jesus, Moses, and "Almighty God" were set afire in daytime instead of in the holy evening period.

Time Not Ripe.

I inquired at the League of Communist Youths' headquarters as to the reason for this sudden change to a restrained program.

"The time is not yet ripe for our full program," it was explained. "Public opinion still is not ready enough."

Thus, due to public opinion, the evening was held sacred, but the daytime was given over to parades, demonstrations, orators, spectacles, plays, satires, and debates—in fact, in every big city of Russia a tremendous effort against religion was made.

"We have destroyed the czar's earth; now it is time to destroy the czar's heaven," reads the enormous poster stuck everywhere. It shows a red clad workingman carrying the soviet symbol, a hammer and a sickle, mounting a ladder into the sky and attacking a row of figures labeled Jesus, Moses, Mohammed, and pagan deities.

Another striking poster in a different vein shows a representation of Christ with the words: "Take of my body and eat." Three persons, one labeled the Greek Catholic church, another the kings, and the third a fat man with dollar signs on his clothes are tearing Christ's body into pieces and drinking the blood from the wounds.

Satire of Sacred Scenes.

I saw the communist students stage a satire. I didn't understand the words which caused much laughter, but the climax consisted of some one tearing down a picture of Christ from an altar, about which a score of women were praying, and substituting a picture of Karl Marx amidst applause.

Another satire called "Immaculate Conception" presented a young woman flirting with Roman soldiers. The performance concluded with motion pictures showing the opening of numerous sacred shrines in Russia during the last three years.

CANTON IN PANIC AS 3 COLUMNS MARCH ON CITY

Peking Rushes Envoy to Avert Smash.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PEKING, Jan. 7.—The Cantonese residents of Peking at a meeting of the Canton guild think the capture of Wuchow shatters the hope of reunification of China. Also they see a danger of fighting within Canton.

The meeting agreed that Chen Chiung Ming, upon whom hope rested, had failed after six months to effect a reunion even among the southerners and expressed a view that his position is untenable. The loss of Wuchow finds Chen with an undependable force between the front and Canton. Fear is being expressed that disaster awaits him.

Send Delegate South.

The meeting chose a delegate in the person of Yeh Hsin Hsiang to proceed south to confer with the leaders of the Yunnan and Kwangsi armies, asking after the entry into Canton that order prevail and unnecessary destruction be averted.

Consular advices indicate that Chen is about to attempt a stand twenty-five miles east of Wuchow, but he lacks money to pay his troops. Little hope is entertained of his holding off the advancing force. This force is marching in three columns under Chans Kaish and styles itself as the Society for the Suppression of Brigands, but is popularly believed to be under a subordinate of Dr. Sun Yat Sen. Panic conditions prevail in Canton.

Efforts to Unite China.

Realizing that a serious situation will be created through the requirements of the new year, earnest efforts at reunification of China are being made. Diplomats regard these as a most promising attempt, although the results are doubtful until the militarists are either satisfied or suppressed. This task is most difficult, but President Li Yuan-Hung has broadcast a telegram citing the reign of lawlessness, excessive taxation, fighting, etc., and warning of foreign aggression. He adds, "If the tuchuns are willing to sacrifice their military power, the nation will be saved. Otherwise it will be doomed."

One hopeful sign is Canton's acceptance of Peking's authority following recognition by Gen. Shen Hung Ying, who is in command at Kweilin, thus committing Kwangsi province and making possible agreement with Yunnan, Szechwan, and Fukien provinces, although the factions of Szechwan and Yunnan are engaged in the new offensive against Canton.

Loan Prospects Vital.

The attitude of the diplomatic corps regarding a loan is speeding the reunification movement, since the Chinese realize that foreign creditors are unwilling to permit the benefit of the tariff increase, effective on Jan. 17, to be applied otherwise than a reduction of foreign debts. Customs in 1922 totaled $86,000,000, being a gain of $6,000,000. Instead of using the surplus to reduce foreign loans, China devoted $21,000,000, plus $3,000,000, the amount of the surplus from salt, to a domestic loan.

The diplomats oppose further use in this direction until foreign debts are satisfied, especially since most of the expected tariff increase already is earmarked for military and administrative expenses.

Seeing the powers about to take an assertive stand, the Chinese bankers suggest a conference of diplomats for apportioning the customs surplus. The powers insist that China begin actual reunification and disbandment, causing the national chamber of commerce to send delegates throughout the republic. The president's manifesto and Canton's recognition are the first fruits.

Warning

To the Public, to Retailers and Wholesalers, and to Importers

WARNING is hereby given that there are being sold throughout the country foreign-made Mesh Bags which are copies, in design and construction, of Whiting & Davis Mesh Bags, designs on which patents are pending in the U. S. Pat. Office.

As this constitutes a flagrant infringement upon the rights of the Whiting & Davis Company, as conferred by patents granted by the United States Government and upon copyrighted designs, every person or company buying or selling such Mesh Bags becomes a party to the action and liable under the law.

One instance has been found where a jewelry store has displayed in its window these foreign-made Mesh Bags, featuring in connection a sign reading "Whiting & Davis Mesh Bags," and were sold to buyers as such.

Complete evidence of this case has been secured. To establish its legal rights fully and to serve as a warning to all others concerned, the Whiting & Davis Company has instituted court action against the jewelers in question. No expense nor time will be spared in the fullest possible prosecution of such infringements. Every legal remedy, including damages, will be sought.

A general investigation is being made by the Whiting & Davis Company throughout the country and where similar cases are found they will be as summarily and as vigorously prosecuted.

To the great body of jewelers, who have built their business by honest merchandising and straightforward dealings, this is but a friendly warning so that they may not be imposed upon. A genuine Whiting & Davis Co. Mesh Bag is readily distinguishable by the following trademark:

MESH WHITING & DAVIS CO. BAGS
TRADE MARK REG. U.S. AND CAN.

The above trademark is either stamped on the inside of frame or is printed on a tag attached to the bag, reading "A Whiting & Davis Co. Mesh Bag." Every genuine bag will carry one or the other (or both) of these identifying marks.

Whiting & Davis Company, through long years of effort, and by originating and developing improvements and methods of manufacturing, has made "Whiting & Davis" the standard of quality, design and workmanship in fine Mesh Bags, rising to the position of the largest manufacturer in this industry.

The good will which this represents to the public, in the secure knowledge that "Whiting & Davis" stands for the highest attainments in quality, beauty of design, craftsmanship, and long and satisfactory service, will continue to be as consistently protected against those who prey upon a reputation won by unflagging industry, merit and honest dealing.

CHILDREN WORK IN "HOME SHOPS" AND BEET FIELDS

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The sweating of boys and girls on factory work in homes in Rhode Island and the exploitation of juvenile workers in the sugar beet fields of Michigan and Colorado are phases of child labor covered in two surveys made by the children's bureau, United States department of labor, to which considerable attention is now being directed.

In many lesser industries in New England conditions were found not unlike the ancient family sweat shops in the garment trade before it was highly industrialized.

In Providence and Pawtucket the survey shows that twenty-one industries use home work as part of their system of production. Of these the jewelry industry was most prominent. The children, many of them 5 and 9 years and upwards, worked at their homes in the kitchen, generally after school, at carding dress snaps, wiring beads, carding jewelry, and similar home occupations.

"The Home Work" System.

With a whole family on the job, the older members doing the harder tasks and the little ones the easier ones, the average earnings per person were around 3 cents an hour. To earn half a cent at carding fasteners, the child had to place one gross of the snaps in cards.

When the investigators asked the Pawtucket and Providence manufacturers for the reasons for using the home work system, most of the producers laid to labor shortage.

Home work, however, is a means of "getting around" the present child labor laws. Under the Rhode Island law women and minors under 16 were not allowed to work more than fifty-four hours a week in a factory. By giving the work out, it is argued, the factories were deliberately thwarting the purpose of the law, for there is no eight hour day in the home. It was found that almost three-tenths of the home working children between 9 and 13 years of age were retarded in their school work.

Work in Sugar Beet Fields.

The study of the sugar beet fields in Michigan and Colorado by the children's bureau included 2,500 children 6 to 16 years of age, of whom three-fourths worked. In Michigan two-thirds of the laborers were transients recruited by the sugar companies from industrial centers, from Detroit and Chicago to the mining towns of West Virginia. Chiefly they were of Slavic origin.

Children were found working at early ages. More than one-half the juvenile workers included in the survey were between the ages of 9 and 12 years, and the average age was 11 years. They thinned out the small plants in the spring, hoed, pulled the beets when grown, and "topped" or cut the beet tops. The day of more than nine hours was prevalent, and the working period sometimes ran as high as thirteen and fourteen hours for 10 year old children.

Unfavorably Affects Bodies.

The study reports that the posture and outline of the growing child's body are seriously affected by the thinning, the pulling, and the topping, which is heavy work.

As to interference with education, comparisons made in the beet region by the bureau experts showed that the percentage of retarded children was 20 to 30 per cent higher among the employed than among the nonemployed children.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL
Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.
The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.
Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits; 15c and 30c.

BAPTIST FIGHT ON LIBERALISM IS DENOUNCED

Fundamentalists Defeat Selves, Pastor Says.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Dr. A. Wakefield Slaten, the Baptist minister who was driven from the William Jewell Baptist college, Liberty, Mo., because of his views as expressed in a book, "What Jesus Taught," predicted yesterday morning in a sermon in the Third Unitarian church, Park theater, Austin boulevard and Lake avenue, that William Jennings Bryan and the fundamentalists whose cause Bryan is championing would defeat themselves.

DR. A. WAKEFIELD SLATEN.

Dr. Slaten has accepted, it is understood, the pastorate of the Third Unitarian church, which is holding services in the Park theater until a new church can be erected. His subject was, "What Americans Want in Religion Today."

"Such agitation," he said, "as is represented by the activities of William Jennings Bryan, the campaign against liberalism to be staged by the Baptists in Kansas City in the spring, the recent action of the Baptist state convention of Texas in forbidding the employment in their denominational colleges of teachers holding views of evolution contrary to the Bible, or otherwise departing from fundamentalist doctrines; the requiring of signatures to creeds of the faculties of denominational colleges; the organized and determined effort to oust all unorthodox professors; the threat of carrying the war into high schools and public schools in order to make all teaching from the beginning conform to fundamentalism—all these must in the end defeat themselves by making the issue plain."

Dr. Slaten defined the teachings of the fundamentalists as expressed in the following, which he called "dogmatic assertions":

Former Mayor McFerren of Hoopeston, Ill., Dies

"WILL COST U. S. $50,000,000 TO BEAT SHIP BILL"

Lasker Tells Savings by Subsidy O. K.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Defeat of the ship subsidy bill will mean that congress must spend from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 for the construction of fast passenger vessels, A. D. Lasker, chairman of the shipping board, declared in testimony before the house appropriations committee in executive session, a transcript of which has just been made public.

The appropriations committee, in the independent offices bill reported yesterday to the house, provides $50,000,000 for the emergency shipping fund, the same as recommended by the budget bureau.

The testimony of Mr. Lasker indicated that he was none too confident that the ship subsidy bill will be passed.

Mr. Lasker, after discussing the possibility of the reconditioning of some of the ex-German passenger vessels, said:

"The shipping board feels that the Agamemnon and the Mount Vernon, formerly the Kaiser Wilhelm II. and the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, fairly old but very fine ships, should be reconditioned, which would cost $7,000,000 or $8,000,000. Many of the board feel strongly that we cannot build up a permanent line in the North Atlantic unless we put in some further fast ships, more than we now have. I have resisted this suggestion because I saw that these ships are so old that the money put into them for reconditioning would never come back."

Mr. Lasker discussed operating losses of the shipping board, which are amounting to about $50,000,000 per year.

8,000 DIE IN 14 STATES IN 1922 IN AUTO 'BATTLE'

New York, Jan. 7.—[Copyright, 1923, by the United Press.]—Approximately 8,000 persons were killed in automobile accidents in 1922 in fourteen states where statistics on such fatalities are kept, or estimated by responsible organizations, according to figures gathered by the United Press.

While definite figures were not available from the remaining states, unofficial estimates described the fatalities as heavy, and indicated that the casualties strike a fairly even average, population considered. On the basis of the generally accepted estimate that twenty-three persons are injured for every one killed by automobiles, the number hurt in the United States in 1922 is estimated in six figures.

The "traffic evil" in the year just ended broke all former records with this startling casualty toll. Large population centers, where congestion adds to the menace of the reckless or intoxicated driver, led the list. In New York state alone, statistics show, 2,000 persons were killed in crossing accidents, by speeders, in collisions and other accidents.

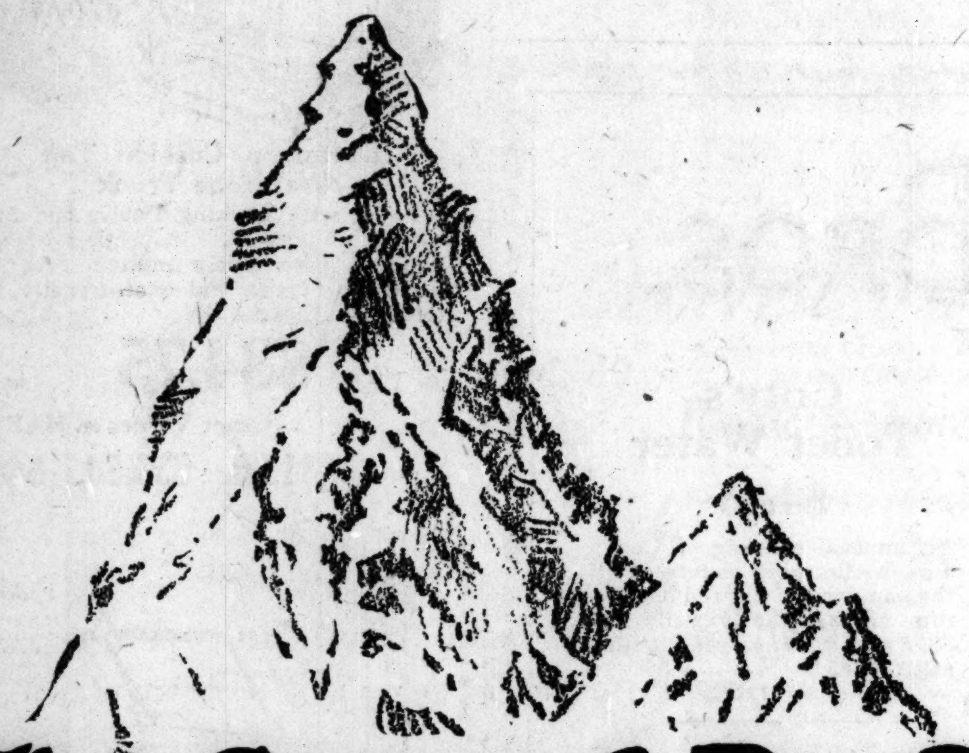
Fully 95 per cent of the accidents, traffic experts estimated, were of the "preventable" sort. Care and caution by some one could have averted them and saved the lives or limbs of the victims.

A dozen state legislatures, hundreds of state, county and city officials, and Criminal court judges are considering measures to curb the menace, many of them prescribing jail and prison sentences as well as moral penalties for speeders and careless drivers.

Next to New York, the largest toll among the states was taken in Pennsylvania, where 1,100 were killed.

Illinois and California ranked third in the number of dead reported. In each automobile accidents took a toll of approximately 1,000 killed.

Fatalities in other states included: Oregon, 41; Iowa, 160; Wisconsin, 190; Nebraska, 108; Oklahoma, 234; Georgia, 116; Michigan, 403; Massachusetts, 522; Maryland, 223; Ohio, 800.



The Second Peak

During 1921 The Boston Herald carried more national advertising in its daily editions than any other American newspaper. During 1922 it has not only continued that leadership, but has, we believe, also carried more national advertising in its daily and Sunday editions than any other seven-day American newspaper.

Its unquestioned twofold leadership among Boston newspapers is demonstrated by the following report of lineage, from figures furnished by the Boston Newspapers' Statistical Bureau:

Surely You Know "Krazy Kat"!

HERRIMAN puts something besides brickbats and wild mice into his daily record of "Krazy's" life. It's an intangible something to most of us, but we all feel it and quickly become attached to the quiet humor not alone of the characters, but to the boldness of Herriman's art.

• •

And do you know "Jerry"? He is "Mr. Givney's" right-hand man, and does all the heavy work on the wonderful "Newmonia" railroad. His wit is compelling, his troubles are endless, and his resourcefulness without end. "Jerry" brightens the comic page every day, and without him it would languish.

• •

Polly Perkins is a fashion plate. The rest of the Perkins family are not fashion plates. In such contrast, Cliff. Sterrett makes "Polly and Her Pals" a daily hit with millions of readers. There are "Pa" and "Ma," "Ashur Url Perkins," the Jap houseboy and the queerest cat in the world, who with "Polly" make a daily dip into the wells of your mirth.

• •

That's just the way of it! There are two pages of features to be told about in this story, and every one of them is so good that it makes the writing of it hard. Just the same, we'll go on to—

• •

"Us Boys." Don't you know "Skinny" Shaner and "Shrimp" Flynn? O Man, O Woman or O Child! Whichever it is! You have missed something! And "Eaglebeak" Spruder? And "Van"? Well, well, well! And you think you know something about boys! Meet 'em! Get acquainted with the humanest, most adorable bunch of pests that grace any comic page or whose counterparts are the problem of nearly every home in the land.

"Abie the Agent" is too whimsical for words. He is a man of countless troubles, and all of his friends and relatives are poor. "Abie" will be "gled to meet you, positivel," every day on the comic page, and will regale you with a rare quality of humor done in inimitable English.

• •

Now let's go all the way to the bottom of the page and meet "Slim Pickens." "Slim" is a perfect devil with the ladies, a sore trial to his boss, and the luckiest human being alive. He gets into more trouble than a dozen ordinary men—and gets out of it again. Right now he is dodging matrimony, and he was never so busy.

• •

There's a daily "show" on the comic page. It's the "Thimble Theatre," and the leading characters are "Hamgravy" and "Oliveoil." They've recently found $100,000,000, and are getting rid of it. Help them do it!

• •

"Helpful Henry" lets his wife do it. He beats most of us by getting away with it.

• •

"Abie" runs a "Questions and Answers" department every day. Here is a sample: "Dear Mr. Kabibble: What do you advise? My fiance hasn't worked since we became engaged!" "Abie" says: "Remaining engaged these days is a job in itself!"

There you are—two pages of clean, wholesome humor, every feature a mirth-provoking masterpiece. Millions of newspaper readers all over the country enjoy these characters every day, their freshness and wit are contagious.

ROY McWHIRTER.

Fifteen thousand fans, the largest crowd to attend an ice derby this season, yesterday saw the Alverno A. A. team win first honors in the tenth annual Norwegian-American A. A. tournament at Humboldt park. The Alverno team rolled up 130 points, winning places in five of the eleven events. Northwest Skating club was second with 120 points, while Austin-Columbia A. A. scored 70 and Norwegian-American 40 for fourth honors.

Eddie Reed, international and national junior champion, led the Alverno team to victory. Reed won the two mile open handicap, skating from scratch, and placed second in the class A one mile race. Larry Quirk was the feature performer for the Austin-Columbias with first honors in class AA mile and placing second in the handicap event.

McWhirter Takes Mile.

Roy McWhirter, national outdoor title holder, of the Northwest Skating club, won the one mile class A race after a sensational spurt in the final lap. McWhirter started out content to pace along with William Steinmetz of the Norwegian team, international champion, but on the final lap, when Eddie Reed started to spurt, Roy jumped up alongside the Alverno racer and outpaced him on the final race down the stretch.

Steinmetz was pocketed and unable to jump out after McWhirter and finished in fourth position; Fred Buendgen of the Northwest Skating club sprinting down the stretch and finishing three feet behind Ed Reed for third honors.

Schoolboy Skater Wins.

Eddie Murphy, a schoolboy skater of last year's team, racing under the colors of the Alverno club, won the class B one mile race, while George Mahoney, also of last year's schoolboy outfit, was first in the novice event. Francis Allen of the Mustang A. G. won the class C race at one mile.

Mrs. Rose Johnson Edman, Northwest Skating club, added to her string of victories by winning the one-half mile event for women. Ruth Muhlmeier, Opal A. A., sprinted the last lap and forced Mrs. Edman to the limit. The Opal racer fell fifty yards from the tape, but recovered in time to finish third.

MISS COX IN SENIOR SILVER SKATES EVENT

Included in the batch of nominations received yesterday for the seventh annual silver skates derbies of The Tribune, to be held at Garfield park on Jan. 21, was that of Evelyn Cox of the Waters playground, winner of the girls' junior derby last year.

Miss Cox will skate in the girls senior event and is expected to make a strong bid for the silver skates, which will be awarded to the winner. Like other skaters who have won prizes in these derbies, Miss Cox accomplished her ambition last year through determination. She skated in two derbies before she was rewarded with a first prize.

Olga Anderson Enters.

Another prominent entry was that of Miss Olga Anderson of the Reuss A. C., who will compete in the senior derby. Miss Anderson has been skating well this year and barring accidents is doped to win one of the prizes offered to the winners of first, second, or third places.

Leon Emmert of Swift playground, star of the high school boys' team last year, will be a contestant in the boys' intermediate derby. Leon, like many other boys who are successful on the steel blades, is a product of the playgrounds. He has shown such decided improvement each year that he should be a strong contender for honors in his class.

Weather Determines Track Size.

Weather conditions on the day of the derbies will determine the size of the track. If it is cold, a six lap course will be laid out, but if the ice is soft it will be necessary to lay out a smaller skating surface of eight laps. The track will be laid out by Western Skating association surveyors under the directon of Paul Staff.

Entries for the derbies close next Sunday at midnight and no nominations will be accepted after this date. Those desiring to enter are requested to clip the entry blanks appearing on the sports pages and mail them as directed. No entry fee is required.

SKI STARS HOLD DRILL FOR BIG TITLE TOURNEYS

Ski riders of the Norge Ski club and Grand Beach Michigan Ski club tried out their slides yesterday and announced that everything is ready for the big tournaments which will be staged later in the month. The Grand Beach tournament will be held at the Michigan slide next Sunday, while the Norge club tournament will take place at Cary, Ill., on Jan. 21.

Ragnar Omtvedt, Arne Miller, and Fred Heyerdahl were the three experts who gave the Grand Beach hill its initial test of the season. Omtvedt, who is club captain, announced that the hill is in perfect shape and declared that records would be broken in next Sunday's tournament. Six inches of snow was reported at Grand Beach, and it was snowing hard late last night.

Sparta Unions defeated the Bricklayers in a hard fought soccer clash at 27th street and Kostner avenue yesterday afternoon, 4 to 3, despite a coating of snow on the gridiron. DREYFUSS ILL WIND BLOWS N. Y. TEMPEST

LEAGUE HEADS QUIET

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 7.—Neither Ban Johnson, president of the American league, nor John Heydler, leader of the Nationals, would discuss the baseball schedule tangle tonight. The joint committee of the major leagues, which is assembled here to thrash out the playing schedule for 1923, did not meet today, but will meet again tomorrow.

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The African in the wood pile in all the talk of conflicting dates between the New York Giants and the New York Yankees appears to be none other than a smart baseball magnate from Pittsburgh, Mr. Barney Dreyfuss.

Mr. Dreyfuss hates to see good money get away from baseball. He has been so keen in his pursuit of good money that he has often brought his team from Pittsburgh to play at Ebbets' field, Brooklyn, with the team of that other stern old money hater, C. H. Ebbets, and then hurried back to play in Pittsburgh the next day. The days he came here were Sundays, of course, because there is no Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania.

When the Yankee stadium was projected, Mr. Dreyfuss saw a chance to make two baseball tickets sprout where only one sprouted before. So he began to figure that he might slip into the polo grounds and play of a Sunday, the same as he has been playing at Ebbets' field in the last three seasons.

Mr. Dreyfuss is the maker of the schedules of the two big leagues that the presidents of these leagues are now poring over in Atlantic City. He has been a schedule maker for a number of years. He is said to know more about figures and baseball jumps and railroad time-tables than any man in baseball.

But this year, with the chance of the Giants getting double the number of Sunday dates, inasmuch as the Yankees would have a park of their own, Dreyfuss began to figure on a lot of jumps here from Pittsburgh for his Pirates to engage in battle with the Giants before great crowds.

Woods and Waters by BOB BECKER

WINTER FISHERMEN HAVE BEEN ACTIVE.

REPORTS from different parts of Wisconsin indicate that ice fishermen have not been asleep on the job, as many have been trying their luck during the last few weeks.

Fishing fans living near lakes Winnebago, Poygan and Winneconne report good catches, and judging by the way they fish up there the gang also had a lot of fun. You can talk about modern angling and all its ramifications, but it sure is the height of something when the winter fisherman steps in his automobile (equipped with a heater) rides out to the lake, prepares his fishing gear and then cruises around from ice hole to ice hole to haul in his catch. That's what you might call winter fishing de luxe, and it is the way some of the winter anglers operate up north.

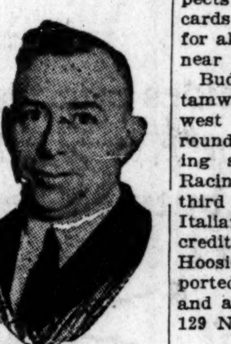
Of course, most of these "arctic" anglers have shanties that boast of the comfort of a chair and some kind of heat. The little oil stove makes a handy piece of equipment to have along as they give considerable heat and are easy to move about. As far as we are concerned, a flock of these stoves would be necessary as well as fur and "electric lined" shoes and gloves to resist winter's blasts.

The wall eye and the great lakes pike are two of the standbyes of the ice fisherman. And it's hard to beat a winter caught wall eye for eating. This fish is mighty fine "eats" the year round, but in cold weather they seem to be especially good.

Mullen to Promote Indoor Shows; Charity Card First

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Jim Mullen, hustling local promoter, who has been out of town for a few weeks, arrived in the city last Saturday and announced tentative plans for a busy winter season.



JIM MULLEN.

One of Jim's schemes is to hold a mammoth boxing carnival at Dexter Park pavilion on Jan 30, all money t go into a fund t purchase coal for the poor people of Chicago. Mullen asserted he is positive he can stage the show and is figuring on Eddie Anderson, Moline bantamweight, and Harold Smith of the stockyards as his main attraction.

On Jan. 23, Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion, and Jack Eile of the west side will clash before a suburban club. Mullen has secured this match at the request of members of the local organization who were willing to pay the price. Mullen also has matched Joe Burman and Patsy Flanigan for the main event of the show to be staged by the Blackhawk post of the American Legion in the near future.

Gives Fans Money's Worth.

In the last two years, Promoter Mullen has staged some excellent shows in Aurora. He has given local fans their money's worth and he expects to put on just as attractive cards this winter. The complete card for all shows will be announced in the near future.

Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute bantamweight, and Jimmy Kelly of the west side will trade punches for ten rounds in the main event of the boxing show to be conducted by the Racine A. C. tonight. It will be the third meeting of the pair and the Italian is confident he will make a creditable showing against the blonde Hoosier. The main event will be supported by four other contests. Tickets and all information can be secured at 129 N. Dearborn street.

Burman to Box Smith.

Joe Burman, who is bent on getting a match with Joe Lynch for the bantamweight title, is working daily at the Arcade for his ten round clash with Midget Smith at Detroit next Monday night. Burman has sold his cigar store on the north side and intends to devote his time to boxing.

◆

Tom Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, who is seeking a match with Jack Dempsey, will be in Chicago today on his way to New York to talk over terms of the proposed contest with Tex Rickard. Gibbons may stay over for a day to second Taylor in his bout with Kelly before the Racine A. C. tonight. Manager Eddie Kane will accompany the fighter to New York.

◆

Pal Moore, Memphis and Chicago 118 pounder who meets Bud Taylor at East Chicago next Monday night, will resume training at the Arcade today. Indications are Moore may get the Pancho Villa match if he wins the popular verdict over the Hoosier.

M'CORMICK WINS SHOOT TROPHY

Three shootoffs of ties in events which were staged during the summer were held yesterday at the Lincoln park traps. In the shootoff for the class A challenge trophy Ed McCormick defeated F. E. Mueller Sr., 23 to 22, after tying at 23 in the first 25 targets. Harry Miller won the class C medal, breaking 20 targets, while S. Fay and S. Fitton each shattered 19. Ward Burton won the shootoff for the Edgewater Beach Hotel trophy, breaking 19 targets from 22 yards, while G. F. Bicknell broke 17 from 20 yards.

G. L. Becker was high gun in the regular weekly events, winning the 50 target event with 49 and the doubles with 48 targets out of the 25 pairs thrown. Leading scores:

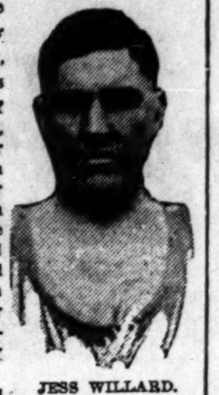
JESS WILLARD IN NEW YORK AFTER DEMPSEY MATCH

BY HARRY NEWMAN.

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, will arrive here tomorrow with his manager, Ray Archer. Jess is still in quest of Jack Dempsey, but will rest for a brief spell in his chase after the champion just to take a peek a Bill Brennan and Floyd Johnston pulling their stuff in the Garden on Friday night.



JESS WILLARD.

The Kansas farmer is going to try his persuasive powers on Tex Rickard. Jess thinks he can convince Rickard that another spill between himself and Mr. Dempsey would be a riot, but we happen to know that he is going to have a mighty stiff contract on his hands if he thinks Tex is going to fall so easy. Willard will have to show something before Rickard will consider any thoughts of a bout between the Kansas giant and the champion.

Must Show Rickard.

Rickard will doubtless ask Jess to tackle the winner of the Brennan and Johnson wrangle, but that is where the rub comes in. It is known that Willard does not want any one but Dempsey. However, the public wants him to put his stuff right on the line and Rickard knows it. Willard will have to revise his mind about things.

According to Willard's wire to Rickard he will get into our town about two o'clock tomorrow afternoon but he will have to bide his time before seeing Rickard. Tex left for Columbus, O., tonight to attend the inauguration of Gov. Donahey and will not return until Wednesday.

Champion Arrives Thursday.

Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, also sent word to Rickard today that he would arrive here with Dempsey on Thursday. Evidently the boys are all set to have Rickard send in the proposed match between Dempsey and Willard.

The chances are that if a match is arranged between the champ and Willard, the former would postpone that trip to Europe, just to take on Willard. One thing sure, the next few days will bring about some interesting developments concerning Dempsey's next fight.

MOORE WINS IN ICE TITLE MEET

Yonkers, N. Y., Jan. 7.—Joe Moore of New York won the men's title and Miss Hattie Dose of New York captured the women's laurels in the annual tournament for the Metropolitan ice skating championships today. The other leading point scorers were all from New York.

BRAVES TRAIN IN FLORIDA.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Jan. 7.—The Boston National league baseball club will begin its spring training here March 12, according to information recevied tonight by a local hotel where the Braves had made reservations for fifty men.

DODGE BROTHERS
MOTOR CAR

Winter never fails to bring this car renewed praise.

It is because the starting system and carburetor seem to be almost immune from cold weather troubles. The response is prompt, even on the coldest mornings.

The cord tires, with their safety tread, are also particularly desirable in winter. They not only act as a safeguard against skidding, but greatly reduce the possibility of having to change tires under disagreeable weather conditions.

Close fitting curtains, which open with the doors, enable the owner to drive in comfort the whole year round.

FACULTY HOTBED OF ANTAGONISM TO PURPLE SPORT

(Mr. Fullerton has studied the football situation in the leading eastern universities, and today commences his study of the athletic situation in the middle western schools, seeking a constructive solution of the problems which are worrying educators and athletic directors alike. He will, in succeeding articles, analyze the situation in the various leading midwestern schools.—Editor.)

BY HUGH FULLERTON.

Northwestern university is the hot bed of antagonism to athletics, especially to football. With a president favorable to the sport, a board of trustees the majority of whom are strong for football, a student body practically unanimous in support of team and coaches, almost 50 per cent of the faculty members oppose athletics as now conducted and fully one-third of them would like to see football eliminated entirely.

It was Northwestern which, seventeen years ago, inaugurated the fight against football which has continued ever since. It was Northwestern which once barred the sport entirely. Now, with a live leadership and a policy which is bringing back to life one of the deadest of the mid-western universities, the old guard still fights.

17 Years of Opposition.

Seventeen years ago Northwestern wanted football stopped because it was "brutal," basing the opposition to the sport upon injuries. Northwestern has run the gamut of opposition to athletics, changed reasons for opposing, and changed arguments. Unfortunately mid-western coaches and athletic directors have at times permitted evils to creep into the sport, and the conservatives of Northwestern have seized upon these evils and, instead of attacking the evils, have attacked the sport itself.

Before one may understand the attitude of this element in Northwestern [which exists in less strength in every other university], it is necessary to get their viewpoint. I have tried, through all this investigation, to discover the concepts of the different groups, and to persuade them to tell me what education is: what they think the object of college education is.

If the object of colleges is purely academic, then football nor any other athletic activity has any part in the pedigogical scheme. If the object is to develop scientific, professional, and commercial men, the value of sport is debatable. If the idea is that education consists of the well rounded man, the right kind of citizen, athletics take at least equal rank with academic training. If proof is needed, there were more than 1,500 letter men from the ten Western conference colleges in the late war, and more than half of them were officers.

Object to Coaches' Salary.

Northwestern, fortunately or unfortunately, has a large percentage of faculty members who hold to the academic theory and must, to be consistent, oppose athletics.

Now lets be brutally frank: The chief objection to football at Northwestern—or rather the chief reason for the objection—is that the football coach is paid more money than the average professor is paid. Many professors consider this unjust. Admittedly [even among officials], the average college professor is underpaid, from which some argue that the coach also should be underpaid.

The attitude is quite unfair. The average professor has a life job, even at low salary, and the low salared ones, to be more brutally frank, are more or less failures. If the Greek professors of the ten conference colleges were required to pick eleven of their students and enter them in a series of contests against each other, the four winners getting raises and the six losers losing their jobs, the comparison might be fairer. It is certain we would have better Greek professors.

Grades Show Decrease.

The same objections to football are raised among its opponents in Northwestern that we find elsewhere. We find that the disturbing of academic activities during the football season is more severe here than in the average school. I think this will be found true in every co-educational school, for girls ordinarily are more upset and distracted by excitement than men. I was unable to secure evidence on this point in the shape of comparative grades, but was told that the work of the girl students fell off sharply during the crisis of the football season as well as that of the men.

The charge that football is damaging physically is raised, and the statement that football players are subnormal as students is reiterated—with no figures produced to prove the point.

Recently the radical element of Northwestern professors, chiefly members of the National Association of College Professors, hurled a broadcast charge of professionalism against the athletic directors and coaches of the conference. They charged verbally and in writing that the country is scoured to secure football players, that money and other inducements are offered, that a specially favored class is created, and that professors are expected to show leniency in examining athletes.

Purple Clear of Pros.

Save for a brief and unfortunate experience, when Northwestern went out and grabbed a lot of Great Lakes players after the war and quickly regretted it, I find no taint of professionalism. The fact that rules have been broken in the past, isolated cases of violation of rules in recent history, are built into generalizations.

I find that in Northwestern, President Walter Dill Scott is sound and well informed on football and on the situation, and favors the sport with certain evils curbed or eliminated. The majority of the trustees are with him. The coaching system is a bit too expensive for the size of the university. The undergraduates are strong for athletics, especially football, and loyal to the team and the coach. The mass of the old grads, men and women, favor the sport.

BADGERS ALARM OHIO BY COURTING WILCE

Columbus, O., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Distant rumblings among Wisconsin university alumni from all parts of the country have been tapped by the Ohio State alumni and the news of the Badgers' activities is startling to Buckeye followers. The Wisconsin alumni want Coach J. W. Wilce to return to his alma mater as a football mentor next season. The position was left vacant by the resignation of John Richards late in November.

J. W. WILCE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Wilce sentiment among students and alumni alike has developed to such a pitch that Wisconsin cannot see another coach in the country for the job.

Prominent at Wisconsin.

Dr. Wilce, as a student at Wisconsin a decade ago, was a varsity football man, a crew man, president of the Glee club, member of the student council, and had several other important places in student life. He is well acquainted with the Badger spirit. After he graduated he worked as a coach in high schools in Wisconsin, later returning to the Badger institution as a physical education instructor. Director L. W. St. John brought him to Ohio State as a coach from Wisconsin in 1913.

It is understood that Dr. Wilce has been approached about the matter and has laid it aside to take time to think. He has refused to comment definitely on the proposition. Wisconsin alumni are busy getting up enough sentiment to show Wilce how badly the Badgers want him in Wisconsin.

Want Wilce to Stay.

It is this sentiment the Ohio State alumni and students are going to combat within the next three weeks. Telegrams already have started to swamp the athletic house asking Dr. Wilce to stay at Ohio State.

FARM AND GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

BEEMEN WANT YEAR 'ROUND INSPECTION OF COLONIES.

An active campaign is now on all over Illinois among beekeepers who are urging the state legislature to appropriate a sufficient fund to inspect bees and save the honey producing industry. Bee diseases are prevalent in various parts of Illinois and apiculturists claim the only way to control them is through state wide inspection. Dr. A. C. Baxter, president of the Illinois State Bee Keepers' association, is at the head of a committee of three appointed by the organization's members at a recent meeting to go before the legislature and ask for an appropriation of $12,000 a year instead of only $3,000 that is now provided, and insufficient to carry on the inspection work.

The saving of the 200,000 colonies of bees in this state directly concerns every beeman in Illinois, and farmers, orchard owners and gardeners, too, for the honey bee not only produces food but has an economic value in modern agriculture that cannot be measured and is seldom considered seriously by the average producer of crops. The bee is of fundamental importance in the pollination of fruits and vegetables as well as many of the leguminous and other field crops.

Four New Net Stars Enter Charmed First Ten Circle

GAR WOOD SMASHES SALT WATER RECORD WITH MISS AMERICA

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 7.—Garfield A. Wood of Detroit established a new international salt water record for dual motored speed boats today when he drove his Miss America I. at the rate of 75.43 miles an hour in the channel off Long Branch, near here.

Wood, failed, however, to break his own fresh water record of 76.665 miles an hour, established at Algonac, Mich., in 1920.

His previous salt water record was 73 miles an hour, it was announced. Stop watches of representatives of seven sporting organizations gave him 75.43 miles an hour in the fastest of the six trials he made over a mile course officially measured by the city engineer.

The same watches gave him an average of 74.76 miles an hour for all six laps, and it was stated this latter figure probably would be accepted as official.

MICHIGAN AUTO RACER IS KILLED IN TEXAS

Houston, Tex., Jan. 7.—Earl Grey, 23, race driver of Flint, Mich., was killed at the Gulf Coast speedway this afternoon on the last lap of the second race. Grey's car hit the inside fence in the previous lap, but he continued to drive with a piece of the fence wedged between his left front wheel and the steering gear.

As he tried to come out of the turn onto the home stretch in the last lap, the board caught his steering apparatus, causing him to turn over. He was caught under the car and crushed. He died instantly.

He had done considerable driving in and around Flint, where his parents now live.

GAMES TONIGHT.
Wisconsin at Indiana.
Illinois at Ohio.

BY TED ISERMAN.

Stellar performances of the three victorious Big Ten cage teams, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Michigan, in their opening battles with Northwestern, Chicago, and Illinois, Saturday night, foretell for these outfits creditable ratings in the conference when the season closes next March. Tonight two more teams break into the conference race when Indiana meets Wisconsin at Bloomington and Ohio State plays Illinois at Columbus.

In the contests of Saturday night the dopesters were upheld in the playing of the teams, the three victors proving themselves easily superior to their rivals, all assuming early leads and finishing their battles with wide margins. By beating Illinois 30 to 13 Michigan stands out as one of the strong teams of the race. In the opening battle Coach Mather's crew presented an almost impenetrable five man defense, seldom permitting the Illini shooters within scoring distance.

Hawkeyes Show Class.

The teamwork of Coach Sam Barry's Hawkeyes in their game with the Maroons is sure to bring them near the front. Using a short passing attack and a tight five man defense, the visiting quintet far outclassed the Maroons.

The Purple cagers did no more than was expected of them in their combat with Wisconsin, scoring ten points to the visitors' twenty-one. Northwestern's running attack was inferior to that of the Badgers and on the defense Coach Meanwell's men showed real title class.

Badgers Should Win.

Wisconsin should win the second battle tonight, when the Badger five meets Indiana. The Cardinal crew, coached by the originator of the short pass game, is expected to maintain too tight a defense to permit any but long shots by the Hoosiers.

Purdue, winner of last year's championship and this year rated as one of the likeliest contenders for the Big Ten title, will not begin its season until a week from tonight, meeting Northwestern. Minnesota will break into the conference race Saturday night, meeting Michigan at Ann Arbor.

THREE PURPLE TEAMS IN FOR ACTIVE WEEK

Two Northwestern university teams exhibit their wares to the home folks this week and one ventures forth to meet an opponent of unknown strength. Coach Henry Szymanski's wrestlers, who last week forced Illinois to the limit to win, will clash with Wisconsin Friday at Patten gym. On Saturday night the Purple swimmers will meet the Milwaukee Athletic club team in Evanston while the basket team is battling Ohio on the Columbus floor.

St. Ignatius Outclasses Hammond Quintet, 36-7

Further evidence of the prowess of the St. Ignatius cagers was presented last night when the academy quintet defeated the fast Hammond five at St. Ignatius, 36 to 7. Dugan and Capt. Scott played stellar ball. The lineup:

SCHAEFER-CONTI BALKLINE MATCH STARTS TONIGHT

HOPPE MEETS WINNER

New York, Jan. 7.—[United News.]—Willie Hoppe will stake the world's billiard championship in a 1,500 point match here beginning next Friday night and concluding Sunday night with either Jake Schaefer or Roger Conti of France as his opponent. Five hundred points will be played each night.

BY JOE DAVIS.

Chicago balk line fans will have their inning this week as Jake Schaefer of San Francisco and Roger Conti, the champion of France, start play in their 1,500 point match at Orchestra hall tonight at 8 o'clock. They will play 500 points each night and the winner will earn the right to challenge Willie Hoppe, the present holder of the world's title.

JAKE SCHAEFER.

This match will be played in thirty days and its location will be decided later. Hoppe probably would prefer to play in New York and Schaefer would like to play in Chicago, so the venue is a matter of uncertainty.

Match Attractive.

Omitting Hoppe, it is not possible to get a more attractive match than that between Conti and Schaefer. Conti has demonstrated he is among the players of championship caliber and quite capable of upsetting Schaefer. For this reason the match possesses exceptional interest for the fans, and if the match runs true to form it will be a case of standing room only on the final night.

Many local fans believe Schaefer at his best is quite the equal of Willie Hoppe, and the only question with them is, Will Jake play up to his real standard?

Both players have practiced in private and only a little of the work has been made public.

Hall Adapted for Match.

Orchestra hall is finely adapted for a billiard match and under the present weather conditions the ivories should act well. It looks like a fair field with no favorite.

J. Herbert Levis, who has officiated capably in a number of championship tournaments, will referee.

The Old Copyreader

THE KID.

Funny little thing, a kid;
All wrapped up and almost hid;
Nothing but its tiny phiz
Indicating what it is;
Fuzzy stuff on top of its
Cute receptacle of wits;
Eyes shut tight—excepting when
It concludes to yell again.

Tragic little thing, a kid;
Ushered into life amid
Sorrow, pain, and misery
That it never asked to see;
Thrust upon a world of knocks,
Struggle, toil, and strife, and shocks,
Disappointments, doubts, and fears
And a heritage of tears.

Happy little thing, a kid;
It and it alone can bid
Us observe the System we Must accept with some degree
Of content; for in its smile
We, at least, forget awhile;
In a Scheme extremely dutch
It's the only magic touch.

The Marriage Flaw

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

John Corbeyne, one of England's financiers, is about to become a member of the cabinet. He is devoted to Sylvia, his second wife, and their young son. Corbeyne's first wife, Katherine, threatens to reopen their divorce case on a technicality unless he returns to live with her as her husband. Corbeyne learns that if the case were reopened it would create great public interest. He goes back to Katherine to avoid staining Sylvia's honor and his son's name. To stiffen Sylvia's back to the blow, by arousing her pride, he pretends he has been lured away by the other woman.

Carfax announces that Corbeyne is ill. After a month Corbeyne's absence creates a slight panic in the financial world. There is a run on an important bank, and out of curiosity Corbeyne goes to the scene. He has changed his appearance slightly, but Carfax sees and accosts him. He denies he is Corbeyne. Carfax apologizes, but appeals to him as a patriot to take Corbeyne's place to avert a great financial crisis. Corbeyne consents. Sylvia agrees to the arrangement and, although she knows he is her husband, she will not permit him to explain.

Katherine, who is evidently being coached in her part, objects to his double rôle of Corbeyne in town and Brierly at Ealing and renews her threats, but John decides to carry out his agreement with Carfax and Sylvia in order to save the financial situation. Corbeyne learns that Deagle, head of the woolen industry, is his chief enemy.

INSTALLMENT XXXVII.

SYLVIA INFORMS JOHN OF PELT'S CALL.

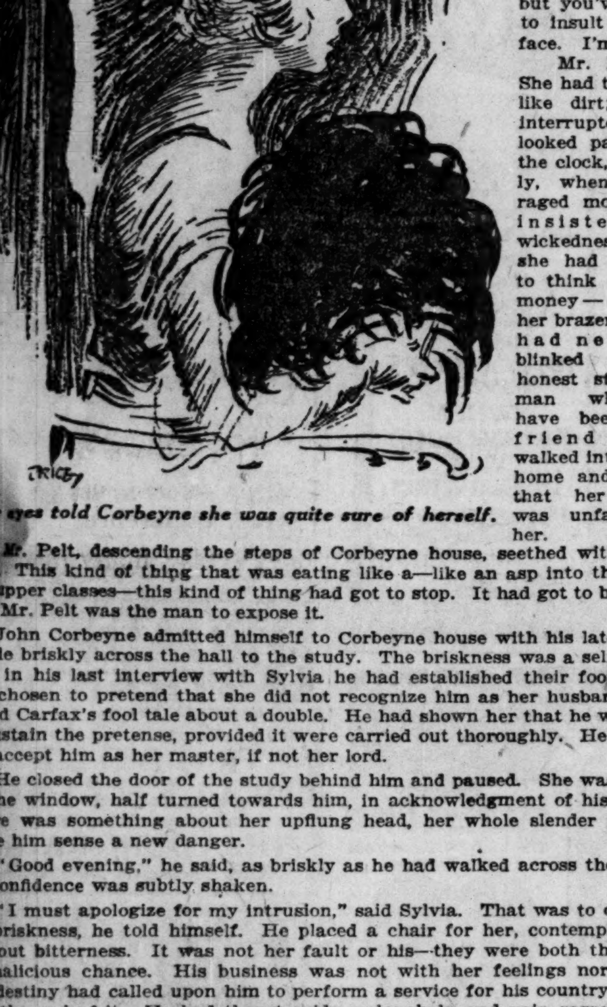
"No," he said, stoutly. "I didn't think anything about harming him. I thought you wouldn't know and you ought to—'tisn't right you shouldn't know. 'Tisn't right you shouldn't——" Mr. Pelt was regaining a fraction of his nerve. "'Tisn't right—'tisn't natural—you shouldn't care——"

She swept his protesting moral sense aside in a way he thought most high handed.

"You have reminded my husband about your knowledge, I take it."

"No. He knew me at Ealing. He doesn't know I've found out who he really is. Good af——"

"I see. At last we have got to the root of the matter. You have realized that we can't afford to have this unpleasant little secret noised abroad. You are quite right. I am willing to bargain with you, Mr. Pelt. How much do you want to keep quiet about it?"



Her eyes told Corbeyne she was quite sure of herself.

Mr. Pelt steadied himself against the door. Then for the first time in his life he attained a true dignity.

"Look here, Mrs. Corbeyne," said Pelt, "I've made a fool of myself, and you're entitled to make me squirm and laugh to yourself about me, but you've no right to insult me to my face. I'm going."

Mr. Pelt went. She had treated him like dirt; she had interrupted him, looked past him at the clock, and, finally, when his outraged morality had insisted on the wickedness of it all, she had pretended to think he wanted money—she with her brazen eyes who had never even blinked when an honest stranger, a man who could have been a real friend in need, walked into her own home and told her that her husband was unfaithful to her.

Mr. Pelt, descending the steps of Corbeyne house, seethed with indignation. This kind of thing that was eating like a—like an asp into the roses of the upper classes—this kind of thing had got to stop. It had got to be exposed. And Mr. Pelt was the man to expose it.

John Corbeyne admitted himself to Corbeyne house with his latchkey and strode briskly across the hall to the study. The briskness was a self-reminder that in his last interview with Sylvia he had established their footing. She had chosen to pretend that she did not recognize him as her husband, but believed Carfax's fool tale about a double. He had shown her that he was willing to sustain the pretense, provided it were carried out thoroughly. He had made her accept him as her master, if not her lord.

He closed the door of the study behind him and paused. She was standing by the window, half turned towards him, in acknowledgment of his presence. There was something about her upflung head, her whole slender poise that made him sense a new danger.

"Good evening," he said, as briskly as he had walked across the hall, but his confidence was subtly shaken.

"I must apologize for my intrusion," said Sylvia. That was to counteract his briskness, he told himself. He placed a chair for her, contemplating her without bitterness. It was not her fault or his—they were both the puppets of malicious chance. His business was not with her feelings nor his own. His destiny had called upon him to perform a service for his country, and that was the end of it. He had thrust aside melancholy and vain regrets for the sake of the work. That did not mean that he might not observe how the shaded lights of the room shone and shifted upon her hair.

"A man called here this afternoon," she began, "and asked to see me. His name was Pelt."

"Ah!" said John Corbeyne. "Pelt. May I smoke?"

"Please do," she answered. "That is, as long as you don't smoke a pipe. A pipe makes me—a little faint."

That sent Pelt spinning out of Corbeyne's head. She used to revel in the smell of that heavy cut plug stuff. Why did it make her feel faint now? Why had she told him that the scented memory made her feel faint when they were both staking their sanity on the pretense that he was no longer himself?

"Pelt," she was repeating. "You know him?"

"Yes."

She was sitting very still. The dark carving of the chair gave a clamoring brilliance to her eyes and lips and hair, to the fan of purple feathers in her lap, to the diamond swinging low against her breast—for she was in evening dress. Corbeyne wondered whether she still sometimes wore the dress like starlight and the lovely yellow thing she had told him was a tea frock.

She was speaking now.

"I had better tell you as well as I can what passed. This man Pelt threw some information at me in an odd, frightened way—or, rather, he made a question of it. He said, 'I met your husband at his maisonette in Ealing.'"

Corbeyne put out his cigaret and lit another.

"Lord Carfax has probably told you, Mr. Brierly, that my husband left me for a woman who is quite unknown to me. I do not know his—their whereabouts. They may actually be at Ealing, though I should think it unlikely. It is reasonable to suppose that he has hidden himself more thoroughly than that. But for the moment I believed that this Mr. Pelt had really met my husband, and instinctively I tried to make him understand that my interest in my husband's movements was absolutely nonexistent."

She paused, a deliberate, well planned little pause, and opened the gleaming purple fan as if choosing her words. Over its ragged edges her eyes told Corbeyne that she was quite sure of herself, quite clear as to what she would say.

"That seemed to frighten him more, and he began to go. I asked him why he had come to me. He said it wasn't 'right' that I shouldn't know, but he seemed much more shocked to find that I did know and didn't care. He admitted, too, that he wished my husband no harm personally. Then, suddenly, I grasped what I had stupidly overlooked up to then—the possibility that it was you and your wife he had met in Ealing."

"You and your wife." "You and your wife." Without a tremor: "You and your wife."

"Yes, it was," said Corbeyne.

"If only I had realized it earlier!" Her gesture with the fan expressed regretful impatience with herself. "It did not strike me until the last moment, and then I was dismayed at my incompetent handling of the situation. As I had left it, Mr. Pelt was free to comment to all and sundry on my indifference to my husband's affairs. I felt his silence ought to be assured or our scheme—the impersonation which you are carrying out so painstakingly—would be ruined. So I offered him money."

"He took it, of course."

"No, he didn't. Somehow I blundered. He refused most indignantly, accused me of laughing at him and insulting him, and went. I was most surprised."

Corbeyne was surprised, too. He stared at the floor and tried to understand why Pelt had refused money. Had his motives been genuinely disinterested? And would his moral sense include the duty of silence? It was improbable.

"I am afraid he will talk," Sylvia was saying, in answer to his thoughts. Ah! She had forgotten to pretend that since he was no longer John Corbeyne she could not read them. "And if a paper like the Plain Man gets hold of what it thinks is a first rate scandal it will be disastrous for all of us. Also"—she rose and came a little nearer to him—"it will be an insufferable position for your wife. Already I feel as though I owed her a personal apology for Mr. Pelt's opinion of her."

She had come nearer so that she might strike him. Every word had been a separate and burning agony. He was blind with pain. He smiled at her. He struck her back.

"I will tell my wife of your kind attitude, but, as a matter of fact, she and I had discussed the possibility of this situation arising. She is quite willing to bear in silence any unpleasant imputations."

"What splendid patriotism!"

He heard himself laugh.

Good morning!

NOT such a good morning, for ye sad scribe has to report that she finds "Outcast" NOT such a good picture. Didn't see the play, that was written by Hubert Henry Davies. MAY have been a winner. But the adaptation for the screen is not one to make a lady unduly glad that her life work is reviewing fillums.

Miss Ferguson, of course, is the outcast, and she has one terrible time before she succeeds in making the love of her life take her as his wife and drape about her burdened shoulders the yearned for mantle of respectability.

There is no doubt but that the star is really beautiful and a capable actress. In this picture, however, she does not especially appeal to you in any way. You're not overly sorry for her. Your heart does not leap with gladness when her dark days are over. You are conscious that she is rather pretty at times—but her beauty does not strike you as it usually does. The people playing with her are all right—but none of them register strongly.

One suspects that something happened while the film was being made that put everybody out of tune. Certainly the direction could have been better.

ANYHOW—whatever is the matter with "OUTCAST"—it's a something that makes it just a picture—not a feature that will stand out in your memory for any reason whatsoever.

Galli-Curci Sings as on Day of Fame

Repeats Triumph in Role That Won Renown.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It was like turning back the pages to go to the Auditorium yesterday afternoon. Amelita Galli-Curci was on the stage as Gilda in "Rigoletto," the rôle in which one Saturday afternoon not so many years ago she entered the performance completely unknown and went out of it with a country-wide fame.

What is more to the point, she did the part yesterday nearly if not quite as well as on that day when she turned an audience from unexpectancy to frantic enthusiasm. It means that she was at the top of her form, which, in her case, means winsome loveliness beyond all telling. She and Tito Schipa, the duke of yesterday's cast, were in the garden scene as two figures in a fine, mellow old tapestry, each a pictorial and lyric coördinate of the other.

Cesare Formichi renewed his success as Rigoletto, as did Virgilio Lazzari as Sparafucile and Ina Bourskaya as Maddalena. Ettore Panizza conducted.

"Samson and Delilah" will be sung again tonight by Mme. Louise Homer, Charles Marshall, Mr. Formichi, and Edouard Cotreuil. Giorgio Polacco will conduct.

The recital situation, somewhat quiescent during the last few weeks, picked itself up with renewed vigor yesterday. One of the great joys for those who were out looking for such things was the Quartet by Arnold Bax which was played by the Flonzaleys at the Blackstone theater. The number would seem to have shifted position on the program without notice, but it was good enough not to demand apologies.

Bax, one of the small squad of Britons who are doing many new and good things in music, has achieved something here that apparently has been missed by his fellows. That is, he has cast a string quartet in modern terms of expression and, at the same time, made it forceful enough to stand on its own melodic basis. In other words, his interesting manner does not transcend interesting matter.

Elena Gerhardt was back for a return engagement at the Studebaker, and for the first time in many hearings of her I heard her sing in English. She does it extremely well, projecting English words as distinctly and within a tiny fraction as exactly as she does German. I have always thought John Alden Carpenter's "When I Bring You Colored Toys" was a lovely song, and I was more than ever convinced of it yesterday.

Next door at the Playhouse Leone Kruse, soprano, who used to live here, was making her first appearance in song recital. She has a voice of the quality and dimensions that ought to make her a joy in songs of a dramatic nature. The trouble was that at the time of my visit to the theater she was singing Decreus' "L'Oiseau Bleu" and some others of the same character, which need delicate and fanciful treatment. This, it would seem, is not yet in her répertoire of effects. However, she has plenty of time to acquire it.

Alfred Cortot, a worthwhile pianist, was heard at Orchestra hall in the seldom played Chopin Preludes, twenty-four of them. Being a man with superbly developed hands and brain, he made them both distinctive and different, a fine performance throughout.

"YOU'RE very young—and in love," remarked the detective. "But if you'll allow me a word of advice, my dear Jimmy, stop reading detective stories and going to the movies."

The Tribune will pay $5 each for questions accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune." For today's question Harold Samuelson, 620 South 5th street, Lyons, Ia., was awarded $5.

The Question.

Will there ever be peace among all nations?

Where Asked.

Randolph street and Michigan avenue.

The Answers.

Ralph J. O'Hara, 168 West Washington street, business agent—Hardly. I was in the navy during the war and have given this subject some thought. I think something like a league of nations is a wonderful thing, but over here we don't all seem to agree on that. We need something that will bind all nations to a program of harmony.

Mrs. E. B. Wright, 509 South State street, stenographer—Not until the millennium. As the world grows older it seems there's greater hatred between all peoples. That hatred will keep on growing until the end of time. People are getting worse and worse—every one for himself.

Arthur Zemek, 1802 Winnemac avenue, bank clerk—That is difficult to foretell at present on account of the uncertainties in the world. But, owing to the progress the world is making, it is almost certain that at some unknown distant time we will have peace, prosperity and good will among all men and all nations.

Miss Helen Jackson, 1806 Winnemac avenue, student—I don't believe there ever will be peace among all nations. Nobody can be perfect. As long as individuals are not perfect nations cannot be perfect. Neither can all nations agree on all subjects. Some nations are bound to want things that other nations possess.

George T. Walker, 7604 62d place, chemist—I guess not, but we are making some progress in that direction. As long as human beings are constituted as they are, and have conflicting interests, I can't see how nations can avoid having conflicting interests or prevent conflicts on account of it.

BY SHEPPARD BUTLER.

Ever get tired of being respectable and wish you could chuck it all and go in quest of adventure and romance? That is what happened to Ambrose Applejohn. He had the wanderlust and was going to follow it, too—had even offered his house for sale—when into the library, with its stuffy books and prim furniture, there rushed one night a damsel of dark and lustrous beauty, panting in quick sentences that she was being followed by a bolshevik spy, and for the love of God would he, as a brave gentleman, help her?

Well! That was a bit thick. Disturbing, and all that, but rather nice. Adventure? Here it was, and it came thick and fast. The bolshevik spy materialized, and there was gunplay before he left. Then burglars broke in and revealed a secret panel wherein, after they had been scared away, Ambrose found a parchment telling of hidden treasure left in the house by his ancestor, Capt. Applejack. This person, it seemed, was no better than he should be. As a matter of fact, a buccaneer.

Pondering this, and waiting in the dark for the burglars to return, Ambrose glanced up to find the villainous first mate confronting him, with a gleam of mutiny in his evil eye. Ambrose remarked that he would cut the mate's black heart out if he didn't vamoose, and the mate vamoosed. Then Ambrose called for grog and the lovely Portuguese captive from the last sunken galleon. The cabin boy who brought the grog looked like Ambrose's pretty ward back home, and the Portuguese captive resembled the lady who was chased by the spy, all of which was strange. But there was no time to think of that, for the mutineers piled in, a rascally crew, and Ambrose had to plunge a knife in the Chinese bos'n before they saw that he meant business.

He drew cards with the mate then for the ship and the Portuguese lady, and won. And routed them all, with a contemptuous monosyllable:

"S-s-s-cum!"

A fine, mouth-filling word, that.

The burglars were still busy, however, and had to be foiled. So there was another act, with Ambrose amusingly torn between innate timidity and atavistic swagger, but triumphant in the end. The pirate part, you see, was a dream; the midnight marauders were real.

It is a jocund and lusty adventure, played to the hilt by people who make the most of it. The second act, detailing the wild events aboard the lugger, is a perfect thing in its kind, plunging along with quite irresistible zest. The others do not measure up to it, and toward the end the play degenerates somewhat broadly into burlesque, with the plot a little thickly tangled. But the pirate scene "makes" the show. Here is gorgeous fun.

Wallace Eddinger is a gay and swashbuckling hero, playing the rôle with capital gusto, though he is given sometimes to odd rushes of unintelligible words. Miss Mary Nash brings to the part of the adventuress vivid beauty, melting glances, and an incredibly menacing sneer, and Miss Phoebe Foster is altogether delightful, both as the fluttering ward and the strutting cabin boy. Hamilton Revelle, like the rest of the evil-doers, is intensely what Ambrose calls him—"S-s-s-cum!"

DAILY HOROSCOPE
Doris Blake Says:

TODAY IS LUCKY FOR BUSINESS.

This should be a particularly active and fortunate day in business and employment, according to the lunar and stellear directions. Professional and commercial transactions should thrive, and writers and publishers are under a most encouraging outlook.

Those whose birthdate this is have the augury of a fairly successful year ahead if they keep quiet and attend to business.

Children born on this day may have many worries in lift. Its success will depend upon its early training.

Your life is pretty certain to be a continual fight against worldly tendencies, unless you have had unusually well balanced influence in your youth. But you get many a discouraging and disheartening upset.

You are methodical, careful, and look ahead. By sheer force of character and will you may rise about the annoyances. You should make one of the opposite sex happy as you have the power so to do.

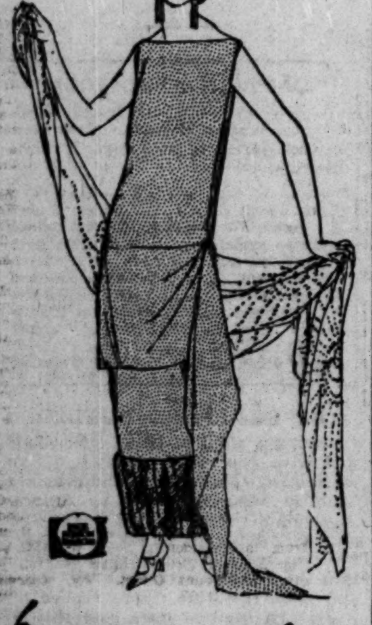
Better Avoid Mother.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 20 and I go with a young man who is 28. I care a great deal for him and I know he does for me.

"He has never taken me to see his people. He went with another girl for six years. His mother argued with him about going with me now. I am anxious to see her. Shall I ask him to take me to his home? BLONDE."

I don't believe if I were in your place I would raise an issue on that question. The mother would be prejudiced against you, so your best move might be to keep away from her house. If the man cares for you, parental influence will not help the other girl's case much. But do not make the mistake of quarrelling about the matter.

Illustrating Style's Triumph Over Hygiene.



by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—"Away with this prophylactic life," cries the side drapery of today, and proceeds to trail reckless lengths of material over the floor.

This habitual victory of style over hygiene is illustrated today in a stunning dinner frock of gray chiffon velvet where a side drapery flourishes in conjunction with a long waisted corsage to which is attached a straight piece reaching almost to the knees. The narrow skirt is banded in gray squirrel and, as is the case with so many of the new models, the bodice is slashed at the sides to the depth of the waistline. Frequently the underbodice revealed by such incisions is of contrasting material, and here we have either silver cloth or velvet as the composition.

It is interesting to note that the pastel shades prevail at any fashionable gathering of a New York evening. White, flesh color, gray, the most evanescent of greens—all these prevail over more aggressive tones in the famous horseshoe circle.

Sunday fashion page will be found in the New Color Section.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Winter Endives.

There is a great waste of the curly endive in the market. A little of the responsibility for the waste of this tonic piece of bitter herbs may be laid at the door of the housewife. The selling place must take a larger amount of the responsibility because seemingly little pains are taken to keep the plants from wilting.

When wilted these look as inert as the wig of a rag doll, in which case few people can see any good in them and the plants go to the grocer's dump. Just as wilted plants in pots become crisp and firm again in water, so might this, if not too far gone, although we are not fond of buying such obviously deteriorated stuff.

Some of the responsibility for the waste of this valuable salad material is due to the way it is packed. If packed in certain ways it heats, especially when subject to marked temperature changes.

Often this superior element for a winter salad gets a bad name because it is wet when mixed. It cannot be wiped dry, as can head and leaf lettuce, so it must be prepared in advance of the time it is to be served, shaken rather dry, then put in a cool place where it will crisp as it dries, since in a warm place the surface is likely to dry and wilt.

Of course, we break this up with our hands, as we do other salad greens when about to dress, and if this, or head lettuce, is wet we can actually wring water out. In such case this wetness will destroy the palatability of our salad, especially if we use some young onion cut fine or chopped chives.

The ideal is that every green thing should be completely painted with oil before additional seasonings are added, and this mossy material cannot be if wet, no more than can other salad greens, this is hardest to dry hastily.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscript returned.

That Ended That.

My neighbor borrows my embroidery scissors frequently. One day when I was sewing, I saw her enter our yard, so I hid my scissors under some newspapers on a chair.

Just as I expected, my visitor asked for the scissors, and I told her that my husband had taken them to have them sharpened. She then remarked that she needed some newspapers for shelves, and helped herself to mine. As she did so the scissors, of course, were exposed to view. E. H.

"Ha! Ha!" Cried She.

It was at a masquerade. The guests were removing their wraps.

A woman stood nearby, and, thinking she was in costume, I loudly remarked, "O, dear, what a funny hat. It's a scream."

Then I laughed heartily over it.

The woman then calmly informed me it was her best hat. E. W.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

MATRON: YOU ARE UNDOUBTEDLY suffering from weak arches. Send s. a. e. for some excellent exercises I have in printed form for this painful trouble. I think, too, you should have a pair of shoes fitted by one who knows and understands proper shoes for the footsore and weary.

PAUL: ECZEMA IS A DISEASE which requires the care of a physician. Therefore I would not recommend treatment. But I'll be only too happy to send you a set of exercises which I recommend for the daily dozen, as you need a certain amount of daily exercise. These twelve exercises will take care of every muscle in your body and if done consistently and regularly in a short time you will feel like a new person. Ask for MY Youth Preservers when you send s. a. e. I cannot tell you how many readers have indorsed their health reviving qualities.

ANSWER TO COMMON ERRORS

Ten per cent of the bill is the accepted rule in first class restaurants. If one has his own personal theory about the folly of this practice, do not embarrass the girl with a too niggardly offering to the waiter.

DOVE OF PEACE HOVERS ABOVE R. R. SITUATION

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Announcement that many of the more important carriers had withdrawn their demand for a hearing before the United States railroad labor board at Chicago on Jan. 15 on the question of changes in working conditions involving the railroad brotherhoods, and have completed or are negotiating individual settlements, was taken tonight to indicate that there was an excellent prospect of a period of industrial peace so far as the executives and men employed in train and engine service are concerned.

About half of the original applicants, including the New York Central, Pennsylvania, New Haven, Lackawanna, Santa Fé, and Southern Pacific have withdrawn their complaints, and representatives of the brotherhoods believe that more will withdraw before the day of the hearing.

Employés to Present Case.

The brotherhoods, however, are preparing to present their case before the labor board, and some predictions are heard that there will be spotty strikes in the event that the board grants the demands of carriers which remain in the fight.

On the whole, however, the outlook for a peaceful settlement of the controversy between the brotherhoods and practically all of the important lines is bright, and there are plenty of indications that the danger of a serious interruption of traffic during the spring will be passed.

This hope was expressed by W. S. Carter, who for many years was president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and was selected by William G. McAdoo, when the latter was director general of railroads, as his director of labor. He is acting here at present as spokesman for the brotherhoods.

Carter Sees Promising Outlook.

"Since the abandonment of the labor policy of the Association of Railway Executives, when jurisdiction over labor matters was returned to the operating officials upon each railroad system," said Mr. Carter, "the outlook for industrial peace is promising.

"Already most of the larger railroads are meeting and agreeing with committees of their employés as to working conditions for the coming year. Already a splendid spirit of coöperation is being built upon such great systems as the New York Central lines in their entirety, the Baltimore and Ohio, and other property controlled by such operating officials as A. H. Smith and Daniel Willard.

"But there remains a large number of railroad officials who seem to believe that the Cummins-Esch law was intended only to increase freight rates for the railroads and reduce wages of employés."

JEWELL DENIES PEACE MOVE ON NORTHWEST LINES

Repudiation of reports that he had been in St. Paul to confer with union leaders there with reference to terminating the railway shopmen's strike in the northwest was made last night by B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employés' department of the American Federation of Labor, upon his return to Chicago. He said he had not been in St. Paul, although admitting he had been out of the city. The shop crafts leader declined to say where he had been. An Associated Press dispatch quoted an unnamed informant in St. Paul as saying Jewell had been there and that prospects for settlement in the northwest were "bright."

Travel Today on Century to New York Sets Record

So heavy is the passenger traffic to New York today, due mainly to the New York automobile show and to children returning to school after the holidays, that the New York Century is being run in five sections of eight cars each, a record for the railroad. It is estimated that 650 passengers will be carried by this train alone.

DOLLAR PAYING PREMIUM TO PESO IN PHILIPPINES

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

MANILA, Jan. 7.—The dollar discounted at one-fourth of 1 per cent on the telegraphic exchange today and 1 per cent on the demand exchange, owing to the heavy export balance over imports. Recent deflations have reduced total circulations to 97,000,000 pesos [about $48,500,000], which is inadequate to properly handle the business in view of the heavy purchase by the United States of the products of the Philippines and the consequent demand for peso payments. Banks are paying 6 per cent on time deposits, while the Merchants' Accommodation bank is paying 12 per cent.

It is alleged that no money is flowing from America to the Philippines in response to these attractive rates, because continued American sovereignty is certain.

When Gov. Leonard Wood arrived here the peso discounted at 15 per cent. It rose to par, due to his financial legislation to restore the gold reserve and the integrity of insular treasure notes.

A letter from Mr. George M. Verity, President of the Company, copies of which will be supplied upon request, is summarized as follows:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS

The American Rolling Mill Company was incorporated in Ohio in 1917 as a consolidation of a New Jersey Corporation of the same name and The Columbus Iron and Steel Company, both founded over 20 years ago. The Company manufactures and sells a highly diversified line of specialty sheets used in the manufacture of a wide variety of products. "Armco" products are favorably known and widely used throughout the world, and the Company stands at the head of the specialty sheet business.

PROPERTY

The Company's plants are located at Middletown, Columbus, and Zanesville, Ohio, and Ashland, Kentucky, and consist of blast and open-hearth furnaces, blooming and bar mills, sheet mills, and factory buildings. The Company also owns extensive coal properties with large reserves of coal of high quality and has substantial interests in companies owning limestone quarries, coke works, iron ore properties and steamship lines on the Great Lakes.

The plants and property at Ashland were acquired in December, 1921, on very favorable terms and offer an excellent opportunity to provide an increased finishing capacity that should add materially to the Company's prestige and earning power. Work has been begun on new finishing mills at this plant, the completion of which will increase the Company's finishing capacity from about 300,000 tons per annum to approximately 500,000 tons, making it the second largest in the United States manufacturing exclusively sheets and light plates of any kind.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The proceeds of $7,000,000 of this stock, of the $7,000,000 6% notes which you have purchased and resold to the public, and of $2,000,000 Common Stock presently to be issued, will be used to retire or provide for the retirement of mortgage and other indebtedness assumed in connection with the purchase of the Ashland properties and all bank loans, except $977,000 in connection with an employees' stock purchase plan, and will provide funds for the construction of the finishing mills at Ashland mentioned above and additional working capital.

PROVISIONS OF ISSUE

Subject to the existing $6,882,600 7% Debenture Preferred Stock which the Company will call for redemption on July 1, 1923, and to the remaining $117,400 non-callable 6% Preferred Stock (for the purchase and retirement of which funds will be set aside), this stock is to be preferred as to assets and dividends and is to be entitled to payment at par and accrued dividends in case of involuntary dissolution and at 110% and accrued dividends in voluntary dissolution. The stock is to have no voting power unless four quarterly dividends are in arrears. No dividends will be paid upon the Common Stock which will reduce net assets, as defined in the articles of incorporation to below twice the amount of Preferred Stock outstanding.

Except with the written consent of holders of 75% of the preferred stock, or if in lieu thereof at a meeting of preferred stockholders, the holders of 25% of the Preferred Stock shall vote against so doing the Company shall not (A) create any mortgage on its real estate to secure an issue of bonds or otherwise, but nothing shall affect the right of the Company to mortgage by purchase money mortgage individual parcels of real property purchased by it, or to purchase or to acquire property subject to mortgage, or (B) issue any additional stock having rights as to dividends or assets equal or prior to this authorized issue, or increase the amount of this authorization.

FINANCIAL

Net earnings, after depreciation, interest and all taxes, for the past ten calendar years have been as follows (including earnings of the Columbus Iron and Steel Company prior to the consolidation of 1919, but excluding all earnings of the Ashland properties):

1913	$1,065,944	1918	$2,644,183
1914	288,881	1919	2,274,334
1915	1,439,204	1920	3,319,064*
1916	3,882,316	1921 def.	2,408,973*
1917	3,788,954	1922	2,271,000

* After deducting $1,444,023 in 1920 and $2,253,844 in 1921 for adjustment of inventory, and $836,793 in 1921 for idle time expense.  December estimated.

Net plant investment in 1913 amounted to $7,600,000 and averaged $13,800,000 for the entire 10 year period, as compared with $22,300,000 at the end of 1922 (exclusive of the Ashland properties). For this reason average earnings for the period give little indication of the Company's present earning capacity, although they amounted to 1.8 times the annual dividend requirement of the $14,700,000 Preferred Stock. For the year 1922, earnings amounted to more than 2.2 times such Preferred dividend requirement. These earnings do not, of course, reflect the benefits to be derived from the large amount of new capital involved in the acquisition and development of the Ashland properties, which is being financed by the sale of $7,000,000 6% Notes and $7,000,000 Preferred Stock, nor from $2,000,000 Common Stock presently to be issued for cash.

The balance sheet as of November 30, 1922, after giving effect to the proposed financing, shows net tangible assets of $46,300,000, or $315 per share of Preferred Stock. Current assets amount to more than 4⅛ times current liabilities, and over 1⅔ times all liabilities including funded debt.

Application Will Be Made to List This Stock on the New York Stock Exchange

We are offering this preferred stock, when, as and if issued and received by us, and subject to authorization of stockholders and approval of counsel, for subscription subject to allotment.

$100 Per Share and Accrued Dividend, to Yield 7%.

All legal details will be passed upon for the Bankers by Messrs. Stetson, Jennings and Russell of New York, and for the Company by Mr. Ralph R. Caldwell of Cincinnati.

U. S. and Britain Meet Today on Debt Funding

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—The American and British commissions named to negotiate a funding arrangement for Great Britain's wartime debt to the United States will meet together tomorrow morning for the first time in their efforts, as described by Governor Norman of the Bank of England, a British delegate, to "break the vicious cycle" of world debts.

Each commission is entering the initial conference without having made a public announcement as to its views or intentions, and there is little indication that tomorrow's meeting will carry the negotiations further than a formal exchange of opinion.

PUEBLOS PLEAD RIGHT TO RETAIN LAND AND HOMES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—A large delegation of Pueblo Indians is on its way to Washington from New Mexico to plead with congress and the public against the destruction, as they claim, of the lives of their peoples through enforced starvation and disease.

It will be the first delegation of its kind from the Pueblos to appear at the capital since the days of Abraham Lincoln. Supporting its efforts are authors, artists, and scientists of nationwide distinction, such as Stewart Edward White, Mary Austin, and Maxfield Parrish, several humanitarian and scientific societies, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and the Franciscan Brotherhood.

Specifically they will oppose the passage of the Bursum bill sponsored by Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, which they claim will deprive them of the last of their lands. On the same grounds they oppose the Snyder bill pending in the house.

They ask, instead, the enactment of the bill introduced recently by Senator Jones [Dem., N. M.], which provides for a self-sustaining system for the reclamation of arid tracts owned by the Pueblos and for a court to adjudicate the claims of squatters on their lands.

SMALL HOPES TO RIDE TO FAME ON HIGHWAYS, CLAIM

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Gov. Small plans to drive his program of hard road legislation through the general assembly at a rapid pace, according to indications. The bill for another $100,000,000 bond issue to construct an additional 3,000 miles of paved highways will be acted on early.

The governor does not propose to let his hard road program become endangered in any way. He recognizes it as the chief asset to his ambition to be known as "a road building governor" and as his big campaign card.

In the campaign of 1922, Gov. Small told the voters of many districts that the way to get hard roads was to vote for men who will wear his collar.

While the movement to pull Illinois out of the mud has the unanimous support of the state's lawmakers, the "vigilantes" of the senate and the free lances of the house, have sounded the warning that they will resent and resist any effort to submerge the state highway department in the Small-Thompson brand of politics.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 7.—One fireman was injured and damage estimated at $100,000 caused to sixteen firms in a fire at the Yeats building in the downtown section last night.

BOND OFFERINGS OF $116,324,976 IS TOTAL FOR WEEK

New York, Jan. 7.—New bond offerings totaling $116,324,976 were made by bankers last week, as compared with offerings totaling less than $10,000,000 during the last week of the old year. The improved condition of the bond market and the acceleration that naturally follows the holidays were responsible for the great increase in the offerings. The relaxation of money rates was an important factor. Most of the sales were made directly to investors, and the books of many of the offering syndicates were closed soon after they were opened, with heavy oversubscriptions recorded.

There were no developments last week in regard to new foreign loans. Business with Canada, Holland, Belgium, and the Dutch East Indies is being considered, and renewed inquiry is expected from the Argentine and other South American states, but nothing definite has been announced. The successful bidder for the new $50,000,000 Cuban thirty year 5½ per cent loan probably will be known by the end of the week, and the results are expected to give a good indication of how foreign loans will be received in the near future.

The province of Alberta, Canada, has sold $4,800,000 of its twenty-five year 5 per cent noncallable gold bonds to Dillon, Read & Co., who will offer the bonds today at 97¼ and interest to yield about 5.20 per cent. The bonds are dated Jan. 1, 1923, and due Jan. 1, 1948.

ORANGE COUNTY is located in the central portion of the State, and is an old established county, having been settled in 1835. The County has an area of 610,560 acres of fertile farming land, producing valuable crops of fruit and vegetables, also potatoes, corn, hay, sugar cane and live stock. The value of all farm property, according to the Federal Census report of 1920, was $16,322,000, as compared to $8,974,000 in 1910. The total value of farm crops for the year 1920 was $3,254,302.

ORLANDO, the County Seat of Orange County, is located at the junction of the Atlantic Coast Line and Sea Board Air Line, has a population (by 1920 Census) of 9,282, and an assessed valuation of $24,527,820. Orlando is an important commercial center and is probably the most substantial city in the State, has four banks with combined resources of over $8,000,000; one bank has a ten-story building and another bank has just let a contract for another large building. Numerous industries, including twelve fruit packing houses, foundries, machine shops, planing mills, fertilizer factories, boiler and locomotive repair shops, cement works, cigar factories and wagon works; splendid hotels, including a new eleven-story hotel now being erected at a cost of $1,000,000.

Attention is called to the fact that the assessed valuation of the County is only about one-third of the true valuation, property being assessed for county purposes at about this ratio. The assessed valuation of the City of Orlando alone is $24,527,820.

THE BONDS HAVE BEEN VALIDATED BY THE CIRCUIT COURT, WHICH UNDER THE LAWS OF FLORIDA MAKES THEIR LEGALITY INCONTESTABLE.

Province of Alberta, Canada

25-Year 5% Gold Bonds
(Non-Callable)

Dated January 1, 1923 Due January 1, 1948

Principal and interest payable in gold in New York at the Bank of the Manhattan Company; also payable in Canada. Interest payable January 1 and July 1. Coupon Bonds of $1,000 with privilege of registration as to principal.

Subject to approval of legal matters by E. G. Long, K. C., Toronto

These bonds are the direct obligation of the Province of Alberta and are payable, principal and interest, from its general revenue.

Alberta is one of Canada's leading agricultural provinces. The average annual value of the field crops and dairy products for the last five years is officially estimated at $165,000,000. According to reliable estimates the Province contains about 14% of the world's supply of coal and production now exceeds $25,000,000 annually. Alberta is fourth in area among the Provinces of Canada and is larger than any state in the United States except Texas. Of the 81,300,000 acres now available only 11,000,000 acres are actually under cultivation. Alberta, therefore, offers a vast field for future settlement and the Government and railroads are offering every inducement to encourage development.

We offer the above bonds for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us.

GRAIN RECEIPTS CONTINUE HEAVY; DEPRESS PRICES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Action of the grain markets has disappointed its friends, due largely to failure of the export demand to reach proportions expected, continued heavy primary receipts of all grains which have been the largest in five years, in the aggregate, and a smaller general consumptive trade at primary markets than was anticipated some time ago. Above all the slowness of congress to pass the farm credit bills on the foreign credit bill which would stimulate exports on long time credits has had effect.

Liquidation in wheat by local and eastern interests has been unusually heavy, with a break of 9⅝c for May and 6½c for July from the recent high point. Wheat has apparently passed into weaker hands, and the trade at present is bearish on all grains, with expectations of irregular declines following all bulges.

At present there is no disposition on the part of large interests to take the buying side, and the trade in general is also inclined to go slow, fearing the usual Argentine competition and the disposition is to look for a further break, because Jan. 10 is "calendar" time for selling grains. It might develop, however, that all bearish conditions have been discounted by the recent break.

No Scarcity of Wheat.

The statistical situation in wheat does not at present show any scarcity of supplies either in the United States or in Canada, or as regards the quantity in transit for Europe. It is claimed that Europe needs 250,000,000 bu more wheat than last year. In the nineteen weeks from Aug. 1 to Dec. 9 Europe took 17,000,000 bu more wheat than in the previous year, and supplies on ocean passage are 10,000,000 bu larger than a year ago. At the rate of 10,000,000 bu per week shipped from leading export countries for the twenty-six weeks to July 1 there would be 260,000,000 bu. Shipments of such volume can easily be supplied from leading surplus producing countries.

Milling business has picked up here and at other points. Trading in cash grains is now on a May basis. Minneapolis prices are near an import basis, and millers throughout the country are taking a fair quantity of Canadian wheat.

May wheat closed Saturday at $1.17⅞@1.18, a loss of 4⅜c for the week. July was $1.10¾@1.10⅝, a loss of 2⅜c. September finished at $1.07⅝@1.07¼, it being its first week's trading. Prices for the week follow:

Big Drop in Corn Movement.

Corn receipts at primary markets decreased 2,286,000 bu last week, but were the largest for the first week in January in more than five years, exceeding last year's by 1,811,000 bu, and making an aggregate of 8,692,000 bu. The decline in receipts was due in a measure to a break in prices of 5⅜c for May, and to a sharp drop in cash values, which closed at 1¼@1⅜c under May for No. 3 grades, while recently they were a good premium over the May. The big run in the last week in December was brought about by the filling of December shipment contracts, and to take advantage of cash premiums paid for last month's delivery.

Cash business on domestic and export account was larger in the first part of the week, and smaller toward the last. The trade is more mixed over the future. Expectations are that there will be a continued good export demand, which is necessary to sustain values. Many of the leading holders have unloaded and those who have the cash corn have it hedged by sales of May.

Consumption of corn on the farms is large, but mild weather so far this season has reduced the use of corn somewhat, owing to the abundance of rough feed. In the long run expectations are that consumption will be very heavy, as there is a profit in feeding cattle and hogs.

May corn closed Saturday at 70⅜; July, 70¾, and September, 70⅝, showing losses of 1½c for the week. Prices follow:

Limited Interest in Oats.

The only new feature in the oat situation is that a few traders have become convinced that oats have been neglected too long and should do better, as prices are only 5@6c higher than a year ago and the visible supply is much lighter. Outside markets are paying relatively higher prices than Chicago and drawing grain from this territory. Cash business is fair and the movement the largest at this time in more than five years.

Foreigners Buy Rye.

It is understood that Germany has bought 6,000,000 bu of rye in a week, the largest purchases of the season. Exports are heavy, but speculative buying is not large and is affected by the break in wheat. May closed at 87⅝, a gain of ⅜c for the week.

In the provision situation there was a little more encouragement for holders, and speculative buying of lard was better. Stocks at western points made a better showing than was expected, gaining 5,735,000 lbs last month, while a year ago the increase was 1,407,000 lbs, and two years ago 16,917,000 lbs.

Eastern speculators were on the buying side and a good deal of short lard was taken in during the week. Hogs averaged $8.50, or 10c better than the previous week.

The meat trade was fair and stocks of cut meats increased 52,234,000 lbs last month, compared with 11,941,000 lbs last year, the total being 220,000,000 lbs, against practically 155,000,000 lbs last year.

Lard closed at a fair reaction from the top prices of the week, with gains of 15@20c, and short ribs were up 5@7c, Prices for the week follow:

Carriers Plan Improvements Costing $350,000,000

With favorable conditions, railways of the country will carry out programs of improvement eclipsing anything undertaken by carriers for many years, according to reports published in the statistical number of Railway Age. Twenty-seven railroads, with an aggregate trackage of approximately 95,000 miles, have disclosed plans for expending more than $350,000,000 for equipment and other improvements.

St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank

(Operating in Missouri and Arkansas)

5% Bonds

Issued under the Federal Farm Loan Act

Price 103 and Interest

To Yield Over 4.60% to Optional Date and 5% Thereafter

Dated January 1, 1923. Due January 1, 1953. Redeemable at par and accrued interest on any interest date after ten years from date of issue. Coupon bonds of $1,000 denomination fully registerable and interchangeable. Interest payable January 1 and July 1. Principal and interest payable at the St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank, St. Louis, Missouri. Acceptable as security for Postal Savings and other deposits of Government Funds.

The St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank is confined by its charter to the States of Missouri and Arkansas and the Bank restricts its loans to the richest agricultural sections of these two states. Loans in Missouri are practically restricted to the territory lying north of a line drawn from Kansas City to the southeast corner of Missouri, embracing the best farm lands in the State, and in Arkansas loans are confined mainly to the rich delta lands of the northeast and southeast parts of the state, a few loans being made in southwestern Arkansas.

These bonds are obligations of the St. Louis Joint Stock Land Bank and are collaterally secured by either first mortgages on farm lands or United States Government Bonds or Certificates of Indebtedness. The liability of the Bank's shareholders is double the amount of their stock.

The Bank operates under Federal Charter and Government supervision. The issuance of its bonds and the collateral pledged as security have been approved by the Federal Farm Loan Board, a bureau of the Treasury Department of the United States Government.

These bonds are prepared and engraved by the Treasury Department. The Act under which they are issued provides that: "Farm Loan Bonds issued under the provisions of this Act shall be deemed and held to be instrumentalities of the Government of the United States, and as such they and the income derived therefrom shall be exempt from Federal, State, Municipal and Local Taxation."

By a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, rendered February 28th, 1921, the constitutionality of this Act and the tax exemption features of these bonds were fully sustained.

All the above statements are official, or based on information we regard as reliable, and are the data upon which we have acted in the purchase of these bonds.

LONDON MARKET BRIGHT DESPITE PARIS RUPTURE

BY ROBERT STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1923: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Jan. 7.—[Tribune Radio.]—When the London financial markets opened after the holidays a cheerful tone prevailed. By Wednesday, however, the Paris conference was seen to be headed for the rocks and the optimism shaded off in certain quarters. The actual breakup of the conference, however, did not give as adverse effects as might have been anticipated. A final analysis shows that markets passed a very encouraging week, business being rather on the active side and most departments enjoying considerable popular favor.

Gilt edged securities developed well, a good deal of money being available for cautious investment upon the turning of the new year. Foreign government securities held fairly steady, except for French loans, which fell flat with the franc on the turn in the reparations negotiations. Germans also were down somewhat.

English Rails Active.

Home rails were active and proved to be an interesting market because of the formation at the close of 1922 of "the big four"—four main systems into which have been merged practically all the important individual lines. Instead of dealing in scores of separate issues, as heretofore, the dealers were faced with the problem of readjusting the composite values of the four group companies. Sentiment firm throughout, and the close displayed general gains.

Foreign rails also were in good form, with the exception of French issues, which have slumped with the franc. Argentines were helped by further bright traffic returns. Brazilians were good.

Industrials enjoyed ppoularity and considerable business was done in this department. Textiles, after considerable soaring, became dull. Steels were quietly steady. Marconis advanced. Nitrate shares developed a sharp demand on prospects of a revival in the industry.

Oil Shares Bright.

The mining market was clouded by the political situation and the buying of Kaffirs from the continent almost ceased. Diamonds improved and Mexicans and Americans were strong. Oils generally were bright, but Mexican Eagles met with an unavoidable bear move at the closing on a rumor that the company was merging with La Corona-Shells' subsidiary in Mexico. Angio-Persians were steady before the new issue of shares next Monday, while Trinidads were cheerful. Roumanians were down.

Rubbers, after fluctuations, rallied well and closed firm on steadied prices in raw materials.

American Rolling Mill.

E. D.—The American Rolling Mill company is issuing $7,000,000 fifteen year 6 per cent notes to finance the purchase of additional properties, the retirement of mortgage and other indebtedness, and to provide working capital in connection with the present issue of $7,000,000 preferred stock and $2,000,000 common stock, the proceeds of the sale of which will also be used for the above purposes. These notes, on completion of this financing, will constitute the company's only funded debt. They are unsecured, but the company agrees not to mortgage any of its present properties without equally securing the notes, and also agrees that its total obligations, including those of subsidiaries, shall not exceed 50 per cent of their total assets while any of these notes are outstanding. Net earnings, after federal taxes and depreciation, for the last ten calendar years (December, 1922, estimated) have averaged over four times annual interest charges on these notes. For 1922 (December estimated) such earnings were $2,600,000, or over five and one-half times such charges. These figures include earnings of the Columbus Iron and Steel company prior to the consolidation in 1917. These notes are a sound investment.

TURN IN SAVINGS CERTIFICATES MATURING JAN. 1

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—Approximately one-third of the $625,000,000 in war savings certificates, maturing Jan. 1, were turned into the treasury for redemption or exchange into new treasury savings certificates during the first week after their maturity, according to the treasury.

Something like $100,000,000 worth of the stamps were offered for redemption or exchange in the first two days of the month, a statement made public said, but since then the offers of holders of the certificates to cash them in or take new treasury offerings in exchange has materially slowed.

The treasury again called attention that interest on the 1918 issue of war savings certificates stopped Jan. 1 and urged the holders of such securities to present them for payment.

The exchanges may be made without loss of interest to Jan. 15.

From his letter, Mr. J. Ogden Armour, Chairman of the Board of Armour and Company, of Illinois, summarizes as follows:

PROPERTIES AND BUSINESS: The new Company has been organized under the laws of the State of Delaware to acquire from Armour and Company, of Illinois, certain of its properties and assets for the purpose of facilitating the administration and financing of its business. The properties and assets to be acquired include certain packing houses and cold storage plants, the Armour Fertilizer Works and various other American subsidiaries, all of the South American and Cuban subsidiaries, plants devoted to the manufacture and distribution of by-products, including the Armour Soap Works, and approximately $23,000,000 of investments.

All of the common stock of the new Company will be owned by Armour and Company, of Illinois, which will receive the proceeds of the $50,000,000 of First Mortgage Twenty-Year 5½% Guaranteed Gold Bonds, Series A, and of the $60,000,000 of 7% Guaranteed Preferred Stock, to be presently issued by the new Company.

PROCEEDS OF ISSUE: The proceeds of this issue of $50,000,000 First Mortgage Twenty-Year 5½% Guaranteed Gold Bonds, Series A, and of said $60,000,000 par value of 7% Guaranteed Preferred Stock will be received by Armour and Company, of Illinois, and used by it for the retirement of its $59,968,000 7% Ten-Year Convertible Gold Notes, and its $3,697,200 6% Serial Convertible Gold Debentures, for the reduction of its floating indebtedness, and for its other corporate purposes.

SECURITY: Upon completion of the present financing, these bonds, by direct mortgage of the new Company and through the pledge of first mortgage bonds or obligations of subsidiaries, will be secured by a first mortgage upon lands, buildings, machinery, fixed equipment and properties appurtenant thereto, appraised by the American Appraisal Company at sound values exceeding $85,000,000.

EARNINGS: Based upon the earnings of the properties to be acquired by the new Company, the net earnings available for interest for the six-year period ending October 29, 1921, after appropriate adjustments and after depreciation and Federal Taxes at present rates, as certified by Price, Waterhouse & Co., average approximately $14,923,000, or more than 5 times the annual interest requirements on the $50,000,000 First Mortgage Twenty-Year 5½% Guaranteed Gold Bonds, Series A, to be presently issued.

For the first eleven months of the calendar year 1922, notwithstanding the adverse conditions prevailing during the first half of the year, the net earnings of these properties on the same basis applicable to interest on said $50,000,000 of bonds amount to approximately $7,900,000, or more than 2⅔ times the annual interest requirements thereon.

During the recent period of depression in the industry, Armour and Company, of Illinois, suffered severe losses, but operations during the past few months have resulted in substantial profits, thus indicating a return toward normal conditions.

ASSETS: The consolidated balance sheet of the new Company as of August 26, 1922, after giving effect to the issuance of its $60,000,000 of Preferred Stock and $50,000,000 of First Mortgage 5½% Guaranteed Gold Bonds, Series A, and the receipt of the proceeds thereof by Armour and Company, of Illinois, as certified by Price, Waterhouse & Co., shows, after deducting all indebtedness except the bonds of this issue, net tangible assets of $178,359,000. As shown therein, the net current assets alone are $60,424,000.

GUARANTY: Armour and Company, of Illinois, will unconditionally guarantee, by endorsement on the bonds of this issue, the payment of the principal thereof and interest thereon.

Price 96 and Interest, Yielding About 5.85 Per Cent

The New York Times.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—One of the peculiarities of a new year season is that, up to the reopening of business after the New Year holiday, every one in Wall street is talking of the "trends" and "tendencies," which we are about to witness in finance, whereas after the resumption of every day business it is suddenly discovered [with a kind of unpleasant disillusion] that trade and the markets are pursuing their course on the basis of just such temporary incidents as caused the fluctuations of Dec. 1. It rarely happens that in the markets the first few weeks of January are anything but disappointing. Last week was evidently in line with precedent.

Allowance must naturally be made for the breakdown of the Paris reparations conference which assembled Jan. 2. If the selection of that date had meant that the statesmen who fixed it hoped that the treaty powers would by that time have turned over a new leaf and reached a frame of mind in which they were sure to agree on whatever was best, then they reckoned too much on New Year influences. Whether England was in the right, or France and the other continental governments, in either case the two positions were mutually incompatible.

Wall Street Perplexed.

The markets read the reports of the proceedings with a kind of hopeless perplexity. It was to have been a wholly different conference from last year's series of deadlocks; the markets had shown such expectation, and financial circles had expressed it with considerable confidence. Yet here was Brussels and London and Genoa and Lausanne again, with some change in personnel, but little in the general stage setting and none in the dramatic climax.

Some people in the financial markets will judge last week's results in the light of the slowly changing attitude of our own government in the matter. Others will judge it by their own convictions as to the certainty or absence of certainty of reaching a final settlement, and of the rest a good many will judge it, as they did last week, by the action of the market itself. Wall street knows by fairly long experience the extent to which the financial community's opinion on a given event, and with it the opinion of other people in touch with the financial community, is shaped by the action of the stock exchange.

Other Critical Cases.

This was clearly the case in the critical days of the coal and railroad strikes last summer; the financial world did not grow really alarmed except on the one or two days when prices wavered, and it recovered courage immediately when the one day reactions on the stock exchange stopped. The alarming inferences which were drawn after the November election were scarcely heard in Wall street after the market had resumed its advance. If a 3 or 4 point decline had occurred last Thursday and Friday, the probability is that at the end of the week the European situation would have been talked about in a far more despondent tone.

Yet the steadiness of the market in the face of the news from Paris does not prove that the news had no disquieting possibilities. Much of this influence of the stock exchange movement on financial feeling is purely psychological. It is always possible that the market on such occasions indicates either private information of a reassuring nature in important quarters or at least a consensus of the best financial judgment on ultimate results. It is also possible, however, that other influences in the financial situation are so favorable as to supersede and outweigh a distinctly unfavorable development in the European news.

A Few Deductions.

Supposing this to be the present case, it would leave the reparations tangle to be judged on its own merits as a future influence on finance. That is not easy to do. The mere fact that France had taken formal control of certain German cities, as a pledge of future reparations payment, would not necessarily create a situation very different from the present occupation of the Rhine country by the allied armies.

The three considerations which have been in the financial mind as a result of a practicable compromise are the preservation of the entente, the economic relief of France through German payments, and the introduction of financial reforms by Germany herself. But there is no sign of a break in the entente. The British plan at Paris gave no prospect of payments to France during several years, and abandonment by Germany of her government's utterly reckless performances in home finances is a matter which that government itself would have had to settle, with or without an agreement at Paris. In other words, it may turn out that, unfortunate as the conference deadlock admittedly was, it has not actually changed the general situation.

Cloud to Hang Over Market.

But in many of its aspects that situation is most unpleasant. Eventually it must be dealt with in some conclusive way and until that is done it will at least remain as a cloud over the financial and economic prospect. It will not stop legitimate economic revival, but it may set a limit to its continuance. Whether the ultimate and inevitable solution of the problem is to come from France, or from the United States, or from Germany itself, whose attitude has thus far been simply stubborn refusal to do anything but ask remissions and gratuities, is a question which will be uppermost in the season's financial markets of the near future.

Thus far the markets, home and foreign, for European government securities and for European exchange, have not done much more than to decline in a precautionary way. This week will presumably give at least a clearer view of the financial attitude.

4 Bargains AT THE Peerless FACTORY BRANCH.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 55, TOURING CAR. This car, taking into consideration its appearance and condition, is a real bargain. Do not let the price we have put on it scare you or influence your judgment, because this car is not one that is worn out or ready to be junked. The former owner had just spent in overhauling almost as much as we are asking. The equipment is complete and we do not believe you can duplicate it at anywhere near our price of $450.

HUDSON TOURING CAR, 1919. A beautiful 7 passenger touring car that has just been turned in on one of our new Peerless enclosed cars and we feel very fortunate in being able to offer it at such a ridiculously low price. Mechanically it runs smoothly and quietly. Paint is excellent, tires good, in fact, it is a very good looking car and shows no signs of excessive use. A real bargain for any one who would appreciate owning a car that we know has had the care and attention that this one has had. See it today. Price $600.

CADILLAC 8, TYPE 59, TOURING CAR. In order to complete a new car deal this car must be disposed of immediately. It is in such condition that we feel it would be very difficult for you to distinguish it from new. Newly finished, seat covers, bumper, excellent cord tires, and mechanically exceptionally fine—all this in a late model Cadillac Touring Car at a price that we know is far below its market value. It must be moved today, for that reason we will sacrifice it for $1,475.

PEERLESS SEDAN, 1922. We have just exchanged this car for one of our latest series for spring delivery and feel fortunate in being able to offer this car to the public. It is the first one of this type that we have had for some time and the last one we had only stayed in our possession a few days. This one can hardly be told from new. If you are interested in the purchase of a high grade 5 or 7 passenger enclosed car, do not fail to see this one, because it is the nearest thing to a new car that you have ever looked at. It will carry the standard warranty of the Peerless Motor Car Company and it will be sold for the extremely low price of $2,500.
